PREFACE.

T-on45.97

THE success attending the first appearance of TITLED PERSONS afforded immediate and most gratifying evidence of the success of the publishers' attempt to produce a reliable Peerage at a popular price. Although not issued until the last days of February, it attained a sale largely exceeding that of all the higher priced Peerages combined, and the publishers have to express their gratitude for the tone of general welcome accorded to it by public and Press alike. The WINDSOR PEERAGE, till recently edited by the late Mr. Edward Walford, has now been amalgamated with it, and several of the numerous improvements effected in the Introduction are due to this acquisition.

The Edition for 1898 is to a very large extent a re-written work. The original has been laboriously revised, re-modelled, and greatly enlarged—the enlargement being indeed far more considerable than is at first apparent, owing to a much more extended use of the smaller type. Its main source will be found to consist in the greater fulness of detail given throughout, though the exceptional number of the Jubilee Honours caused the insertion of some hundreds of additional names.

The most important change introduced has been the presentation of the entire issue and other titled relatives of each Peer under the article devoted to that Peer himself, instead of distributing them under their several headings. These entries are, however, still retained as references, so that the degree of advantage attaching to the former arrangement is preserved side by side with the greatly increased convenience of the new one. Among other improvements are the insertion of the maiden name of all wives who are bearers of titles, the addresses of Peers' issue where obtainable, and a brief notice of the leading services of each Companion of Knighthood.

Proofs have this year been sent out to many of the Nobility and others whose names occur in the Work. For the emendations thus elicited, as well as for those sent by numerous correspondents, the publishers have to acknowledge their indebtedness and express their hearty thanks.

FROM THE

PREFACE TO THE FIRST ISSUE.

In making this attempt at the provision of a second popular annual the publishers feel confident that a work supplying—at so inconsiderable a cost, and in that readiest of arrangements a single alphabet—all the most requisite information in respect of every person of title, could not fail, if properly executed, to secure an adequate measure of success. The event must prove how far this condition has been observed. The selection and re-selection of the material; the insertion of particulars in one case which are rejected in another; the adjustment of frequently recurring discrepancies between authorities; and, perhaps not least, the settling of the form and style, together with the growth and expansion of the design itself as the work proceeded, have formed some of the chief difficulties inseparable from the production of a first issue.

The efforts to ensure accuracy, and, within the announced limits, completeness also, have been conscientious and unremitting. In many instances the publishers have been favoured with personal information, in respect of which they have to express their gratitude. They have, however, to acknowledge their indebtedness to a number of the excellent works already in existence. For the lengthy Introduction, one of the principal sources is noted on the first page; for the unusually extended list of the Royal Family the details have been largely gathered from the 'Almanach de Gotha;' the Marriage Alliances with Foreign Houses, and the Index to the Names, which it is hoped may be found particularly serviceable, being wholly original designs.

The work is not put forward as by any means perfect; many suggestions for its improvement will doubtless be made, while others have already suggested themselves. The publishers do not only look for but will welcome criticism; tending, as it undoubtedly must, to render the DIRECTORY OF TITLED PERSONS year by year more useful and complete.—Feb. 10, 1897.

DESCRIPTION OF TITLE-PAGE.

THERE is here either latent or patent a considerable amount of illustration of the following pages. Turning first to the corners, we have at the upper left a representation of the Star of the Order of the Garter, at the right that of the Thistle, at the lower left that of St. Patrick, and at the lower right that of the Military Division of the G.C.B., exhibiting the correct form of a Maltese Cross (the clefts in which are, however, often somewhat deeper). Turning now to the oval design surrounding the letter-press, we need only remark of the series of coronets, &c., that "Nephews" corresponds to "Princes and Princesses of the Blood" on p. 15, and "Royal Dukes" to "Princes of the Blood Royal," while the "Cap of Dignity" was once a head-dress of Royalty and appears to have been a favourite with Henry the Seventh. As to the Archbishop's mitre, which some protest ought to be in no wise different from a Bishop's, our remarks under the headings of these two Orders will suffice to make our position clear in the matter. The intermediate devices connected by chainwork are intended to show the forms of the Collars worn by the respective four Orders of Knighthood just described, to each of which belongs that quarter of the Collar lying nearest to its own figured Star. Thus perpendicularly under the Garter corner is a medal-garter depicting one of the twenty-six which are worked into the actual Collar, and on each side of it, though interrupted by the coronets, is a true-lover's knot as described p. 33. The adjacent upper quarter is devoted to the Thistle, and exhibits the device of that symbol with the intervening sprigs of rue as they are found in the Collar of the Order. Against the quarter of St. Patrick will be found the harp, rose, and knot, the series of which three make up the St. Patrick Collar. Lastly, against the Bath corner we have the crown of four arches (which we have ventured to call the Albert Crown from its having been the form worn by the late Prince Consort), the device of rose, thistle, and shamrock, and the knot. The entire chainwork, being double, may also be said to belong more particularly to this Order, as in the Collar of the Garter it appears on the inner margin only, and in those of the other two Orders the objects are attached together by their edges and without chains. Surmounting the entire oval of the title-page are the St. Edward's or Imperial Crown, and the Sceptre Royal.

On the back of the volume the upper device exhibits the helmet and armed bust of a King, the lower those of a Knight.

INTRODUCTION.

THE SOVEREIGN.

THE ROYAL LINES.—As the course of succession of the English monarchs is clearly traced as to relationship, &c., in the Tables of Sovereigns presented in WHITAKER'S ALMANACK, we need here only draw attention to those tables. After eighteen Octarchs or Bretwaldas, exclusive of Egbert, the first fully recognised King of all England, there followed for 239 years the Saxon and Danish Kings; then the Normans, and successively the Plantagenets, and the Houses of Lancaster, York, Tudor, Stuart, and the present one of Guelph, Hanover, or Brunswick. Of independent Welsh rulers records will be found from the year 840 up till the conquest of the country by Edward the First in 1282. The line of Scottish Kings is traced in the ALMANACK from a little before William the Conqueror down to 1603, when James the Sixth of Scotland became also James the First of England, though the two countries themselves remained distinct until 1707. Ireland, too, had her regal line, and one reaching even to a fabulous antiquity; some of the Kings are still the objects of national pride, but the record of them as a whole is such as to excuse a measure of incredulity as to the wholly disastrous tendency of the conquests of the island by Henry the Second, Cromwell, and William the Third. For three centuries from the Plantagenet times the English Kings were styled "Lords of Ireland;" Henry the Eighth was the first to substitute the title of King; but this remained a separate clause in the royal list of honours until the Union of 1801 amalgamated it with the principal title under the term "United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland."

King George the Third at his death left seven sons, of whom the first and third succeeded him as George and William the Fourth. Both of these, however, died without leaving issue, as had the second son, the Duke of York, already before them. The fourth son, the Duke of Kent, had also passed away (only six days before his father), but he left, as his only offspring, the Princess Victoria, our present Queen, who, by the law of succession, took precedence of the fifth son, to be presently noticed.

TITLES.—The words "Defender of the Faith" have been retained from the time of their bestowal upon Henry the Eighth by the Pope, but "King of France" was dropped by George the Third at the Union and in the Peace of Amiens. Up to the death of William the Fourth our Hanoverian Sovereigns were also Kings of Hanover, but the Salic Law prevented her present Majesty from succeeding to that rule, so the fifth son of George the Third, the Duke of Cumberland, came to occupy that position, and thus eventually avoided for this country a possibly awkward complication. He filled the throne for six years, and on his death in 1851 was succeeded in due course by his son, the second Duke; and the latter in 1866, at the fiat of Prussia, relinquished his crown without involving England in his protest. From the time of Richard the First the English Sovereigns have habitually spoken of themselves in the plural number; some have assigned a perhaps fanciful reason for this in the fact of their double capacity as heads of the State and also heads of the Church. The original full title of her present Majesty (which has been since somewhat materially altered) is thus given in a work published immediately after her accession, and to which this Introduction is largely and repeatedly indebted:* "Her Most Excellent Majesty Victoria, by the grace of God Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; Defender of the Faith;

* 'The Book of the Court,' by William J. Thoms, F.S.A. (London: H. G. Bohn, 1838; 2nd edit., 1844).

Sovereign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter; of the Most Ancient Order of the Thistle; of the Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick; of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath; and of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George, of the Ionian Islands and of the Island of Malta."

REGALIA.—The robes and insignia worn by her present Majesty on state occasions have been those of the Sovereign of the Order of the Garter—the diamond badge and stars, the distinctive ribbon over the left shoulder, and an armlet with the motto of the Order—to which she has been wont to add a splendid head-circlet of diamonds. The mantle of this rank is of blue velvet; but we are told that the Queen used to appear in Parliament in red, and that at her coronation she went in crimson and was invested in purple. Among the jewels at the Tower there are shown, besides the lighter (unarched) adornment called the Queen's Diadem, two crowns of royal use—St. Edward's Crown, and the State Crown made for her present Majesty in 1838. This crown was certainly worn upon the day of her coronation; but the official instructions of the Earl Marshal inform us most explicitly that the ceremony itself was to be performed with St. Edward's Crown. In the Introduction to 'Debrett's Peerage' there is presented a full description of the "Imperial State Crown" made for Her Majesty in the above year; but as this information is given in the form of a note appended to the "Heraldic Crown," with the figure of which most of the items appear to agree, the conclusion naturally formed by the reader is that it is this Heraldic Crown which was constructed at that date. But this is certainly not the fact, and the Heraldic Crown appears to be little more than a figment of heraldry, though its contour resembles that of the miniature "Half-Crown" worn on semi-state occasions; it is used, by Her Majesty's consent, in representations of the crown upon royal arms, coins, and so forth, some people (perversely to our ideas) fancying it to be more graceful than the St. Edward's Crown. This latter, however, is clearly the one figured in 'Debrett' as the "Royal Crown," whilst that made for her present Majesty and so carefully described in that excellent 'Peerage' is not figured there at all. The great features of distinction between the three may be thus stated: The Heraldic Crown has its surmounting "arches" or diadems rising sharply from their bases to the summit; the St. Edward's Crown has these bulging at first outwards, and then brought back so as to form a nearly flat summit to the crown, but with a slight depression where they intersect; while in the State Crown they rise almost perpendicularly to the bend, after which they continue to tend towards a slight elevation at the summit. The term "an imperial crown" is often applied vaguely to any regal crown as distinguished from a coronet, but in this Introduction we shall use it exclusively of St. Edward's Crown, which was so called from a supposed resemblance (though a very remote one, for the original had probably no "arches") to the one worn by Edward the Confessor, and before him by Alfred the Great. Charles the Second had one made on the traditional pattern, which continued to be used by his successors as far as Anne; the Georges introduced a larger one still, made on the same model, and this is the actual crown worn by William the Fourth and now preserved in the Tower. It has the minor distinction of having the upper rim of its principal circle entirely even, whilst that of Her Majesty's Crown is wrought into festoons, to which feature the Heraldic Crown adheres; all three concur in possessing upon this rim four crosses-pattée alternating with four fleurs-de-lis—the former ornaments denoting the Sovereign's religious headship, and the latter being a survival of his French dominion. Queen Victoria's Crown yet again observes the divergent feature, borrowed from that of Henry the Eighth, of having its velvet cap of violet instead of crimson or purple as is usual: like other caps, it is lined with white silk and bordered or turned up with ermine. The crown itself is wholly of gold, but completely covered over in every part of its surface with a blaze of jewels. The four crosses-pattée—frequently, but we believe incorrectly, called Maltese crosses *—are at the front, back, and on each side, the fleurs-de-lis being consequently at the diagonal positions. The arches, which rise from behind the crosses, are decked with diamonds in the form of wreaths, while four large pear-shaped pearls hang from their upper part. Above their intersecting point over the crown of the head is a miniature of the "orb" to be presently described—the ball being completely overlaid with diamonds, whilst the cross has a sapphire in its centre with numerous brilliants around. The entire crown contains nearly 2800 diamonds (brilliant, rose, or table), 377 pearls, 17 sapphires, 11 emeralds, and 5 rubies, including one stated to have belonged to the Black Prince. Its weight is 3lb. 3½oz. Troy—quite a sufficient load for a female head.

* There are a very large variety of crosses-pattée, but in all the figures given of them in one of the best Dictionaries of Heraldry we do not find one corresponding with the correct Maltese cross, the four limbs of which are cleft at the extremities as shown in our title-page in the right-hand lower corner.

and only too symbolical of the weight of cares which it entails; and yet we read that a crown worn in mid-English history scaled up to something over 7lb., whilst even that of George the Fourth weighed 5½ lb.

Next among the insignia comes the Orb or Mound (the French monde, therefore equivalent to "orb"), which is a somewhat ponderous emblem of sovereignty, consisting of a globe 6 inches in diameter surmounted by a cross, which brings up the entire device to a height of 11 inches. The globular portion is of gold, and is engirt with a band set with diamonds, emeralds, rubies, and pearls; on its summit is a large amethyst, from which springs a golden cross bedecked with diamonds, pearls, a sapphire, and an emerald. Next in order we note three sceptres—the Sceptre with the Cross, or Royal Sceptre; St. Edward's Staff (surmounted by an orb said to contain wood from the true Cross), and the Sceptre with the Dove (there are two of these in the Tower as there are two Orbs—explained by the double coronation of William and Mary): these are of gold, set with jewels, and finished by a "mound," from which the dove, when there is one, appears to spring. The Sword of State claims the next notice, though in the case of our present Sovereign it was simply placed in her hands at her coronation; but Queen Anne had it actually girded on. There are three other swords borne before the Sovereign at this ceremony, but, like St. Edward's Staff, not personal insignia: the Sword of Mercy (called, like King Arthur's weapons, by a proper name, "Curtana"), a rounded instrument; the Sword of Justice to the Spirituality, which is obtuse; and the Sword of Justice to the Temporality, which is sharp-pointed. Next comes the Ring, which is of plain gold with a large ruby, on which is engraved the Cross of St. George. Finally come the Spurs, called the Great Golden Spurs (used at the coronation only), which are without rowels, but highly wrought, and are attached to embroidered velvet straps. Some further notices of the Coronation Regalia will be found in the footnotes that follow.

We may conclude this account of regal decorations with an amusing story told in Thoms's 'Book of the Court'—a story, in fact, just a little too amusing to find entire credence in these days of education, though vouched for as an actual occurrence. A 'country gentleman" was once taken to a London theatre on an occasion when George the Fourth was a spectator, and His Majesty was of course pointed out to our visitor's observation. Reluctantly he gave in for a time to the persuasion that the portly figure was really that of a king, though distinguished by no crown and sceptre; but presently he was fully convinced that a hoax was being played upon him, for the regal shoulders most certainly bore the ordinary human pair of limbs, and had he not been taught from his veriest childhood that the "arms" of the king were the lion and the unicorn!

Accession of a New Sovereign.—From the time of Henry the Eighth it has been a recognised constitutional principle that immediately upon the death of a monarch his heir becomes his already constituted successor. We may now follow up the course of occurrences upon the accession of her present Majesty. Upon the decease of William he Fourth, the Lords in attendance at that event proceeded forthwith, though it was but two o'clock in the morning, to apprise his royal successor of her new position, having ven to require her to be aroused from sleep on account of the urgency of the business. A meeting of the Privy Council was summoned in the morning at Kensington Palace, at which orders were given for the proclamation of the new Queen, who had but just turned the age of eighteen, thus narrowly obviating the appointment of a Regent. Those present were then re-sworn as members of the newly-constituted Council. Several public announcements followed in the course of that day, the first signed by all the members of the Royal Family, the two English Archbishops, the Privy Councillors in attendance, and the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and other leading citizens of London—making known the event of his late Majesty's decease "at twelve minutes past two o'clock" of that morning, and pronouncing the succession to have come to "the High and Mighty Princess Alexandrina Victoria, saving the right of any issue of his late Majesty King William the Fourth which may be born of his late Majesty's consort." The second paper recorded the Queen's Declaration on ascending the throne, and the third announced her prompt subscription to the oath relating to the Church of Scotland. The House of Lords met in the morning at a quarter past ten, and again in the afternoon, for the purpose of taking the oaths of allegiance and supremacy; the Commons—which House is not dissolved by the death of a Sovereign as commonly supposed—assembling at noon for the like purpose. The formal public proclaiming of the Queen took place on the following day, the 21st of June, when Her Majesty, attired in mourning, and accompanied by the Duchess of Kent and the great officers of state, appeared at a window of he Presence Chamber in St. James's Palace, and Sir William Woods, Clarenceux

King of Arms, with whom was the Duke of Norfolk as Earl Marshal of England, then read the proclamation re-announcing the demise of King William the Fourth, and the accession of "our only lawful and rightful liege lady Alexandrina Victoria the First" as Queen of Great Britain and Ireland: the word "Alexandrina" was subsequently omitted on the discovery that the Queen had signed her name at the Privy Council as "Victoria" alone. A state procession of officials, with trumpeters, heralds, and Lifeguards, was then formed and started for the City, reiterating the reading of the announcement at Charing Cross, Temple Bar (where the Lord Mayor and City officers joined in), Wood Street, and the Royal Exchange.

CORONATION.—This ceremony, elaborate and solemn as it is, is after all only a formal ratification of an event already of legal force. Moreover, it need not follow immediately upon accession, and when, as in this case, there was an assumed possibility of the birth of a nearer heir, there was reason for an exceptionally long postponement. In this instance it was no less than a year and eight days, whereas in the case of Queen Anne it was only from the 2nd of March to the 23rd of April. The following were the leading features in the coronation of her present Majesty:

The great officers of state, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, with several Bishops, and the noblemen appointed to carry the regalia, first assembled in the Jerusalem Chamber, where the regalia were delivered as follows (the names are interesting to preserve, some of their functions being hereditary, others official):

St. Edward's Staff, to the Duke of Roxburghe.
The Spurs, to Lord Byron, deputy to the Baroness Grey de Ruthyn.
The Sceptre with the Cross, to the Duke of Cleveland.
The Pointed Sword of Temporal Justice, or Third Sword, to the Marquess of Westminster.
The (obtusely) Pointed Sword of Spiritual Justice, or Second Sword, to the Duke of Sutherland.
Curtana, or Sword of Mercy, to the Duke of Devonshire.
The Sword of State, to Viscount Melbourne.
The Sceptre with the Dove, to the Duke of Richmond.
The Orb, to the Duke of Somerset.
St. Edward's Crown, to the Duke of Hamilton as Lord High Steward.
The Patina, to the Bishop of Bangor.
The Chalice, to the Bishop of Lincoln.
The Bible, to the Bishop of Winchester.

Her Majesty, with the Princes and Princesses of the Blood Royal, and attended by the officers of the Household, arrived at the Abbey at eleven o'clock, when after robing she was conducted in procession to the Recognition Chair. Here she was thus surrounded: The Bishops, her supporters, standing on each side; the noblemen bearing the four swords on Her Majesty's right hand, the Sword of State being nearest to the royal person; the Lord Great Chamberlain and the Lord High Chancellor on her left; the other great officers of state, the noblemen bearing the regalia, the Dean of Westminster, Deputy Garter, and Black Rod standing near the Queen's chair. The Archbishop now made the "Recognition," a form calling upon those present to "recognise" their "undoubted Queen," which was repeated at each of the four sides of the area, the people responding with acclamations and the trumpets and drums closing the Recognition. The Queen now made her "First Offering," of a pall or altar-cloth of gold with a 1lb. ingot of the metal, after which she went to the (secondary) Chair of State. The Declaration against Popery having been made on a previous occasion, the Coronation Oath* is taken and signed, the Queen removes to the St. Edward's or Coronation Chair,† and then follows the ceremony of anointing. The Dean of Westminster takes from the altar the Ampulla‡ containing the consecrated oil, and, pouring some into the Anointing Spoon,§ the Archbishop anoints Her Majesty on the head and hands,‖ in the

* This oath requires the Sovereign to govern according to the statutes and customs, to cause law and "justice in mercy" to be executed in "all your judgments," and "to the utmost of your power" to maintain the laws of God, the true profession of the gospel, and the Protestant Reformed Religion established by law; also preserving their due rights and privileges to the Bishops, clergy, and churches.

† The Coronation Chair, a venerable oak structure said to have been made in the reign of Edward the First, who had brought from Scotland the sacred Inauguration Stone, and had it embedded beneath the seat of this chair. This famous stone is of a sandy granular formation, consisting principally of quartz but with an intermixture of felspar, mica, and hornblende, and measures in inches, 26 × 16¾ × 10½; it is called the Stone of Destiny, and possesses a mythical origin. It is traced from Scotland to Ireland, thence to Spain (where a king of Scottish race had given it to his son, Simon Brek, whom he sent to Ireland with an army), and before even this it was said to have come from Egypt—in fact, it was the identical stone used by Jacob for a pillow! Another story represents it to have been hauled up out of the sea in the form of an already-constructed chair by the sailors of Simon Brek himself.

‡ Called also the Golden Eagle, it being a vessel in that form, the head made to screw off for reception of the oil, which is poured out through the beak. There is a legend that this Eagle was presented by the Holy Virgin to St. Thomas à Becket, who gave it in charge to a monk of Poictiers, who again secreted it—with other similar treasures and a written account of the vision—in a church at that place, whence they came into the hands of the Black Prince, who deposited them in the Tower.

‖ Queen Anne was further anointed upon the breast, and it fell to the lot of the Dean of Westminster to follow form of a cross. The Spurs (page 3) and a royal sword are then handed to Her Majesty and are both passed by her to the altar, the sword being forthwith "redeemed" by the Prime Minister for one hundred shillings. The Queen is next invested by the Dean with the imperial mantle or Dalmatic Robe of cloth of gold; the Archbishop delivers the Orb into her right hand (which she presently returns to the Dean), and puts the Ruby Ring* on the fourth finger of the same hand. The Duke of Norfolk, as Lord of the Manor of Worksop,† presents to Her Majesty a glove for her right hand, embroidered with the arms of Howard, which Her Majesty puts on. The Archbishop then delivers the Sceptre with the Cross into her right hand, and that with the Dove into her left hand, the Lord of the Manor of Worksop supporting Her Majesty's right arm and holding the sceptre as occasion may require.

Now follows the Coronation itself. The Archbishop standing before the altar, and having St. Edward's Crown before him, takes the same into his hands and consecrates it; he then comes from the altar, "assisted by the Archbishops of York and Armagh, with the Bishops of London, Winchester, and other Bishops, the Dean of Westminster carrying the crown; and the Archbishop takes and places it on Her Majesty's head; when the people, with loud and repeated shouts, cry, 'God save the Queen;' and immediately the Peers and Peeresses present put on their coronets, the Bishops their caps, and the Kings of Arms their crowns: the trumpets sounding, the drums beating, and the Tower and Park guns firing by signal."

Every stage in the procedure is accompanied by some form of devotional service—exhortation, prayer, or anthem, for which see the 'Church Service.' And now, the Queen being fully crowned, she is lifted into her Throne (distinct from all three of the chairs already named), and then the nobility, each rank separately, proceed to tender their homage, the Royal Dukes taking the initiative. Her Majesty next makes at the altar her Second Offering (a purse of gold), and then repairs to the Coronation Chair, where she kneels on the faldstool till herself and the ecclesiastics have communicated (the Archbishop tendering the bread and the Dean the wine); she then returns to her Throne and with her own hands resumes her crown (her own new crown?), the sceptres also being returned to her and supported as before. The regalia are then returned to their respective bearers, the Queen's "Royal Imperial Mantle" is exchanged for her "Royal Robe of Purple Velvet," and, with the Crown on her head, the Sceptre with the Cross in her right hand, and the Orb in her left, Her Majesty, with the re-formed procession, in which the Princes, Princesses, and Peers wear their coronets, and the ecclesiastics their square caps, passes from the choir to the west door of the Abbey, whence the Royal Family and Household return in state to Buckingham Palace.

In the lengthy account of Queen Anne's coronation contained in a "Formulary" preserved in the British Museum, we have details of the proceedings in Westminster Hall after the ceremonies in the Abbey had terminated. The Queen ascended the throne in the Hall, before which a table was spread for a banquet. At the end of the first course the Hall was temporarily cleared, and the Queen's Champion,‡ "on a goodly white horse," and fully armed, attended by the Earl Marshal and the Lord High Constable, who were also on horseback and in robes and coronets, and with trumpeters, sergeants-at-mace, esquires, heralds, and pages, rode into the Hall, the trumpets sounded thrice, and the herald proclaimed at the entrance the Champion's challenge: "If any person, of what degree soever, high or low, shall deny or gainsay our sovereign lady Queen Anne," &c., &c. Then the Champion threw down his gauntlet, which lay for a short time, when the herald took it up and returned it to him. This proceeding was twice repeated—in the middle of the Hall and at the steps of the throne—when the Champion, on finally receiving his gauntlet back, put it on and made a low obeisance to the Queen. Her Majesty thereupon drank to him out of a gold cup, then sent the cup to him filled, the process by wiping "with fine linen or fine Lombart wool." A king was formerly anointed on the head, the bowings of the arms, on both shoulders, between these, on the breast, and on the hands. The oil for the ceremony is still consecrated, as stated in the words of the text, but evidently beforehand.

* Styled by some "the wedding ring of England." There is a legend attached to this ornament also. King Edward the Confessor is related to have been once asked alms of by a certain "fayre old man," to whom, having nothing else at hand to bestow, he gave this ring. Soon after this two English pilgrims happened to lose their way in the Holy Land, where "there came to them a fayre ancient man, wyth whyte heer for age." Having learnt their mishap and who they were, he "comforted theym goodly, and . . . brought theym in the ryghte waye agayne . . . And whan he shold depart fro theym, thenne he tolde theym what he was, and sayd, 'I am Johan the Evangelyst, and saye ye vnto Edward your kyng, that I grete him well by the token that he gaff to me thys rynge with his own handes, whych rynge ye shalle delyver to hym agayne;' and whan he had delyvered to theym the rynge, he departed fro theym sodenly."—Goldene Legende, p. 187.

† The holder of this latter title has customarily filled this position.

‡ The office of King's Champion is stated by Sir W. Dugdale to have been founded by William the Conqueror, who bestowed it upon Baron de Marmion, in whose family it remained till, by the extinction of the direct line, it passed to that of Sir John Dymoke, by one of whose descendants, Frank S. Dymoke, Esq., it is held at the present day.

when he drank out of it, and, with another obeisance, carried it off as his fee, returning from the Hall as he came. The second course was then brought in, after which the Queen departed privately to her palace. There was no banquet or procession in the Hall at the coronation of her present Majesty.

THE ROYAL FAMILY (AS REGARDED CONSTITUTIONALLY).

THE CONSORT OF A REIGNING QUEEN.—The Constitution has never attached any special privileges to this personage, of whom we have had only three examples in our history. Philip of Spain, though designated King-Consort, and though the statutes were enacted under the joint names of "Philip and Mary," was, to his deep disgust, most rigidly excluded from anything more than a nominal dignity. The late lamented Prince Consort, again, received that title by individual creation, as he had received that of "Royal Highness." Prince George of Denmark, husband of Queen Anne, constitutes the third example.

THE QUEEN-CONSORT.—When a married King occupies the throne, his consort, unlike the above, holds a specially privileged position, having her own officers distinct from the King's and being in a legal point a single rather than a married woman. She has her personal revenue from reserved portions of the rents due to the Crown, as well as from a variety of perquisites. She is crowned on the same occasion with the King himself, or by special ceremony after her marriage; but in either case the act proceeds as performed at his injunction and not by the will of the people. The Queen-Consort's Crown is one of the regalia to be seen at the Tower, where it is also known as "the Ancient Queen's Crown." In its general construction it resembles St. Edward's Crown.

THE QUEEN DOWAGER.—This royal lady remains in most respects in the same position as when she was Queen-Consort, but it is no longer high treason, as it then was, to conspire her death. No man can marry her without permission from the reigning Sovereign, but she does not forfeit her royalty by marriage with a subject.

THE HEIR TO THE THRONE.—We need only note under this heading, which is preliminary to the next, that, as with the heir to other dignities, he is styled "the Heir Apparent" if a son or grandson of the Sovereign, but if any other relative, "the Heir Presumptive" (even if a daughter, as it is "presumed" that there may be born a son to displace her). In either case such personage, though still only a subject, is next in the realm to the Sovereign, at whose right hand he sits in assemblies of state, while to conspire his death or that of his consort is high treason.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.—The usual Heir Apparent to the Throne, the eldest son of the Sovereign, bears this title, but by individual investment and not by birth. He is born Duke of Cornwall in the Peerage of England; Duke of Rothsay, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles, and Prince and Great Steward or Seneschal of Scotland; Earl of Dublin in the Peerage of the United Kingdom; and Knight of the Garter; whilst at the Sovereign's pleasure he is created by patent Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester, the patent testifying that he is confirmed in the same by the "ensigns of honour, the girding on of a sword, the delivering of a cap and placing it on his head, with a ring on his finger and a golden staff in his hand, according to custom," all at the hands of his royal parents; the additional titles of Duke of Saxony and Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, borne alike by the present Prince and his royal brothers, are an inheritance from their father which, it is stated, will not descend further except in the family of the Reigning Duke, to whom the Prince of Wales soon after his marriage resigned the succession; we, however, find them borne by the Duke of York, perhaps on account of his father having been the original heir. The Prince is a born member of the House of Lords, and minority in his case does not count, though, by the present Prince, the seat was not taken until full age was attained. It has been asserted that in the case of the decease of a King's eldest son, no second son, though he becomes Heir Apparent, can bear the title of Prince of Wales; but it will be safer to say with Sir Edward Coke, that he cannot become Duke of Cornwall. A Parliament of Richard the Second limited the title of Earl of Chester in the same way; but "that whole Parliament was repealed," says Selden, and we conclude that with the earldom the principality may be allowed to shift. This title of Prince of Wales was originally borne by those native rulers of that territory who governed it as suzerains of the English Crown; and the commonly received though not wholly undisputed story of the transfer of this title to the heirs of the latter is that Edward the First, when expecting the birth of a son, promised the Welsh to give them a Prince "free from any blemish upon his honour and unable to speak a word of English;" and that he then sent at once for Queen Eleanor, whose child was duly born at Carnarvon Castle. The title thus practically dates from the year 1284, and was at first actually intended to be hereditary, the King's lands in Wales having in 1301 been formally settled upon the then Prince and his heirs; but upon that Prince succeeding to the throne as Edward the Second (his elder brother Alphonso having died) the title became merged in the Crown, and from that day it has in every instance been made a distinction of personal investiture. The above string of Scottish titles were conferred in 1469 upon the eldest son of the King of Scotland, and thus they naturally passed with James the First to the Royal House of Great Britain: in fact there was prefixed to them, on the union of the two Crowns, the still loftier title, "Prince of Great Britain and Ireland," though this has never succeeded in supplanting the one that had come down from Plantagenet times. It must be observed that "Carrick" is one of the Scottish titles though Irish in sound, and even "Earl of Dublin" is a title of the United Kingdom; in fact, "Knight of St. Patrick" is the Prince's only distinctively Irish honour.

The insignia of the Prince of Wales comprise in the first place the special feature known as the Prince of Wales's Feathers, consisting of three ostrich plumes, customarily figured as drooping, though it appears that in 1878 this form was abandoned for the older one in which the feathers are strictly erect. At the base of these is an antique coronet, pendent from which is a scroll with the motto "Ich dien" (I serve)—both feathers and motto having been taken by the Black Prince from the head of the King of Bohemia, who was slain in the Battle of Crecy. The Prince of Wales has also his distinctive coronet, which resembles St. Edward's Crown except that it possesses but a single arch (surmounted however with the orb) and is of gold without jewellery. His Parliamentary mantle is adorned with five bars of ermine, each bar having a gold lace above it; that worn at a coronation is doubled below the elbow with ermine, spotted diamond-wise.

The Princess Royal.—The Sovereign's eldest daughter bears this title, and as she is regarded as a possible successor to the throne, the law hedges her about with the same care as a Queen-Consort. But this privilege extends to no other Prince or Princess. Her coronet is like that of her royal sisters as below.

Remainder of the Royal Family.—Younger daughters enjoy no special precedence beyond that naturally following from near relationship to the Sovereign; neither do younger sons until a dukedom is conferred upon them, when they enter the House of Lords as next in rank after the Prince of Wales. Their seats in that House are to the left of the Throne; but when, upon the death of the Sovereign, they are converted from sons into brothers, they are transferred to the first places in the ordinary ducal bench. This latter position is also occupied by first cousins of a reigning sovereign; but beyond that grade they lose all distinctive precedence and take rank among the other Dukes according to the dates of their patents alone: this is at the present time the case with His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland and Teviotdale (whose title of "Royal Highness" is due to his father having been King of Hanover, for—as stated in the next sentence—that father was the last who would have borne it in virtue of descent from King George the Third). All sons and daughters, brothers and sisters, uncles and aunts of the Sovereign are regarded as of the "Blood Royal" and designated "Royal Highness," and the latter term is bestowed also upon grandsons and granddaughters if they are the offspring of sons; but nephews, nieces, and cousins are Princes and Princesses of "the Blood," and, in common with grandchildren the offspring of daughters, are addressed as "Highness" only, though the husbands of those daughters usually receive by warrant the title of "Royal Highness" for themselves. All subjects are commanded to be uncovered in the presence of any of the Sovereign's children, and to kneel when admitted to kiss their hands; and again, when the Sovereign's self is absent, they are served at table on bended knee. The coronets of Princes of the Blood Royal differ from that of the Prince of Wales in the absence of the surmounting arch with its orb, the place of this latter being supplied, as with coronets generally, by a golden tassel to the cap. Those of Princesses of the Blood Royal vary again from these in the presence of two strawberry-leaves in place of two of the four crosses-pattée, whilst Princes and Princesses of "the Blood" have strawberry-leaves in place of all four of the fleurs-de-lis.

THE PEERAGE AND ITS DEGREES.

General Remarks.—The rules which govern the arrangements of the Peerage are marked by so many complications that even an expert may occasionally be perplexed. All Peers of England are Peers of Parliament, and have been such from the creation of their titles, except in those instances in which Parliament itself is the more modern. In Scotland and Ireland there are Peerages of equally long standing, and upon the successive Unions of these two Kingdoms a certain number of the Peers of each were granted Imperial titles and summoned to the House of Lords, the new titles being sometimes totally different from the old and sometimes only variations in rank—as Earls in place of Marquesses, or Barons for Earls—the old titles subsisting by the side of the new, and remaining, when of superior rank (which they are not invariably), the respective Peers' ordinary, though not official, designations. No Peerage of Scotland or Ireland will therefore of itself confer a right to a seat in the House of Lords, though, as just remarked, very many of the Scottish and Irish Peers possess Imperial titles in addition, three of them being Peers of all three kingdoms. The use of the term "Imperial" is convenient as covering three variations entailed by the Acts of Union as above: All Peers of Parliament prior to 1707 are classed as "Peers of England" and rank before all others of like degree in the scale of precedency; from that date down to the close of 1800 all fresh creations either in England or Scotland were called "Peers of Great Britain"; and creations from the 1st of January, 1801, onwards, are known as "Peers of the United Kingdom," save only that the Sovereign up till recently possessed power to create one new Peer of Ireland for every three Irish Peerages that had become extinct. One apparent exception to the exclusion of non-Imperial Peers from the House is exhibited in the case of the Elected Representative Peers of Scotland and Ireland, who take their seats by their native titles, but do not hold them as hereditary members—those of Ireland as Life Peers, and those of Scotland for only a single Parliament unless re-elected. No Imperial Peer can be elected a member of the House of Commons, neither can a Scottish Peer; but an Irish Peer who has no Imperial title can be so elected anywhere out of Ireland itself. Viscount Palmerston, so long member for Tiverton, was an eminent example, whilst more recent ones have been afforded by Lords Fermoy, Kensington, Muncaster, and the Earl of Cavan, and we have one at present in Viscount Valentia.

The titles of Peers very commonly have a local connection, but below the rank of Dukes we find more or less numerous examples in which the personal surname gives the title, whilst in the instance of Earl Granville it was the christian name that was so used. With the local titles, broadly speaking, the connecting preposition "of" is inserted (except in the conventional titles of Viscounts and Barons, where it is never used, though common enough in the formal language of their patents); whilst Marquesses and Earls who are designated by their surnames are as a general rule without this word. But to this rule there are several real or apparent exceptions, for we have the "of" inserted in spite of identity with the family name in the titles Ashburnham, Cholmondeley, Coventry, Craven, Lytton, and Onslow, whilst it is omitted when we should naturally have expected it in those of Beauchamp, Belmore, Camden, Cawdor, Cowley, Ferrers, Manvers, Mountcashell, Sondes, Strange, Vane, and Winterton. A caution must also be observed as to assuming too readily that a local title gives always the place of the Peer's principal residence or other connection; for though this is very extensively the case yet there appears to have been a special fancy in the Irish Peerage for selecting a title which was English or Scottish—as Caledon, Conway, Ely, Fife, Headfort, Howth, and Tyrconnell, all of which titles are of Irish creation, though some of the Peers bearing them have other and Imperial titles also conferred.

Descent of the second nobility commonly follows general rules, but there are variations, for whilst in most cases it is limited to heirs male, in many Baronies (including the whole of those older ones conferred by summons instead of patents), and in Scotland in the cases of some higher Peerages, it is open also to females. When this latter succession prevails, it has the peculiar feature (but usually not in Scotland) of ignoring primogeniture and regarding all the daughters as co-heirs, not one of whom can actually obtain the title until she becomes the sole survivor, or else until the Sovereign relieves the dilemma by selecting one of the ladies as immediate recipient. This delay is what is known as a title "falling into abeyance," for which subject see below in the third paragraph under "Barons." A somewhat similar exercise of the prerogative to that by which an abeyance is terminated is that other, noticed under the opening section of "House of Lords," of summoning to that assembly the eldest son of a Peer during his father's lifetime. The succession to different titles is likely to perplex the novice, who finds himself continually confronted with such statements as "The Earldom lapsed but the Barony passed to his relative So-and-so." There may be "limitations of remainder" as they are called (though "extensions of remainder" would often seem more correct) according to which one title is open to female succession or "heirs general," and another only to an eldest son; or a "special remainder" may open one single succession to a brother or any other relative who may be named. But the general law is that a title can only pass to a direct successor of some former bearer of the same. Of course the direct heir comes first in claim; if he, the eldest son, is deceased but leaves sons of his own, the eldest of these sons comes next; if there are none of these then the Peer's next surviving son is turned to, and then his sons and so on. But if there is neither son nor grandson, then the eldest brother of the Peer is looked to for the succession; then his son, then his next brother, and so on through this series as through the former. If the entire series fails to provide an heir, then the law of inheritance goes back the next step and seeks for paternal uncles and their sons in the same routine. But now suppose that the late Baron had been created an Earl, while his predecessors were Barons only; in that case, in default of a special remainder, no one but a son or grandson of his own could possibly succeed him in the Earldom, though his Barony might be open as before to any one who was decended from the 1st Baron. The law with Baronets is the same (except that these can never be females), and hence it sometimes happens that a Baronetcy may subsist after a Peerage has lapsed; it may be "liberated" and make its appearance upon the list of Baronets as if a new creation, though, as all the Peers of the line have themselves been Baronets, the new name may rank, say, as 10th or 15th Bart.

Peers possess various privileges. If members of the House of Lords they cannot be arrested unless for an indictable offence; and whether belonging to that House or not, they can, in charges of felony or treason, be tried only by that House, all the members of which are then summoned to attend, when each one delivers his verdict with the form "upon my honour," a decision being arrived at by the voice of the majority. The Lord Steward sits as president of the court, and enquires the verdict of each Peer, beginning at the lowest rank and proceeding regularly up to the highest. In cases of misdemeanour, however, this elaborate form is not adopted, but the Peer is tried by a jury like other people. Nor does the aforesaid privilege of trial pertain to Scottish or Irish Peers. A Peer is not put upon his oath when sitting in judgment as above, nor yet in a Chancery suit; but if called as a witness, either in the High Court of Parliament or in an ordinary civil or criminal case, the oath is administered to him as to others. He can only be bound to keep the peace in the Court of Queen's Bench or that of Chancery. Peers are not liable to serve on juries, and are entitled to sit covered in courts of justice. To the Irish barony of Kingsale and to the English one of Forester there is, moreover, attached the singular concession of right to remain covered in the presence of the Sovereign: in the former case the favour was granted by King John in acknowledgment of the services of Sir John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster and grandfather of the 1st Baron Kingsale, who had acted as champion of England in a single combat with the representative of France; in the latter it was conceded to John Forester, Esq., a citizen of London, by Henry the Eighth. To assault a Peer (or even his servant in the case of a Peer of Parliament), or to spread a libel respecting him, is an offence treated with exceptional severity. And lastly, among the privileges of the noble order—stated to have been availed of in the reign of Mary, and again by a certain Lord Ferrers—if a Peer is sentenced to be hanged, he has the consolation of swinging by a silken cord.

The forfeiture of nobility can at present only take place through attainder or death, though in the reign of Edward the Fourth a Duke of Bedford was deprived of his rank by an Act of Parliament. If an attainder is pronounced in a case of high treason, its force is absolute and annuls the title for ever; but if only for felony, then if the title was granted by letters-patent and not by summons its effect expires with the death of the Peer deprived. Similarly, if the heir to a peerage should be attainted, then in the case of a writ of summons no descendant of his could ever succeed to the title, though a descendant through a collateral relative might revive the title if the direct heir's issue came to an end; but if the peerage were held by letters-patent the attainder would wholly expire on the decease of the one attainted person. Several instances will be met with in the DIRECTORY of an attainder being removed by Act of Parliament; and then, almost for a certainty, there will be a confusion among authorities as to how many Peers of the title there have been.

The arms of all Peers contain "supporters" (the pair of human, animal, or mythical figures on each side of the shield). Those of many Baronets are similarly distinguished, but of course without the central surmounting coronet, though here again some of them present more or less close imitations of such.

DUKES.—This designation, or its Latin original Dux, is stated by Selden to have been primarily used in this country as one of the appellations of an Earl; but its first employment as the title of a distinct grade was in the eleventh year of Edward the Third, when the Black Prince, who was already Earl of Chester, though not as yet Prince of Wales, was created Duke of Cornwall. In English usage it is thus less ancient than either Earl or Baron, though the military term "Dux" was common even among the Anglo-Saxons, whilst William the Conqueror is an early instance of a foreign Duke. The Duke of Lancaster (1351) was the next creation, and others followed, though so sparingly that when in 1572 the Duke of Norfolk was executed for high treason, the title became wholly extinct. It was speedily revived, however, under James the First, by whom the Dukes of Richmond and Buckingham were created in 1623; whilst Charles the Second restored with full precedence the attainted dukedoms of Norfolk and Somerset, still the leading titles in the English Peerage. The Duke of Norfolk (1483) is thus our Premier Duke and Peer; the Duke of Hamilton (1643) is Premier Duke of Scotland, and the Duke of Leinster (1766) of Ireland. Dukes were anciently created by the ceremony of girding on a sword and throwing a state mantle over the shoulders. They are now, like Peers generally, given their rank by patent. A Duke is styled "Most Noble," or more commonly "Your Grace;" but in very formal language he can be spoken of as "The Most High, Potent, and Noble Prince" (see "Modes of Addressing").

The insignia of a Duke are the coronet and mantle. The coronet, which is worn over a crimson velvet cap with a gold tassel, like that of the younger Princes, is a jewelled circle of gold surmounted by eight golden strawberry-leaves: no coronet of a noble must contain jewels. The mantle, as worn on state occasions in Parliament, is made of fine scarlet cloth lined with white taffeta, with four bars of ermine on each side, each bar surmounted with a gold lace. At coronations this robe gives place to a crimson velvet mantle and surcoat, the former doubled from the neck to the elbow, and having four rows of dark spots on each shoulder. A Duchess on the same occasion wears a crimson velvet mantle the cape of which is furred with minever five inches in breadth, and varied ("powdered" is the technical term) by four bars of black ermine: train, two yards on the ground. Her coronet and cap are like the Duke's.

A Duke's eldest son is in courtesy "born in the degree of a Marquess," and therefore follows this order immediately in the table of precedence, and yet in the eye of the law he is only an esquire: in legal phraseology he is accordingly termed "John ——, Esq., commonly called the Marquess of ——." As a rule, he takes by courtesy his father's second title, and is treated as if he were an actual Marquess; yet his title is often "Earl," once (Manchester) it is "Viscount," and once (Somerset) only "Lord," in which cases he will be termed only "Right Hon." but be unaffected in precedence. A Duke's younger sons are born as in the rank of Earls, though never taking the title of such, but simply prefixing the word "Lord" to their christian names. So a Duke's daughters prefix the word "Lady," but they are "born in the degree of a Marchioness," and rank after these and the wives of Dukes' eldest sons; whilst if a Duke's daughter is the sole heir to his estate she ranks before these last.

MARQUESSES.—The first known use of this title in England was on the elevation, by Richard the Second in 1386, of Robert de Vere, Earl of Oxford, to be Marquess of Dublin, when the King performed the ceremony of girding a sword to his side and placing a golden coronet on his head. Eleven years later the same monarch made the Earl of Somerset Marquess of Dorset; but no further instance occurs till the reign of Henry the Sixth. The word is said to be derived from Marchio, a title previously employed in the description of both Earls and Barons, especially of those who were "Lords Marches" of the frontier counties towards Wales and Scotland. The French form Marquis has obtained preferential use in this country and was till quite lately adhered to in so esteemed a 'Peerage' as that of 'Lodge;' but it is strongly objected to by some, and one of the charges adduced against it in 'The Book of the Court' is its frequent unwarranted adoption as a travelling-title—which it must be confessed is rather a reason for wishing it abolished than for proving it to be wrong. We have, however, both here and in the ALMANACK, decided to adopt what seems to be the more favoured form with the upper circles. The German title corresponding to it is Markgraf, which in historical works is usually rendered "Margrave." The dignity itself has never been one of large occurrence among our nobility. Three times, indeed, it became wholly extinct (either by forfeiture or by the elevation of its possessor to a dukedom, which happened to the Peer who was the third to be made Marquess of Dorset); but in the year 1532 the title of Marchioness was bestowed upon the daughter of the Earl of Wiltshire, and in 1551 the Peer who had then succeeded to this latter title was raised to be Marquess of Winchester, thus becoming the founder of what to this day remains our premier marquessate. The Marquess of Huntly (1599) is premier in Scotland, and the Marquess of Waterford (1789), if decided by the Roll of Marquesses so styled, is premier in Ireland, but the Marquessate of Kildare (1761), merged in the Leinster Dukedom, has an earlier claim if we regard the title itself. The style of a Marquess is "Most Honourable," not "Most Noble," though it is stated that in some formal descriptions both he and an Earl may be termed "Most Noble and Puissant Prince."

As to insignia, the coronet of a Marquess differs from that of a Duke by substituting silver balls (technically called "pearls") for four of the eight strawberry-leaves; whilst the robes take but three and a half bars of ermine or rows of spots (that is to say, four on the right side and three on the left). The Marchioness's coronet has eight silver balls with small strawberry-leaves interposed; her robe has three and a half rows of ermine upon the minever, which is reduced to four inches in width, while the train is a yard and three-quarters in length.

A Marquess's eldest son is "born in the degree of an Earl," and takes usually that courtesy-title, though occasionally only that of Viscount; the younger sons are born in this latter rank, but the daughters in that of Countess. In other respects the corresponding paragraph at the close of "Dukes" applies here also. See, for all degrees, the "Table of Precedency" and "Forms of Addressing."

EARLS.—This degree is much older than either of the preceding, as well as much more numerous. Blackstone says that "Earl is a title of nobility so ancient that its origin cannot clearly be traced out. Thus much seems tolerably certain, that among the Saxons they were called Ealdormen, quasi Elder-men, signifying the same as Senior or Senator among the Romans; and also Schiremen, because they had each of them the civil government of a several division or shire. On the irruption of the Danes they changed the name to Eorles, which, according to Camden, signified the same in their language. In Latin they are called Comites from being the King's attendants. . . . After the Norman conquest they were called *Counts or Counters from the French; but they did not long retain that name themselves, though their shires are from them called counties to this day." This must not, however, be understood to imply that the same Anglo-Saxon nobles retained their lands and positions under the Normans with simply an altered name, for we know too well how largely they were dispossessed, and that it was the Norman appropriators who were termed "Counts," though they speedily came to revert to the title habitual among the conquered people. From the Conquest to Henry the Third "Earls" and "Barons" may thus be said to have been the only dignities existing in England. There are stated to have been two or perhaps three orders of Earls, the highest of which exercised nothing less than a regal jurisdiction—even having power to create Barons—within the counties of which they were granted seisin and possession, and which thus became Counties Palatine. A lower order was made Earl of a county but without this seisin of its territory and with only the tertium denarium or third part of the profits accruing from pleas in the county court; or probably in some instances there was simply made over to them a considerable tract of land to hold for the service rendered by the county. They were thus in some degree all county lords: the first to be created apart from a county was Roger Mortimer, made Earl of March in 1328. The rank of Earls has largely increased, till now in England it amounts to some two-fifths of the number of the Barons; whilst in Scotland, and even more strikingly in Ireland, the proportion of Earls among the nobility is larger still. "For many centuries," says Sir Harris Nicolas,† "earldoms have always been conferred by letters-patent or charters. . . . The investiture has long been dispensed with, and the ancient practice of creating a person Earl of some county or town has, from the great increase of dignities in this country, given place to deriving the title from some village or estate, and even from the name of a family. In most instances the title has been limited to the heirs male of the body of the grantee, but remainders are by no means uncommon to the issue of a sister or daughter, or to some other person named in the patent." The premier earldom in the English Peerage is undoubtedly that of Arundel (1139), merged in the dukedom of Norfolk; but as decided by the list of earls upon the Roll the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot is premier, the former of his two titles dating from 1442. So in the Scottish Peerage the premier earldom is that of Sutherland (1228), now merged in an Imperial dukedom, but the premier earl upon the Roll is Crawford (1398); and again in Ireland we have the earldom of Karryke (1315), merged in the Ormonde marquessate, but the Earl of Waterford (1446) as premier upon the Roll. Earls, Viscounts, and Barons are all designated "Right Honourable."

Under insignia we note that an Earl's coronet is very distinct from that of any other rank by the fact of its eight silver balls being mounted on golden rays which reach to the top of the cap and have small golden strawberry-leaves alternating between them.* His mantle is distinguished from the preceding by having but three bars of ermine &c. A Countess wears a similar coronet, and her robe for coronations has three bars of ermine, a minever edging three inches in breadth, and a train a yard and a half on the ground.

An Earl's eldest son is "born in the degree of a Viscount," and usually takes that courtesy-title; otherwise "Lord." Younger sons are esteemed as equal to Barons, and all daughters as Viscountesses; these latter also receive a preference over the former which is one of the anomalies of the Peerage, they being designated as "Ladies" and "Right Honourables," while the younger sons (and their wives) are only "Honourables." Again see at the conclusion of "Dukes" and under "Precedence" and "Addressing."

VISCOUNTS.—This degree, like that of Marquesses, has been but sparingly conferred, though a very appreciable addition to its numbers has been made during the past twelve years or so. The word, however, was of very ancient usage in the Latin form Vice-comes, Earl's Deputy or Sheriff, which was thus its original function, and it was of old feudal application in France; but its first employment as designating a rank in the English nobility was in 1440, when Henry the Sixth elevated John, Lord Beaumont, to the title of Viscount Beaumont. Letters-patent were then made use of limiting the succession to heirs male of his body; and this form has ever since been the invariable process in the creation of this degree. Twice it became wholly extinct, but it was finally revived in 1550 by the elevation of Baron Ferrers to be Viscount Hereford, his successor being now the premier Viscount upon the Roll. In Ireland this degree is far more numerous than in England—37 against 29—the premier being Viscount Gormanston (1478); in Scotland, on the contrary, it numbers but five, with Viscount Falkland (1620) for premier upon the Roll, and Visc. Fentoun (1606), Earl of Mar and Kellie, as holder of the premier viscounty. At first a viscounty was simply the advancement of a barony, and then its superior accompaniment; but modern Viscounts have usually no second title. It is stated in 'The Book of the Court' that any English Premier on retiring may claim a viscounty, but in practice it would be far better to say this of every Speaker of the House of Commons, for, of the Premiers of the present century, we note three who were made Earls, and six who died or retired without any advancement, the remainder having held the title of Earl or Duke upon entering office.

The insignia consist of the coronet distinguished by from twelve to sixteen silver balls (fourteen is, we believe, the usual number, but it is left indefinite); and of the mantle with two and a half bars of ermine or white fur (i.e., three on the right side and two on the left). A Viscountess's coronet is similar to her husband's, and her coronation robe is marked on the same distinctive rule, and with but two and a half inches of bordering and a train of a yard and a quarter.

A Viscount's eldest son and his daughters are born respectively of the rank of a Baron and of Baronesses; younger sons come lower, but above those of Barons. All sons and daughters without distinction bear the title "Honourable."

BARONS.—The word "Baron" is supposed by some to have been derived from the Celtic Ber or Bar, which served the Romans for the original of their Baro (plural Barones). The Anglo-Saxons altered the title to Thegnes or "Thanes," and these terms, as well as the later one "Baron," were applied both to ecclesiastics and laymen, to designate those men of rank who were about the King. "Baron" came thus, for a long period, to be prefixed to the names of saints (e.g., Baron Saint Jacques), and after it "Monsieur" was similarly used down to the fifteenth century: in France the nobles would even drop the title of "Prince" for that of "Baron," and we read that the family of Montmorency styled themselves "les premiers Barons de la Chrétienté." A Thane under the Anglo-Saxons, if not a courtier as above, was required to possess "fully five hides of his own land," together with a church, a "borough-gate" where he could dispense justice on the Scripture model, and a "kitchen and bell-house" for the exercise of hospitality and the due summoning of his guests to its participation. The Normans either introduced or restored the term "Baron," and it is under their rule that we come to recognise the first of the three orders of Barons who successively figure in the history of this degree.

These were the Barons by Tenure. Amid conflicting and obscure accounts we gather that at the outset these scarcely constituted an order of nobility, for, though the lowest of them were leading citizens, they were as distinctly subordinated to the Earls of their respective counties as the Knights were or came to be subordinate to themselves. But this low estate was only for a time, and eventually their order had grown to so commanding a position in the kingdom that the term "Barons," was used conventionally for the entire nobility, as we find Simon de Montfort, though Earl of Leicester, speaking of himself in the warrant issued in the name of King Henry the Third as "Simon de Montfort with other Barons," though in the same sentence he speaks of the "Earls and Barons of the realm of England." And even during the period when they had to look up to the Earls as their chiefs, they still held their assigned territorial baronies immediately of the King, to whom they had in return to render a stated feudal service. As they grew in importance they were summoned to attend the King's Great Councils—the nucleus of our Parliaments, or at least of the House of Lords, where those who were "Barons and Earls" to the King became "Peers" to each other. The dignity of a Baron was now estimated by the number of his Knights' fees, a Knight being attached to each "fee" or division of his lands, and thus with his retainers contributing to swell the troop with which the Baron could accompany the King to war. It was now held that the fact of a baronial tenure of land constituted in itself a right to a writ of summons to the Great Council. But by the time of John many of the Barons had become greatly impoverished in their estates, and this led those others who still retained the whole of their ancestral domains to obtain the passing of an enactment dividing the order into Barones Majores and Barones Minores, the latter being practically no higher than Knights, though it was impossible to deprive them absolutely of their higher title. These "Lesser Barons," who were called also "Tenants in Chief," appear to have constituted the original members of the House of Commons, the King having taken to summoning individually the Greater Barons, with the Earls, Archbishops, and Bishops, and leaving these others to be summoned collectively by the Sheriff: hence, says Blackstone, commenced the separation of the two Houses. As yet, however, the Lower House was not really established, and the Greater Barons constituted the only regular Legislature for another half-century. Baronies by Tenure have now been long a thing of the past, for even in 1669 it was decided that there had been none "for many ages," though there is still an earldom—that of Arundel—which is attached to the ducal house of Norfolk by the feudal tenure of Arundel Castle.

The dignities of this degree which supplanted them were the Baronies by Writ. We have just observed that the "tenure" was regarded as giving claim to the "writ," but, owing to the prolonged dissatisfaction at the degraded condition of the Lesser Barons, it was enacted in the 49th year of Henry the Third (Dec. 24, 1264) that none should in future come to Parliament except "those Earls and Barons unto whom the King himself vouchsafed to direct his writ of summons." This, though issued in the King's name, was really the proclamation above quoted of Simon de Montfort, who at that time was holding the King as his prisoner; and he on the same occasion, from his seat of Kenilworth Castle, ordained what was practically the commencement of the House of Commons—though it was not a separate House till the reign of Edward the Second, and it has been remarked that probably the commoners came rather as petitioners to plead and suggest what the Peers were to enact—by directing the election, "along with one hundred of the dignified clergy, of two knights for each shire, two citizens for each city, and two burgesses for each borough." The writs in respect of the nobility appear to have been issued but very partially—only "to a small part of the Greater Barons" according to 'Foster's Peerage.' The still existing Baronies then nominated are those of De Ros, Le Despencer (Falmouth viscounty), Hastings, and Segrave (renewed below); but their validity as to date has been contested, as noted in the DIRECTORY under Baron Mowbray. Following this we read of writs of summons in the 11th year of Edward the First (1283), constituting a small number of Barons, among whom were those of Mowbray and Segrave (titles since united in one nobleman); while in the 22nd of the same King there was published a decree commanding some sixty persons "to attend the King wherever he might be, to advise on the affairs of his kingdom," though whether this summons constituted its recipients Peers of Parliament is by no means clear. In the year that followed, however (June 24, 1295), an unmistakable writ of this character appeared, and Baron Berkeley was one of its recipients. The writ when followed by a single sitting in the Lords sufficed to establish the barony, which regularly passed, when so derived, to the lineal heirs both male and female. These writs are of the class termed Brevia clausa, from being "closed up" with yellow wax sealed with the Great Seal of England. It is under this arrangement that we are occasionally brought into presence of the phenomenon of abeyance, which, as already stated under "General Remarks," consists in the co-heirship of more than one daughter or granddaughter. In the case of females, primogeniture is disregarded in the succession of the English nobility (though not in that of the Royal Family, nor yet with Barons of Scotland), and thus when there exists no heir in the male line, but there exist more than one in the female, both or all of these latter are equally entitled to the heirship, and not even the birth of a grandson to one of them will solve the difficulty so long as his mother and an aunt are living, as females of the first line are preferred to males of the second. Then should there be a plurality of granddaughters and no grandson the abeyance may be prolonged, and it has thus actually lasted through several generations; but there is a prerogative of the Crown which enables it to cut the knot by forthwith conferring the dignity on any one of the co-heirs, or on any other person who is heir to one of the first co-heirs, or through a brother or sister of some earlier heir—a female of a nearer generation taking preference of a male more remote, but males of the same degree being preferred to females. The succession may thus pass to a cousin, uncle, or aunt, though it cannot go outside of the descendants of the Baron first created. The process followed by the Sovereign in calling the barony out of abeyance is by letters-patent in the case either of a female or of a person already holding a higher rank in the Peerage; in that of a male holding no such higher rank it reverts to a writ of summons. But except in this instance and in that of summoning the eldest son of a Peer in his father's barony during that father's lifetime, there have ceased from 1605 to be any new creations of "Barons by Writ;" many of the older ones of course remain on the Roll of the Lords, for, generally speaking, it is only under these titles that the phenomenon of abeyance can occur.

Lastly, then, we come to the Baronies by Patent. Though now the only form by which new baronies or any other peerages originate, they are very far indeed from a modern innovation, for Baron Beauchamp of Kidderminster was thus dignified by Richard the Second in 1387. From this date for a long period the processes of writ and patent were followed indifferently; but the former has now wholly died out, and the newly created Baron now receives his honours by means of a document stamped with the Great Seal, clearly prescribing the terms of succession—generally limited to his own heirs male. Up to the thirteenth year of James the First the creation by letters-patent was accompanied by an investiture at the hands of the King, who solemnly arrayed the new Peer in a scarlet robe with a hood furred with minever; but in that year it was decided that the patent itself was sufficient, not even the "sitting" being required as under baronies by writ. It need hardly be added that the dignity of the one class is in no way inferior to that of the other, and that the Barons in the Peerage take precedence among each other by the date of their creation alone. In all there are now 315 Barons of England, Great Britain, or the United Kingdom, with 65 Irish, but only 25 Scottish. The premier English barony as decided by the Roll is that of De Ros dating from 1264, but a rival claim is advanced by Baron Mowbray in accordance with an observation in the preceding paragraph. In Scotland, where the term "Lord" long took the place of "Baron," we find the Duke of Sutherland holding the barony or lordship of Strathnaver (1228), whilst Baron Forbes (about 1442) stands first upon the Roll. But the oldest barony of all is in the Irish Peerage, where that of Howth dates by tenure from 1177 (that of Kingsale, commonly reputed the earliest, was not awarded till 1223, Sir Jno. de Courcy, the famous English champion, who obtained the notable hat privilege, having received no other title than that of Earl of Ulster, 1181). A Baron is conventionally called "Lord."

On Life Baronies see "House of Lords" under "Life Peers."

A Baron's insignia comprise the coronet—which from the time of Charles the Second has been denoted by six silver balls—and the mantle with two bars of white fur. The Baroness wears a similar coronet, and her coronation robe has the cape marked by two bars of ermine; the minever edging is two inches broad, and the train one yard long.

A Baron's eldest son used once to have the rank of the now extinct order of Knights Bannerets. As it is we can only note that he comes after the younger sons of Earls, but before those of Viscounts, whilst his younger brothers succeed those latter sons though they precede Baronets. As with Viscounts, all sons and daughters without distinction take the designation "Honourable."

NOTE ON CORONETS AND ROBES.—There may be a convenience in our here appending in immediate succession the scale of variations observed in the form of the two leading insignia. The following are the distinctions among crowns and coronets :—

Sovereign—4 crosses-pattée and 4 fleurs-de-lis, with 2 arches.
Prince of Wales—the same with only 1 arch.
Princes of "Blood Royal"—the same with no arch.
Princesses of ditto—2 crosses-pattée, 2 strawberry-leaves, and 4 fleurs-de-lis.
Princes and Princesses of "the Blood"—4 strawberry-leaves and 4 crosses-pattée.
Dukes—8 strawberry-leaves.
Marquesses—4 strawberry-leaves and 4 "pearls" (silver balls); Marchionesses—8 pearls with small strawberry-leaves alternating.
Earls—8 pearls mounted on high golden rays.
Viscounts—About 14 pearls, not mounted.
Barons—6 pearls, not mounted.

Of the mantles of the Peerage those worn in Parliament are of scarlet cloth, lined with white taffeta and with rows or guards of ermine at equal distances with a gold lace above each—Dukes having four rows, Marquesses three and a half (see above in loc.), Earls three, Viscounts two and a half, and Barons two. The robes worn at coronations are of crimson velvet, either with a surcoat or the mantle itself being doubled to the elbow, with rows of dark spots on each shoulder corresponding in numbers to those under Parliamentary robes. The coronation mantles of Peeresses are likewise of crimson velvet, the capes furred with minever pure and "powdered" with bars of ermine also corresponding in numbers to those of the above respective ranks, whilst the edging is likewise of minever, varying in breadth of border from five inches to two, and the trains range in length from two yards to one.

ARCHBISHOPS.—The general character of this division of our Introduction seems to render it advisable to consider the Spiritual Peers together at the close of our remarks on the Lords Temporal, though in rank of precedence Archbishops stand superior even to Dukes. The Archbishop of Canterbury has twenty-five Bishoprics in his Province (including his own see) against ten in that of York; he thus takes a position of decided superiority, being placed above the Lord Chancellor, whilst his colleague follows after that high official, their respective appellations being also distinguished as "Primate of All England" and "Primate of England," whilst the one styles himself "By Divine Providence" and the other "By Divine Permission," as do the Bishops. To the Archbishop of Canterbury, who is thus the highest personage in England after the Royal Family, the duty pertains of crowning a new sovereign, and it has been decreed that "wheresoever the Court may be, the King and Queen are his domestic parishioners." The Courts of Arches and of Peculiars are under the authority of this prelate. The Archbishop of York crowns the Queen-Consort when there is one, and is her perpetual chaplain. Both are Metropolitans and are addressed as "Your Grace" and "The Most Reverend." In respect of their mitres, most 'Peerages' state that they do not differ from those of Bishops, but 'Lodge' asserts that they rise out of ducal coronets, and this the 'Encyclopædia Britannica' confirms, though adding that the decoration is "without authority:" see at close of "Bishops." At coronations the Archbishop of Canterbury wears over his surplice a superb cope reaching from his shoulders to his feet.

BISHOPS.—There are at present thirty-three of these ecclesiastics in the English Church in addition to the two Archbishops, who act as Bishops in their own dioceses. There are also numerous Suffragan and Assistant Bishops, but these, while they remain such, can never form a part of the Peerage. The twenty-five sees or dioceses in the Province of Canterbury are :—

Bangor, Bath and Wells, Bristol, Canterbury, Chichester, Ely, Exeter, Gloucester, Hereford, Lichfield, Lincoln, Llandaff, London, Norwich, Oxford, Peterborough, Rochester, St. Albans, St. Asaph, St. David's, Salisbury, Southwell, Truro, Winchester, Worcester.

The ten of York Province are :—

Carlisle, Chester, Durham, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle, Ripon, Sodor and Man, Wakefield, York.

Of these, St. Albans, Southwell, and Truro in the former list, and Ripon, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle, and Wakefield in the latter, are of recent institution, the original total having been twenty-four, in addition to the see of Sodor and Man, the occupant of which has now no connection with the House of Lords (formerly he had an honorary seat without a vote or liberty to join in the debates), having his own legislative position in the Manx House of Keys. When an increase upon the original twenty-four was commenced, it was enacted that new appointees should not sit in the House of Lords until vacancies arose among their seniors, the new prelate chosen to fill the vacancy being placed in turn at the foot of the junior list, so that the former number of seats in the House should never be exceeded.* Thus the newly-created sees rank on full equality with the old, and a rotation is maintained among their occupants which, except as to the statement in the next sentence, follows the strict law of seniority alone. But a special feature consists in the continuous seniority of the three Bishops of London, Durham, and Winchester, who are thus independent of the rotation prevailing among the others. In fact we come to have practically four orders among the thirty-three Bishops :—

1. London, Durham, and Winchester—invariably Peers of Paliament.
2. The twenty-one seniors of the remainder—Peers through seniority.
3. Eight juniors—awaiting seniority for peerage.
4. The Bishop of Sodor and Man—incapable of a peerage.

Bishops rank in the Peerage between Viscounts and Barons, but the three in the first of our orders take precedence of all the rest—London first, as Provincial Dean of the Archbishop of Canterbury and Bishop of the capital ; Durham next, as formerly Count Palatine of his diocese ; and Winchester third, as anciently Earl of Southampton and Subdean of the Province of Canterbury. We are told that the power and wealth of this last see were formerly so great that its occupant, William de Edyngton, having been elected Archbishop of Canterbury, preferred to remain in the position he then held, observing shrewdly, "Though Canterbury has the higher rack, yet Winchester has the deeper manger." The Bishops in Anglo-Saxon days ranked with the Ealdormen or Earls, and William the Conqueror converted their lands into baronies, and thus required from them attendance at Court and military service. So late as 1722, we read that the then Bishop of Durham, Dr. Talbot, was disposed to keep up some trace of the early past—in respect both of its secular Bishops and of his own status as Earl Palatine—by making his appearance at a review held by George the First "in a lay habit of purple, with jack boots and his hat cocked, and a black wig tied behind him like a militant officer." But this incident only proves by its very comicality how different has been the ordinary conduct of the Lords Spiritual, at any rate from the days of the Plantagenets ; and though the Bishops hold their place in the House of Peers as having been originally Barons, they have been systematically so opposed to intermeddling with matters of blood that they have refused to give their votes in trials for high treason and other crimes. Their position next after the Viscounts was assigned them in the reign of Henry the Eighth, so that the instruction at the coronation of Charles the Second that they should "precede all the lay Lords" may be viewed as a mere temporary solace for their entire exclusion from Parliament under the Commonwealth. It must further be noted that Bishops as well as Archbishops are Peers of Parliament but not Peers of the Realm ; they are not even Life Peers unless they remain till death at their official posts.

Prior to the disestablishment of the Church of Ireland, the Irish Bishops used to sit three at a time by rotation and the two Archbishops by turns. Of those appointed previous to that Act (1869), there are now but two Bishops remaining (and one of these has become an Archbishop), who, though they have no longer a seat in the House, are allowed to retain the title of "Lord." The entire hierarchy are treated in other respects according to their former precedency, but the Archbishops and Bishops of the Roman Catholic Church are now privileged to rank as equals among them.

It has been strongly pressed upon us that not only the whole of the above Irish Bishops but Suffragans also, and "every Bishop holding a territorial title," can claim to be addressed as "Lord Bishop." This is even the view of so high an authority as 'Crockford's Clerical Directory,' which prefixes this form not only to every Prelate in Africa and the Pacific Islands, but to Missionary Bishops in China and everywhere besides, and states as to the Suffragans that there is "ample evidence" for awarding the title to them also. Unfortunately the only evidence is from the unsettled period of the Reformation, when twenty-six Suffragan Sees were constituted, and their holders were in several instances spoken of as ordinary Bishops; but they were allowed to die off without any successors being appointed, so that from 1597 to 1870 there were no Bishop Suffragans. It is to the point, moreover, that 'Crockford' reprints a letter from Mr. Secretary (now Viscount) Cross laying it down that a Suffragan's official signature is to resemble that of the higher Bishops, but refraining from penning a syllable as to the style of their address. There surely can be few who would dispute that the prefixing of "Lord" had its rise in the fact of the Bishops being Lords of Parliament, and, indeed, as noted above, originally Barons; and we gladly hail the fact that 'Debrett' has this year seen the inconsistency of stating that the Irish Bishops lost the title on ceasing to have seats in the House, and yet conferring it (as formerly) upon every Bishop Suffragan. Of course when dissociated from the House of Peers the term "Lord" as applied to a Bishop is only a meaningless term of courtesy—a "Lord Bishop" simply becomes a "Bishop;" and as to 'Crockford's' remark that the title "Lord Mayor" implies no territorial jurisdiction higher than another Mayor's, the ready answer is that it is a special term raising Lord Mayors above these others, for if they all bore this title it would be as empty a compliment as 'Crockford' makes of "Lord Bishop" itself. Nevertheless, courtesy and etiquette are practically equal to law, and we will not deny that this complimentary word has come into a use far beyond that which was originally intended, and accordingly, until some real authority has spoken, it may be erring on the safer side to make use of the word in epistolary communications, but to remember that the prelates thus honoured bear only the same relation to genuine Lord Bishops as do Lords by Courtesy to members of the House of Peers. For ourselves, we have no idea of inserting "Lord" before the names of all the Bishops in our DIRECTORY, at any rate until we prefix "Right Hon." or "His Grace" to the name of every noble. As to the Junior Bishops who are not yet admitted to the House, they have already a "reversion of nobility," which the Suffragans certainly have not.

* But a Bishop who has once attained the seniority will not forfeit his seat in the Lords though he accepts translation to another see that has become vacant. This was exemplified in 1895 on the Bishop of Newcastle becoming Bishop of Chichester.

'Crockford' also tells us that the term "Bishop Suffragan" must not be transposed into "Suffragan Bishop," for every Bishop under a Metropolitan is the latter. It may be advisable to act on this caution, though we lately saw in the Gazette the notice of the appointment of a "Suffragan Bishop of Stepney." This may lead us to add that when a Suffragan is promoted to a full Bishopric, or when he dies at his post (as the late Bishop of Colchester), his successor is appointed under the same title; but if he resigns he is allowed to retain his title for life (see "Bedford" and "Guildford"), whilst the new Suffragan is awarded a different local designation. The unfixed nature of Suffragan titles is further instanced under the Bishop of Richmond, who was allowed to substitute that designation for the original "Penrith."

Assistant Bishops are not in any recognised official position, but simply act by personal arrangement with their diocesans. The term Commissary may be taken as identical. Missionary Bishops are defined as those appointed from England, but located in foreign countries as distinct from British Colonies. They are entered in this work under their surnames, though they have always some form of a territorial title.

A Bishop's mitre is a high cleft cap of ivory, encircled at the base with a jewelled golden fillet, and having two fringed pendants hanging below from within. That of the Bishop of Durham (as a vestige of the above ancient Count Palatinate) takes a ducal coronet in place of the fillet, and has its two divisions edged with beads and finished with two "orbs." If the Archbishops adopt this style of one of their own subordinates, it will surely be generally desired that usage should have ere this supplied them with the "authority" said to be lacking. The Parliamentary costume of both Archbishops and Bishops consists of a rochet or surplice with lawn sleeves, and a square black cap. The crosier, the symbol of a shepherd, is presumably still borne upon occasions: that of an Archbishop terminates in a cross, that of a Bishop in a shepherd's crook.

NOTE ON THE TERMS "LORD," "LADY," "HON.," &c.—The title "Lord" is in the first place the regular conventional designation of a Baron, and frequently in the older titles it is even substituted in the patent. Secondly, it is used in common parlance as a general term inclusive of "Viscount," "Earl," or "Marquess." Thirdly, in courtesy-titles it is correctly used in the names of many eldest sons of Earls, and may again be substituted for "Viscount," &c., as above. Fourthly, it is used prefixed to a Christian name to designate a younger son of a Duke or Marquess. Fifthly, it is applied, as a judicial title, to a Scottish Lord of Session. The title "Lady" has even more variations, for whilst borne by wives or sisters in all these cases except the last, it is also used of the wives of Baronets, and, in practice though not legally, of those of Knights also. When the word "Lord," or any other title of honour, is added to a Christian name, as "Alfred, Lord Tennyson," "Edward, Earl of Derby," "Maria, Duchess," &c., the title is merely individualised by the name prefixed, and this is the regular form observed in the Roll of the Lords as well as in authorship and many other usages. None but the veriest tyro would be guilty of a transposition such as "Lord Alfred Tennyson," which would amount to converting the poet-Baron into the younger son of some imaginary Duke or Marquess.

The prefix "Hon." is given not only to sons and daughters of Peers but also to all present or past Maids of Honour, all Justices of the High Court (not Lords Justices, who are all made Privy Councillors, nor Lords of Appeal, who hold Life Peerages), to Lords of Session, the Lord Provost of Glasgow (during office), and especially to members of Governments or of Executive Councils in the Colonies (but not, as a rule, to their Judges or even Chief Justices). "Right Hon." is the title of a Privy Councillor and of a Peer lower than a Marquess (also Peeresses and, in theory, issue—see under "Duke" in "Modes of Addressing"); it is also given during term of office to Lord Mayors and the Lord Provost of Edinburgh. "Hon. Lady" may denote either the daughter of a Viscount or Baron who has married a "Sir," or else any lady who has married an "Hon. Sir," provided that his "Hon." is the mark of a Peer's son and not of a mere official appointment.

On the Marriage of Peeresses &c.—The most essential rules may be thus specified:

The wife of a Peer takes the regular feminine of his own title, wholly irrespective of what she was before (but see below as to some rare exceptions made by etiquette); a Baroness being styled "The Lady."

The wife of a Peer's eldest son bearing one of his father's titles will take the feminine form also unless her previous rank was higher than his.

The wife of a Baronet or Knight is styled "Lady" (not "The Lady") unless she is the daughter of a Peer, when she may be "Hon. Lady," &c. (see next page).

We have now to amplify these rules. A Peeress in her own Right retains her title after marriage, and if her husband's rank is the superior she is designated by the two titles jointly, the acquired one last: her hereditary claim still holds good in spite of any marriage whether higher or lower. No rank held by a woman can confer any title or even precedence upon her husband: but the rank of a Peeress in her own right is inherited by her eldest son, to whomsoever she may have been married; or, in default of a son, by a daughter, or it may, through a plurality of these, pass temporarily into abeyance. With a Peeress by marriage (a Peer's widow) the case is the same as to retention of a former superior title provided her second marriage is to an actual Peer, though this is the case by etiquette only, for even if she is a Duchess married to a Baron it will be as a Baroness only that she will be summoned to any royal function (conventionally, on the other hand, she is known by whichever title is the higher, unless both are the same in degree, when naturally that of her husband will be used); while if her second marriage is only to a Lord by Courtesy, or to a commoner, she then in strictness forfeits the title she had acquired by her former marriage and comes to her second husband in the same rank in which she came to her first, though custom usually gratifies her by continuing the recent honour. If the daughter of a Peer but not coming under either of the preceding heads, upon marrying an actual Peer she takes the rank of her husband, whether it exalts or lowers her; if she marries a Lord holding the special courtesy-title of an eldest son, she similarly takes his title if equal or superior to her own, but if inferior she sometimes adopts it with her own prefixed, as (of a Duke's daughter) "The Lady Alice, Viscountess [or Countess] B.," but as frequently (always if he is only "Lord") she ignores the courtesy-title and is known as "The Lady Alice A.," adopting the surname of the family she had entered, exactly as if she had married a younger son instead of an heir; lastly, if she marries either a commoner or the son of a Peer who does not enjoy an eldest son's distinctive courtesy-title, she then at the least retains her own rank, as denoted by "The Lady Alice" or "The Honourable Mrs. John" (not "Hon. Alice"), prefixed to her husband's surname, but rises with her husband if she was previously beneath him, so that her "Honourable Alice" may be converted into "The Lady John." The variations here, however, require scrupulous care, complicated by the anomalous fact that any Peer's daughter ranks one degree higher than either of the same Peer's younger sons (though his heir is her equal): the daughter of a Duke ranks higher than the younger son of a Duke, and thus retains her own Christian name in preference to his ; but the daughter of a Marquess ranks only as equal to a Duke's younger son, and consequently takes his Christian name after "The Lady." We may put the rule for marriage with younger sons in another way, perhaps more simply :

A Peer's daughter entitled "Lady" will on marriage become "The Lady John" if her husband's father was of higher rank than her own father, but remain "The Lady Alice" if it was either the same or inferior.

If entitled "Honourable" she will become "The Lady John" on marrying a Peer's son designated "Lord," but on marrying either another "Honourable" (younger or elder indifferently) or a commoner she will be "The Hon. Mrs. John."

It may be added to the above remarks on a Peer's Widow that any lady noble by birth will continue—though only by the etiquette of society—after re-marriage to a lower rank or that of a commoner, to enjoy whatever title she was known by during her former marriage ; but the widow of a Lord by Courtesy or younger son, if not herself noble by birth, forfeits upon a second marriage any right to a title which had accrued to her by a first, though here again custom is much given to humouring her by continuing the prefix "Lady," but not, we are told, that of "Honourable" (a Baronet's widow has an express right to continue "Lady," but a Knight's retains the distinction by courtesy only). The daughter of a Peer who previously bore the title "Honourable," will on marrying a "Sir" become "The Hon. Lady B.," whilst if her previous title was "Lady" (with a Christian name) she will be entitled "The Lady Alice B." A commoner marrying either a Peer or a Peer by Courtesy follows her husband's style exactly, from "Duchess" downward to "The Lady John B." or "The Hon. Mrs. Charles B." (as to the husband's Christian names, they may not always be needed after "Mrs." if no uncertainty is caused by their omission, and in point of fact they are very seldom used even when uncertainty is caused through several sons of the same family being married) ; the occurrence of a second marriage in her case is governed by the same rule, and if she thereby descends in rank she has no atom of claim to retain her former dignity. Thus while a lady can return by marriage to her original status, she has unlimited capacities of rising thereby, and there is only one case in which she can sink by it to a grade lower than that of her birth—that, namely, in which a Peer's daughter marries an actual Peer of a rank two steps lower than her father's. A Duke's daughter, as we have seen, is "born in the degree of a Marchioness," and it has been remarked that if a Duke had four daughters the three eldest of whom married an Earl, a Viscount, and a Baron, while the youngest married her father's footman, this last would retain her original rank, while the others, though wedded to Peers of the Realm, would all have sunk respectively one, two, and three degrees beneath her.

A morganatic marriage, a German institution not specifically recognised in this country, is one expressly entered into as such on account of the lower rank of the wife ; it is lawful wedlock and renders the offspring legitimate, but excludes both them and their mother from any claim to the father's rank or property.

Peers' Widows.—The use of the word "Dowager" or a substitute therefor may cause perplexity ; moreover, there appears to be an antipathy to this term on the part of those ladies who do not consider themselves really old, so that it is desirable to use it with care, though, as being constantly met with in the Court Circular, it ought not to give offence when correctly applied. So long, then, as the new Peer or Baronet is unmarried, the widow of his predecessor is styled precisely as when her husband was living ; but as soon as (and for so long as) a new possessor of her title appears she must be distinguished in some way. If she is either mother, stepmother, or grandmother of the new Peer or Baronet she then rightly takes the above designation of Dowager ; but if she is only collaterally related, or if she is the Peer's or Baronet's mother whilst his grandmother is also living, then she takes the style "Mary, Lady A.," "Catherine, Comtess of B.," or similarly, the elder lady, who was already "Dowager," retaining that designation even though the new Peer is unmarried. As it was remarked above (and more explicitly under "Modes of Addressing"—see under "Baron" and "Duke") that the prefix "The" before "Lady" distinguishes a Peeress or Peer's daughter from the wife of a Baronet or Knight, it may be clearer to add that before "Dowager" the article can hardly be dispensed with, and no longer carries with it such distinction.

Classification of the Peerage.—Even neglecting the above degrees of Dukes, Marquesses, Earls, &c., we find our subject so complicated that we have to arrange it under the following ramifications (for particulars see the two following divisions) :

I. The House of Lords.
  1. Peers created.
    (1) Hereditary Peers.
    (2) Life Peers (Law Lords).
    (3) Official Peers (Lords Spiritual).
  2. Peers elected.
    (1) For Life (Irish Representative Peers).
    (2) For one Parliament (Scottish Peers).

II. The Peerage outside of the House.
  1. Peers of Full Rank.
    (1) Scottish Peers } Many of these sit in the House of Lords either under
    (2) Irish Peers } Imperial titles or as Representatives.
  2. Peeresses in Own Right.
    (1) Imperial Peeresses (male heirs going to House of Lords on succession).
    (2) Scottish or Irish Peeresses.
  3. Peers by Courtesy.
    (1) Eldest sons of Dukes, Marquesses, and Earls (in Scotland most others).
    (2) Younger sons of Dukes and Marquesses.
    (3) Younger sons of Earls, with all sons of Viscounts and Barons.
    (4) Daughters of Dukes, Marquesses, and Earls.
    (5) Daughters of Viscounts and Barons.
    (6) Sons and daughters of eldest sons of Dukes, Marquesses, and Earls.
  [4. Scottish Lords of Session.]

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

CLASSIFICATION OF DEGREES.—The following table, specifying the present composition of the House itself, may conveniently stand thus closely after the one of a wider application above. It is, however, only a minuter form of classification of the nobles included under No. I. of that table. No minor can take his seat; these are accordingly specified separately. Including the 1898 New Year's Honours, the list stands as under:

FORMS OF ADMITTANCE.—The House of Lords, the original Great Council and sole Parliament of England, has its early history sketched in the preceding division under the heading of "Barons," where also the more ancient credentials of Tenure and Summons are explained. At the present time, with certain special exceptions, it may be said that all peerages are conferred by letters-patent under the Great Seal of England. It may now be added that no new peerages are conferred which do not carry with them a right to sit in the House of Lords; for even if conferred upon a female the dignity is made to pass by preference to the heirs male descended from her, whilst the other exception—that of the power of the Sovereign to create one new Peer of Ireland for every three peerages that have lapsed—has ceased to exist through the renunciation of this power by her present Majesty. The exceptions to the adoption of letters-patent still occasionally exercised are the following two. The first is described above under "Barons" in the paragraph upon Baronies by Writ; whilst the second consists in the summoning to the Lords, during his father's lifetime, of the heir to one of the higher peerages, who is thus called to proceed immediately to the functions of a legislator under the temporary title of a barony of his father's. In this case it must be noted that no new hereditary peerage is thus created, for on the death of the father the son steps into the higher title and his own separate peerage passes out of sight. Should the son, however, die first and leave an heir of his own, that heir if of age will take the temporary title and hold it on till the death of the elder Peer. It must also not be forgotten that though in general the process of Writ of Summons has gone out of use, there are numbers of the existing baronies which are held through the issue of such writs centuries ago, and that it is in their case and theirs only that we are so frequently confronted by the phenomenon of "abeyance." Again, there is a lower form of the Writ of Summons issued at the commencement of every new Parliament, by which every Peer who is already created—not the elected Representative Peers—receives as it were a circular informing him of the re-assembling of the House, though of course it is of far more legal import than a mere reminder. So too, in this lower sense of the term, a new Peer receives a writ of summons concurrently with his letters-patent.

The ceremonies of the admission of a new Peer may be thus described, and they apply either to the creation, succession, or mere elevation of a member of the House. Garter King of Arms (or "Garter" as he is briefly termed), or it may be some Herald in his place, makes his entry bare-headed and attired in his tabard, holding the patent and writ of summons; the new Peer himself follows, between two nobles of his own degree, all three being robed; the new accession makes his obeisance to the Lord Chancellor, who enjoins that his credentials shall be read; the oaths are next administered, the writ handed over for keeping by the Clerk of the House, and the new Peer conducted to his seat, from which he forthwith rises again and returns less formally to the Lord Chancellor to receive his congratulations. A new Bishop is similarly introduced by two Spiritual Peers, but without the secularising company of a Herald. At every new Parliament the oaths must be taken afresh by each Peer before he can resume his seat.

It was noticed above that no minor can take his seat; neither can any Peer who is bankrupt or insane. But the House has long grieved over its incapacity to exclude a Peer notorious for a disgraceful life.

Arrangement and Procedure.—The seats in the House are thus disposed—at least in theory, but it must strictly be borne in mind that the practice of sitting by party to a considerable extent obliterates the arrangement by rank. A throne is provided for the Sovereign, with seats to the right and left under the same canopy for the two eldest of the Royal Princes, the Prince of Wales of course occupying that on the right. Further off on the same side are forms for the two Archbishops, the three leading Bishops, and then the other ecclesiasties; to the left are those for the Lord President and Lord Privy Seal, the Dukes, the Marquesses, and the Earls. In front of the throne is the woolsack, the seat of the Lord Chancellor when neither the Sovereign is present nor the House in Committee, and which moreover he quits when making a speech (taking his place according to his rank); across the House in front of the woolsack are the seats of the Viscounts, and behind these those of the Barons. So recently as at the date of 'The Book of the Court' we read of a "row of woolsacks" in front of the Viscounts, upon which were seated the Judges, Queen's Counsel, and Masters in Chancery, who, "not being Barons, sit in the House of Peers merely to give their advice when the same is required." Nowadays the time of these is otherwise employed. They used to be kept in a somewhat humiliating state of vassaldom, even the Judges having, on occasions of the Sovereign entering the House, to remain standing after the Peers until they received a separate permission to be seated; whilst in the Sovereign's absence they might sit but "not be covered" till the Chancellor signified to them the leave of the Lords. The Queen's Counsel and Masters in Chancery were never to be covered.

In the presence of the Sovereign in state the Lords are dressed in their robes but not covered; they rise at his or her entry and make their obeisance, which is returned, whereupon the Commons are sent for, who on arrival stand at the bar while their Lordships are seated. In the Sovereign's absence the Peers at their entry make obeisance to the throne. Three Peers are sufficient to constitute a quorum, and the Lord Chancellor may count as one. The House gives its votes, when these are formally required, by each member answering "Content" or "Not Content," but the Commons system of dividing in lobbies is also in vogue. In case of a division, an equality of votes is a negative of the proposition, as there is no casting-vote, but the Lord Chancellor himself participates in the division. This official, it need hardly be added, is by no means the regulator of the proceedings of the House as the Speaker is in the Commons; instead of being elected by the vote of the House he is a member of the Ministry of the day, and he sits in the Sovereign's absence as an ornamental figure-head, whose presence, or that of a deputy, is essential to the conduct of proceedings.* The Peers formerly possessed the right of voting by proxy, but this practice was set aside by a Standing Order in 1868. They still possess the privilege of entering upon the journals of the House (if within 48 hours) their individual protest against any measure which has received the sanction of the majority.

HEREDITARY PEERS.—Our two tables have brought out the fact that there are Peers of Parliament who are not hereditary, just as there are hereditary Peers who are not Peers of Parliament. The second table, however, shows that the former class of exceptions are comparatively few. These are noticed in our next two paragraphs, while the third exhibits the yet further anomaly of a class of hereditary Peers within the House, but yet not succeeding by heredity thereto.

LIFE PEERS.—This class is restricted to a very small number of Law Lords, at present only five. The first creation of the kind occurred in 1856 in the case of Lord Wensleydale, when the Peers deliberated on the innovation and came to the decision that a Life Temporal Peer was not entitled to a seat in their House. An Act was accordingly passed giving power to the Sovereign to elevate two Judges of Appeal into Life Barons of Parliament, and in 1876 the number was enlarged so that it now admits the Lord Chief Justice and all the Lords of Appeal in Ordinary, whether active or retired. There have up to the present been ten such appointments (in addition to the preceding, who was afterwards made an hereditary Baron), namely, Lords Blackburn, Bowen, Fitzgerald, Gordon, and Hannen, who are deceased, and Lords Davey, Macnaghten, Morris, Russell of Killowen, and Watson, who are still living. The wives of these Peers take the title of "Lady" with all the precedence of Baronesses, and by royal decree of August 1897, the children of both present and deceased Life Peers are to bear the title "Honourable."

OFFICIAL PEERS.—These are the Lords Spiritual, already described under the preceding division. In point of fact they usually prove to be Life Peers, but only on condition of their retaining their posts till death. Should they resign they not only relinquish their seats but the right to the designation of Lord. A further mark of the distinction between this class and the preceding is seen in the fact of their wives bearing no token whatever of nobility, even the wife of an Archbishop being simply "Mrs."

PEERS ELECTED.—We may thus notice conjointly the Scottish * and Irish Representative Peers, both of which are full Peers of their respective nations, and are elected by the entire adult Peerages of these as specially convened by the Sovereign. Those of Ireland number 28, and are chosen for life; those of Scotland 16, who are elected or re-elected at every fresh Parliament. Viscounts Hawarden and Powerscourt, of the Irish Representatives, have since election received the Imperial titles respectively of Earl De Montalt and Baron Powerscourt. Elected Peers do not receive the Writ of Summons on the assembling of a new Parliament.

THE PEERAGE OUTSIDE OF THE HOUSE.

SCOTTISH AND IRISH PEERS.—The Peerages of Scotland and Ireland contain every one of the degrees found in the Imperial Peerage, except Princes of the Blood Royal and the Spiritual Peers, so that, broadly speaking, the only difference between the two former and the latter consists in their exclusion from the House of Lords. The Duke of Hamilton is the Premier Peer of Scotland, and the Duke of Leinster of Ireland (for Premier Earls, Barons, &c., see under those titles, as per Index). Besides, delivery of the Great Seal into his custody. He is ex officio a Privy Councillor, he has the appointment of all justices of the peace, is visitor of all royal foundations, patron of the smaller Crown livings, and guardian of infants, idiots, and lunatics; he presides over the Court of Chancery, and has been assigned the honourable title of "Keeper of the King's Conscience." Till the time of James the First the post did not carry with it an hereditary peerage, but was at first always filled by ecclesiastics, of whom Cardinal Wolsey is the most eminent example. It was when Henry the Eighth had resolved to overthrow the Church that he transferred the appointment to Sir Thomas More.

* It may here be remarked upon this form once for all that there is an objection in Scotland to the word "Scotch;" the people themselves are "Scots," and their adjective is "Scottish." Their Education Department has, however, been formally christened by the Southern innovation, and other exceptions may turn up from time to time, as it would take a bold man to dispute in the case of a certain well-known liquor and powder, while the mention of a "Scottish" terrier might hardly suggest a recognisable animal. Again, the Scotsman Boswell uses the form "Scotch" habitually in his 'Life of Johnson,' so that certainly no one can say that "the decree has been made absolute."

however, the Representative Peers noticed immediately above there are very many who possess Imperial hereditary titles in addition to their more ancient and native ones — in fact this is the case with nearly three-fifths of the Scottish Peers and nearly half of the Irish. These Imperial titles in a majority of instances are inferior in rank to the native ones; still there are many which are superior, and many others are either wholly identical or of equal rank under a different appellation. Such Peers are known conventionally by whichever title is the higher one, or, where the two are equal, whichever they may prefer (often the two are then conjoined); but they sit and vote in the House of Lords by their Imperial designation, be it higher or lower. Thus in the newspaper reports of debates in the House we find these Peers mentioned by their conventional titles, but in the division lists we meet with the Imperial ones, which, when inferior, do not acquire familiarity with the general reading public. In our Alphabetical Directory all biographical notices are given under the conventional titles, and when these are other than the ones by which the Peers in question "sit," such other titles will invariably be added, whilst these latter will also be given in their own alphabetical position with references to the former. Nevertheless, as there may be an occasional convenience in having them in juxtaposition by themselves, we append the following pair of lists, under each of which the conventional or higher title is printed in italics.

 There are thus in the above list 86 Irish titles of a total 176 in the Irish Peerage, and 51 Scottish of a total 86. The Duke of Abercorn, the Marquess of Lansdowne, and the Earl of Verulam have both Scottish and Irish in addition to Imperial titles, as the list that follows will more readily exhibit.

PEERESSES IN OWN RIGHT.—Peerages are occasionally granted immediately to ladies of distinction or the widows of distinguished men; but frequently the instances falling under this heading are the result of regular inheritance when, as we have noted under "Barons," the line is open to females in default of males. Thus it results that some of the Peeresses now upon the list have male heirs who will succeed them in the ensuing generation and take their seats by strict right in the House of Lords; while on the other hand several peerages now occupied by males will fall to the other sex, and thus for a time take leave of that House.

PEERS BY COURTESY.—We now remove a step further from the Peerage proper and turn to the sons and daughters of Peers, some of whom are heirs to peerages themselves, while another class are never likely to be such. In the case of eldest sons, those of Dukes, Marquesses, and Earls take as a general rule the second titles of their respective fathers, for all the higher Peers possess at least two, and some of them quite a multiplicity. But no law exists in the matter, though each family has usually its established custom. With some of them two titles are adopted alternately, and in some instances again we find that when an eldest son has been removed by death the second son receives a title different from the ordinary one; whilst if the deceased heir leaves a son to step into his place that son will take his own title if there is no other for him among those of the grandfather, but not necessarily if there are three or more (compare the titles of the present heirs of the Duke of Westminster and Earl Fitzwilliam). Yet further, we find deviations more or less from any of the titles of the fathers, as when the word "Lord" or "Viscount" is prefixed to the family name (as is almost regularly done when the Peer's second title bears the same designation as the first and differs only in degree, whilst in the case of the Devon earldom it is the only possible course, as that peerage has no second title attached to it); or in such cases as "Viscount Trafalgar" instead of "Viscount Merton of Trafalgar" for the son of Earl Nelson, or "Lord Inverurie" instead of "Lord Keith of Inverurie" for the late son of the Earl of Kintore. Courtesy titles can be bestowed also upon a grandson, the eldest son of the heir, but they can never pertain to any collateral relative, even a brother, who may happen to be a presumptive heir. Again, in the Scottish Peerage the eldest sons of Viscounts and Barons are usually known by the term "Master of" prefixed to the titles of their fathers. The younger sons of Dukes and Marquesses only are distinguished by the word "Lord" with their Christian names; while the younger sons of Earls and all sons of Viscounts and Barons (except as just noticed for the Scottish custom)—are known by the similar prefix "The Honourable." Returning to grandsons we observe that the eldest son of the eldest son of a Duke (Somerset excepted, though even there we imagine he would be Lord St. Maur) is sure to hold some subordinate title of the grandfather; and so with the grandson of a Marquess if the son's courtesy-title is "Earl," but not if it is "Viscount" (just as with the sons of an actual Viscount), though in the Scottish Peerage the eldest son of even a Baron-by-courtesy will be called "Master" (see "Strathmore, Earl of"—son Lord Glamis, grandson Master of Glamis); and again the younger sons of an eldest son of a Duke are also designated in accordance with the style of their father: if he is called a Marquess they will prefix "Lord" to their names,* but if an Earl they can only be "Honourable." The present Duke of Richmond has a great-grandchild bearing the title "Honourable" as child of a Baron by courtesy. Similarly the younger sons of the eldest son of a Marquess (who will be styled either "Earl" or "Viscount") can in any case be only "Honourables," as are all the sons of the eldest sons of Earls (for such eldest sons cannot possibly be styled higher than Viscounts, and the sons of a Viscount are all called Honourables); whilst the offspring of the younger sons of all Peers and of all sons of Viscounts and Barons are Esquires only. The daughters of Dukes, Marquesses, and Earls take the prefix "Lady" before their Christian names, whilst those of Viscounts and Barons take "Honourable" like the sons. It will be observed that in the case of Earls the daughters thus receive technically a higher distinction than the sons, being treated exactly as the daughters of Dukes and Marquesses, while the sons obtain only the title assigned to those of Viscounts and Barons; but this partiality is only a part of that general anomaly noticed above, in virtue of which the daughter of every Peer ranks one degree higher than the younger sons—an Earl's daughter is "born in the degree of a Viscountess" (not of a Viscountess's daughter), while the sons are in that of Barons only. The distinction has the effect of rendering the term "Lord" very much less frequent than that of "Lady," and in consequence of greater apparent honour; while the term "Lady," as we have already remarked, is of extremely wide application—being borne, though without the prefix "The," by even the wife of a Knight Bachelor—and when the daughter of a Baron marries a Baronet or Knight and thus becomes "The Honourable Lady," we see that the word "Honourable," which marks her lineage, is really of the higher value of the two. Granddaughters, the offspring of the eldest son of a Duke or Marquess, are styled "Lady" if their father's title is either "Marquess" or "Earl," but if it is only "Viscount," then they, like those of the eldest son of an Earl, are "Honourable" only. Granddaughters of Viscounts and Barons, since their fathers can never be higher than "Honourables," will bear no title any more than the grandsons. As to the occasional instances in which the term "Lord" or even a higher title is found applied to an heir of a Viscount or Baron, there are various ready explanations: first, and most frequently, the title belongs to some higher rank held by the father under another Peerage (say Scottish or Irish); secondly, the mother of the heir may be a Peeress in her own right, and the heir's title may be obtained upon her side instead of the father's; thirdly, a Scottish Lord of Session may be the heir. Lists of Courtesy Titles are given in various 'Peerages,' and one is contained in the Supplement to our ALMANACK; but the compiler of 'Dod' has performed a valuable service by collecting an extensive list of the subsidiary titles of Peers, such as may be said to include any very probable new designations of eldest sons. He adds the following interesting summary of titles held in plurality:—"The Duke of Atholl has 22, the Duke of Argyll 17, the Duke of Hamilton 16, the Marquess of Bute 15, the Duke of Buccleuch 15, the Duke of Northumberland 13, the Duke of Abercorn 12, the Marquesses of Huntly, Lansdowne, and Lothian each 11, the Duke of Montrose and the Earl of Wemyss each 10, the Duke of Beaufort 9; while smaller numbers occur in profusion throughout the Peerage." Our Alphabetical Directory will be found to contain in its proper position every subordinate title which is supplied either by this list or by any other source at our command.

* It is singular enough to be worth noting that at the present time there is not a single instance in the entire Peerage of a Duke's younger grandson bearing the title of "Lord;" either the son is an Earl by courtesy (in which event his younger sons are only "Honourable"), or if a Marquess he has no second son. The only instances we have been able to discover in recent 'Peerages' are those of the present Lord Roos of Belvoir, who was Lord John Henry Manners while his elder brother was living, and of an infant son of the Marquess of Hamilton (now 2nd Duke of Abercorn), who was styled Lord Claud Francis Hamilton, but who lived only two months.

SCOTTISH LORDS OF SESSION.—We have now stepped outside the Peerage altogether, for the word "Lord" prefixed to the names of these Judges, or sometimes even to titles different from their names, is strictly an official honour, and may be compared either to the term "Lord Justice" in England or to that of "Bishop" if without any prospect of entering the House of Lords. It confers no distinction upon the wives. There are but eleven of these Lords, and their names are given in their alphabetical position. For a list of them see the ALMANACK under "Scotland." The Presidents of the two Divisions of the Inner Court have ceased to bear the above distinction, but they were previously Lords Robertson and Kingsburgh respectively.

THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

THIS important body is a council of state appointed and periodically held by the Sovereign to concert matters for the public welfare. A Privy Councillor is chosen at the Sovereign's will, and no patent is necessary; the required oath once taken he becomes a Councillor for life or for the life of the Sovereign, though subject to removal or resignation. The number, which at the first was only about 12, is now indefinite: at present there are some 240 in the Council of Great Britain and 62 in that of Ireland (19 of these numbers are members of both). On the accession of a new Sovereign it must be reconstituted within six months. The Lord President of the Council is chairman of the British Council, and the Lord Lieutenant of the Irish. The duties of these, or rather of the former, are defined as "to attend the Sovereign's person, to manage the debates in Council, to propose matters from the Sovereign at the Council table, and to report to the Sovereign the resolutions of the Council thereupon." The Sovereign with its advice can dissolve or prorogue Parliament, and in some urgent cases he can issue proclamations and enforce them by pains and penalties. The Council is charged with the duty of enquiring into (but not punishing) trespasses against the law, and has cognisance in colonial and Admiralty causes, and in matters of lunacy and idiocy.

As noted above, there is a distinct Council for Ireland, though Scotland is content to participate in the larger and more important one, the former being concerned solely with Irish affairs. The members of both Councils range down from the first Prince of the Blood Royal to private gentlemen possessing no title except the dignified one of "Right Honourable," which is conferred by the membership itself. This title unfortunately is identical with that assigned to the majority of Peers, and even Courtesy Peers, so that in the case of these, from an Earl downwards, there is no way of stating clearly their position as Councillors except by the additional letters "P. C.;" and in the case of Dukes or Marquesses the difficulty comes to be the same, for "Right Honourable" must not be substituted for "Most Honourable" or "His Grace." The two lists of members as presented in the ALMANACK are arranged in accordance with the official roll, which follows strictly the Table of Precedence, and those wishing to familiarise themselves with that table may find interest in tracing out the observance of its laws as there displayed. Thus after the Royal members and highest officials there come the Dukes of England, then one of Scotland (Argyll, whose older title is Scottish), next two of Great Britain (Portland and Northumberland), and then two of the United Kingdom (Westminster and Fife). The Marquesses follow on the same system, succeeded by the Marquess of Lorne as a Duke's eldest son. Next come the Earls, followed by four younger sons of Dukes (there being no eldest sons of Marquesses); the Viscounts; the Marquesses' younger sons; the Bishop of London (ex officio, as are the Archbishops); the Barons; the Speaker; Secretaries of State who are commoners; Earls' younger sons; one Baron's eldest son; and now the Table of Precedency reaches the grade of the Privy Council itself, from which point all distinctions are disregarded, and the names succeed each other in order of seniority alone. To be a Privy Councillor is to enjoy a higher rank in precedence than that of a Baronet, so that Baronets, Knights, and commoners are now mixed up heterogeneously, their differences in rank, important as they are in themselves, being looked upon as minor considerations, in view of their common membership of this honourable Council. Thus, while recognising the scientific merits of an arrangement according to precedence, we here submit for its practical convenience a list of the names in alphabetical order with dates of entry of each. Where no initial is added the member belongs to the Council of Great Britain; an I. denotes that of Ireland; and G. B. & I. marks membership of both.

THE BARONETAGE.

General Remarks.—This degree is sometimes accounted the lowest grade of the nobility, and, as was noticed under "Barons," its title grew out of a lower division of that degree. As re-started under James the First it was, however, a totally different body; but being hereditary it stands as intermediate between the Peerage proper and the Knightage. The Table of Precedence places it inferior to the Order of the Garter; but this is practically a matter of no consequence, since both that Order and those of the Thistle and St. Patrick are restricted as a rule to nobles of far higher rank than that of a Baronet. It has no political privileges attached, and consequently there are scarcely any means, as there are with Peers, for ascertaining the correct succession, so that in cases of the extinction of a direct line there are frequently claimants coming forward who trace their pedigree to a remote bearer of the title, whilst the data for verifying their claims may be wholly inadequate. The honour of a baronetcy is conferred by patent alone, and the recipient is not required to kneel personally at the Sovereign's feet as has been the custom in the conferment of a knighthood. It is stated that he can, however, go through this ceremony if he pleases, without any fee, and indeed without so doing he is not a Knight Baronet. His eldest son when of age could also, up to 1835, claim to be knighted if he desired, and King James at the outset made a rule of knighting all heirs apparent; recently one or two attempts have been made to resuscitate the custom, but they have thus far proved unsuccessful. The Order, in all the three Kingdoms, was instituted at first as a means of raising money, though other objects were held out.* The recipients, who were to be limited in number, were to be gentlemen "of good birth and fortune," possessed of not less than a thousand pounds per annum clear, and in case of war they were to occupy posts of honour near to the royal standard. The rank has been greatly enlarged both as to actual numbers and lowering of the qualifications, whilst the money payment has wholly ceased, though, to preserve the ancient form of warrant, a tally is struck at the Exchequer and handed to the new Baronet by way of receipt. An instance is recorded of the grant of a baronetcy to a female—Dame Mary Bolles, of Osberton, Notts (1635, in the Scottish Baronetage), and it is stated that this is not quite the only one. A Baronet has no coronet or robes, and in the English and Irish Orders no badge whatever beyond the device of "the bloody hand of Ulster" to be charged upon his coats of arms. Early in the present reign an effort was made on the joint behalf of Baronets and Knights Bachelors to obtain some further distinctive mark, such as the higher Orders of Knighthood possess in profusion; it was ineffectual—it is stated, because "too much was asked"—but a movement is now on foot in the same direction and for vindicating the claims of the Baronetage generally. When there are two or more Baronets of the same surname it is customary to distinguish them by appending the name of their seat (or of that of the founder of their line, as they may prefer); and when, as not unfrequently happens, this name is identical with their own (e.g., Campbell, Bart. of Campbell) our northern friends often substitute "Campbell of that ilk." The wives of Baronets are Baronetesses, but the word is scarcely ever used; they are styled "Lady" without any Christian name, or "Dame" with the Christian name (an old form still used in formal documents and personally favoured by some), and these titles they have the special privilege of retaining after a second marriage though to a commoner (if daughters of Peers their correct style is given on page 10, which also directs as to the use of "Dowager" &c. in the case of widowhood). Designation of a Baronet, Sir A. B., Bart.

Baronets of England, Great Britain, and the United Kingdom.—We have here precisely the same three historical distinctions that we met with under the Peers ("General Remarks"): Baronets created up to 1707 rank as "Baronets of England;" from 1707 to 1800 as "Baronets of Great Britain;" and after 1800 as "Baronets of the United Kingdom"—the Scottish creations continuing by the side of the first only, and the Irish by the side of first and second. The English Order was instituted by James the First in 1611, ostensibly for the purpose of providing means to effect the settlement of Ulster, then in a state of anarchy. A sufficient sum of money was required from each of the 200 gentlemen to whom the honour was awarded to provide for the maintenance of thirty foot-soldiers at eightpence per day for three years; the total of this was about £1095, and the first year's instalment was to be paid down in advance. King James's successors, moreover, paid no heed to the limitation of numbers, so that by the reign of Charles the Second the 200 had increased to 888. There are now about a hundred short of this latter figure, but about 930 including Scottish and Irish Baronets. The first to receive the title was Sir Nicholas Bacon, father of Sir Francis, afterwards Lord Bacon, and a descendant of that name is still the Premier Baronet of England.

Baronets of Scotland and Nova Scotia.—As partly remarked in the preceding paragraph, these Baronets date exclusively from the eighty-two years between the institution of the Order and the Union with England in 1707, all later Baronets of Scottish nationality being Baronets either "of Great Britain" or "of the United Kingdom." It must be understood that there is no essential distinction between Baronets of Nova Scotia and those of Scotland, and though the connection with the American Colony ceased even nominally in 1638 (it had in fact become a French possession before that date), we find the Nova Scotia badge in the arms of several Baronets of much later creation, its use having actually been revived by agreement at a meeting of Scottish Baronets in 1775. This Order was planned by James the First in 1621, its avowed object being to assist the settlement of Nova Scotia. This monarch granted a charter of the baronetcy of "New Scotland" to Sir William Alexander, afterwards Earl of Stirling; but owing to the King's

* King James was still afraid of causing offence to the Peerage by creating a grade of nobles in such manner; but Hume assures us that in that day "each rank of nobility had its price," so that the Earl of Salisbury had only too good reason for stifling his Sovereign's scruples with the observation, "Tush, sir, the money will do you good, and the honour will do them very little."

death the design was left to be carried out by Charles the First in 1625. Sir Robert Gordon, son of the Earl of Sutherland, was Premier Baronet, he having already received from King James the baronetcy of Galloway in New Scotland (his descendant Sir Robert Glendonwyn Gordon holding the premier distinction still). To Sir W. Alexander, who was made Lieutenant and Admiral of New Scotland (though it is doubtful whether he ever visited it personally), was entrusted the duty of allotting the baronetcies into which Nova Scotia was divided. The number of the Order was not to exceed 150, and to each of these, on payment of a sum of about £2000, was to be assigned a tract of 6000 acres "of good land." No service was required from them, nor was any trouble taken to see that they carried out the scheme of colonisation: the raising of money to the Crown was the one great concern. It is noted that Sir William transferred his own rights and possessions to a French Huguenot, Claude St. Estienne, Seigneur de la Tour, who figures in a spirited ballad of the poet Whittier's. The Baronets of Scotland, alone of the three, possess a distinctive Badge, consisting in a medal worn from the neck by an orange-tawny ribbon, and containing the ensign of Nova Scotia, the arms of Scotland, and a St. Andrew's Cross (this was granted by Charles the First in 1629, upon the sale of Nova Scotia to France, for previously these distinctive designs had been simply charged upon their armorial bearings); the crest is a branch of laurel and a thistle issuing from two conjoined hands, the one armed and the other naked, with the motto "Munit hæc et altera vincit" (one defends and the other conquers).

Baronets of Ireland.—These all necessarily date from prior to the Union in 1800, later Irish Baronets being of "the United Kingdom." The Order was instituted by James the First in 1619 for a similar purpose with the English Baronetage of eight years earlier: the account given under that order will therefore sufficiently apply. Sir Charles Henry Coote is the Premier Baronet of Ireland, his ancestor Sir Charles Coote, Vice-President of the province of Connaught, having received his patent in 1621; the Baronetcy merged in the Valentia Viscounty, however, dates from the previous year and is apparently the very first that was granted.

BANNERETS (or KNIGHTS BANNERETS).

Though this order has long gone out of existence it demands notice from its earlier importance, as in its more honourable form it was superior to that of Baronets. It was ordinarily the reward of merit in the field, and was conferred under the royal standard, by the King himself or the Prince of Wales when present, or by the General in their absence, in which last case it ranked inferior to the dignity of a Baronet; the former class were Knights Bannerets Royal, the latter Knights Bannerets of the Secondary Creation. The Knight elect was introduced into the presence of the King (or General), having a long pennon on which his arms were painted, when His Majesty "after good words and wishes," commanded the tip of the said pennon to be cut off so that it might be converted into a four-square banner. This explains the name, and an assurance of the importance of the distinction is conveyed by the fact that no other person below the dignity of a Baron was allowed to bear his arms upon a banner. Col. John Smith, who recovered the royal standard at Edgehill, was awarded this honour by Charles the First; but a more recent instance of its bestowal occurred when George the Third, at a naval review at Portsmouth in 1773, made of Admirals Pye and Sprye and Captains Knight, Bickerton, and Vernon, the very last recipients of the English dignity of Knight Banneret. It was never hereditary in this country, though it was so in France.

THE KNIGHTAGE.

General Remarks.—In 'The Book of the Court' we find this note: "It is a curious circumstance that the English name of this degree is almost the only one which does not imply its equestrian nature. For in the French a Knight is styled 'Chevalier' from cheval, as in German 'Ritter' or rider; or, as an old poet has expressed it—

> "Eques ab equo is said of very right,
> And Chevalier is said of Chivalrie,
> In which a Rider is a Knight;
> Arragoners done also specifie
> Caballiero through all that partie
> Is name of Worship, and so took its 'ginning
> Of Spurs of Gold and chiefly of Riding."

Adding, "From these spurs of gold with which Knights were generally invested they were likewise frequently designated Equites Aurati." The familiar form of the knight in chess will occur to every one in this connection. Knighthood in its earlier days pertained only to men of arms, and it has been noted that Sir William Walworth, who appears to have been the first civilian to receive the honour, actually obtained it for performing the military function of slaying Wat Tyler. Henry the Eighth knighted serjeants-at-law, and James the First knighted anybody who would pay. The ceremonies of investiture were anciently in part courtly and in part devotional. A feast was held, and robes, arms, and spurs were put on; whilst both before and after the conferring of the dignity the Knight had to take part in services in the church, comprising a solemn confession, a vigil, and the sacrament. A sword used then to be girded on, but for this there came to be substituted the modern ceremony of the accolade or tap with that weapon by the Sovereign upon the neck and shoulders of the Knight (King James, famed for his awkwardness, was only prevented by the Duke of Buckingham from thrusting the sword during this process into Sir Kenelm Digby's eye). But at one time nobles and ecclesiastics also were wont to confer the title, and Kings themselves have received it from such, as did Louis the Eleventh from Philip of Burgundy, and Francis the First from Bayard, the Knight "sans peur et sans reproche;" and so, in our own country, Brand, Abbot of Bury St. Edmunds, knighted Hereward and another, whilst Lanfranc, Archbishop of Canterbury, conferred the rank upon William Rufus even during the reign of his haughty father. This, however, is one of the many ancient features of Knighthood which modern writers make it their duty to dispute; and if anything is gained by the concession we may allow that very possibly the function was exercised only by such subjects as had received from the Sovereign either an official or a special authorisation. Generals in the army had indisputably the power at one period. But the crowning proof of the fact lies in the actual enactment of laws forbidding the bestowal of the honour with the laxity which had evidently been prevailing, and penalties were enforced sometimes both upon giver and recipient when the latter was below the status of a gentleman.

The above were "Knights" in the broad sense of the term—not Knights Bannerets nor Knights of any distinctive Order, nor even Knights Bachelors until in process of time they became merged in that rank as stated further on. The rank of a Knight is exceedingly ancient. Alfred the Great is known to have knighted his nephew Athelstan, and Segar recounts that a Knight was created in this country so early as the year 506.

There are with us eight leading Orders of Knighthood—the Garter, the Thistle, St. Patrick, the Bath, the Star of India, St. Michael and St. George, the Indian Empire, and the Royal Victorian Order, to which we may add Knights Bachelors: also, but with Companions only and not actual Knights, the Distinguished Service Order and (for Ladies) the Victoria and Albert and the Crown of India; yet again there is the Order of Knights of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, which embraces both sexes, but confers no precedence and is denoted by no initials (this is to be regretted, especially as its title is so cumbersome). Not one of these is hereditary, though Knights of the Garter, even were they only commoners, would take precedence of Baronets. The Orders of the Thistle and St. Patrick have been wholly overlooked by the Table of Precedence, but all three are regularly restricted to nobles, the only recorded exceptions being the bestowal of the Garter upon Sir Robert Walpole, and of the Thistle upon the Marquess of Lorne and the late Sir William Stirling-Maxwell, whilst it has been declared to be "an open secret" that the Garter was offered upon his retirement to Mr. Gladstone, who declined both it and the customary peerage. In both Burke's and Foster's 'Peerages' the title "Sir" is prefixed to the names of all Peers who are also either Knights or Baronets, but this would sound very strange if employed in practice. Wherever in the Knightage the husband is styled "Sir" the wife, in conventional usage, has the title "Lady" or "Dame" as in the case of a Baronetess. But in her case the honour is one of courtesy and not of right, and an amusing story in confirmation of this distinction is thus told in 'The Book of the Court:' "The lady of a certain City Knight was once presented to the old Princess Amelia, who was very deaf. The Princess, not aware that she was merely a Knight's lady, was about to salute her as she would have done with the daughter of a Peer, to the great horror of the Gentleman Usher in Waiting, who, shocked at such a violation of etiquette, exclaimed, loud enough to be heard by all present, 'Don't kiss her, Your Royal Highness; she is not a real Lady!'"

All of the above Orders have been customarily conferred by the accolade, but the higher ones were often made exceptions, and it is now a frequent course for even a Knight Bachelorship to be granted by letters-patent.

THE MOST NOBLE ORDER OF THE GARTER.—The commonly accepted date of the institution of this Order is August 1348, or thereabouts, its founder being Edward the Third; it was re-constituted in 1805 and again in 1831. The story of its origin, in one form or other, is familiar to all, and though its authenticity has been gravely doubted, and in detail is certainly very far from reliable, it seems to remain the fact that the suggested alternative does not fit in nearly so well with the sentence of French which has become the renowned motto of the Garter. Mr. Thoms thus narrates it in 'The Book of the Court:' "A vulgar story prevails, but is not supported by any authority, that at a Court ball Edward's mistress, commonly supposed to be the Countess of Salisbury, dropped her garter; and the King, taking it up, observed some of his courtiers to smile, as if they thought he had not obtained this favour merely by accident, upon which he called out, 'Honi soit qui mal y pense!'" The variation of this, which is greatly to be preferred, is that it was Edward's own Queen who dropped her garter, and that it was she and not himself who uttered the famous words upon his picking it up, in response to his rally as to what would be thought of her for thus losing her garter in public. The further incident is appended that Edward then placed the garter round his own knee by way of rebuke to those who "saw harm" in it, and that the occurrence thus grew famous, and the garter came to be adopted as the battle-signal at Crecy. The other story—wholly divergent from either of the above—is that Richard Cœur de Lion during the Crusades once adopted a white leathern strap below the left knee to distinguish his own soldiers from infidels during a night assault—a theory which would place the origin of the Order a century and a half earlier. But there are two very obvious objections to this as the true origin, though it may in itself have been a real historical event. In the first place there is the colour of the garter, which appears to have been always blue—only sky-blue in earlier years, but never white, which evidently during this night attack was its most essential feature. And secondly, this story fails to account for the motto, for how any scandal could attach either to the leathern strap or to the night assault we have not even a suggestion to help us in determining. But the illustrious Sir Harris Nicolas gives as a translation of the motto, "May he be dishonoured who thinks ill of it," adding "i.e., the expedition to France." This hints at some third original for the Order, apparently following Camden in taking the Crecy battle-signal as the starting point; but here again we want explanation as to why any one, in those days at least, should "think ill" of a grand warlike expedition. But though mistrusting this application, we must all admit without hesitation that Sir Harris's translation itself is far more correct than the one commonly received, which first ignores the "y" for the sake of making out a proverb applicable to anything or nothing, and then, to give it an epigrammatical turn, repeats the word "evil" without any warrant from the original. The word "honi," which in modern French would be "honni," is not even a noun at all, but a participle (from "honnir," a verb used only in the passive and in the sense of "vilipender," but with an added force of excited indignation which makes its employment here literally a curse). "Execrated be he who sees harm in the Garter" is evidently the intent of the words; Sir Harris's "dishonoured" is far too feeble.

The Order itself may be said to rank indisputably as the first in the world, and the number of foreign Sovereigns who have accepted it is almost countless, though it is stated that English monarchs have rarely cared to receive any foreign Order. It is only conferred upon those who for at least three generations upon both their fathers' and mothers' sides have been gentlemen and free from dishonour of any kind. It was formerly limited to twenty-five Knight Companions, with the Sovereign and the Prince of Wales, and such occasional extra Knights and foreign rulers and dignitaries as might be admitted by special statute, the "extras" being merged in the regular five-and-twenty upon the first occurrence of vacancies. The "lineal descendants of King George the Second" were added in 1805, and this in 1831 was extended to those of George the First. A Knight of the Garter used at his investiture to be allotted a stall in St. George's Chapel at Windsor, over which was set up, to be retained throughout his life, his sword, helmet, crest, banner, and a plate containing his arms and titles; this practice was still in vogue at the date of Thoms's 'Book of the Court,' though instances in 1801 are mentioned of its being dispensed with. The ceremony of the accolade may be also considered to have ceased so far as the three noble Orders are concerned.

The officers of the Order are—Prelate, the Bishop of Winchester; Chancellor, the Bishop of Oxford (formerly Salisbury); Registrar, the Dean of Windsor—all three ex officio; besides these are Garter King of Arms, usually called "Garter," and the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod—these two being personal appointments. The Prelate and Chancellor are authorised to wear upon their left side a scutcheon of the arms of St. George; the latter wears also a gold medal enamelled on the one side with a rose and on the other with a St. George, both encircled with the garter. The Registrar has a mantle of crimson satin with an escutcheon of St. George's arms embroidered on the left shoulder; and on his breast he wears a red book of the Order with a device of two pens within the garter. The mantle of "Garter" himself is similar, and he wears a gold medal enamelled with the Sovereign's arms, impaled with the Cross of St. George, surrounded with the garter, and surmounted by a crown. Like other Kings of Arms (these others being Clarenceux for England south of the Trent, Norroy for north of same, Lyon for Scotland, and Ulster for Ireland) he has a crown of silver and gilt, figured in sixteen oak-leaves. Black Rod again has a similar mantle, his Rod is surmounted by the Lion of England, and he wears before his breast a gold badge composed on both sides of a knot encompassed with the garter and motto. He is granted during life a house on the south side within Windsor Castle, whilst the Prelate and Chancellor have apartments respectively in the Winchester and Chancellor's Towers of the same.

The decorations of the Knights of the Order constitute a most elaborate and imposing array, comprising the Garter, Mantle, Surcoat, Star, Hood, Hat, Collar, George, Lesser George, and Ribbon. First, the Garter itself (worn below the left knee), of dark blue velvet edged with gold, the motto in golden letters, and the buckle and pendant of chased gold (those awarded to foreign Sovereigns have been most richly gemmed, that sent to Gustavus Adolphus having the motto composed of some four hundred diamonds). Secondly comes the Mantle, which is of dark blue velvet lined with white taffeta (this is the mantle worn by Sovereigns upon state occasions, the regal distinction lying in the extra length of the train). Thirdly we have the Surcoat, of crimson velvet, lined like the Mantle and adorned like it upon the left breast with an eight-pointed silver-embroidered Star, within which is the Red Cross of St. George, the whole encircled by a miniature blue garter. After these come the Hood, resembling the Surcoat in colour and material, and the Hat, which is of black velvet and surmounted by a plume attached by diamonds and composed of white ostrich feathers with a central tuft of black ones from the heron. Then there is the Collar, which is constructed of twenty-six circular medals of gold fastened together by chains exactly in the manner of the circles in our title-page; each medal has for its border a garter with its motto, and for its interior a rose, alternately white and red: between each medal and the next is a true-lover's knot, formed of gold and enamelled white. The twenty-six "garters" as they are termed (we here call them medals for clearness, as the idea of twenty-six garters round the neck might be too suggestive of strangulation) correspond to the number of the Order—the Sovereign and Knight Companions; the entire Collar weighs exactly thirty-two ounces. Suspended to this Collar over the breast is the Badge or George, an image of that saint encountering the Dragon; the Lesser George, which is similar, is attached to the broad dark blue Ribbon of the Order, passing over the left shoulder and crossing obliquely to beneath the right arm. Designation of the Order the appended letters K.G.

THE MOST ANCIENT AND MOST NOBLE ORDER OF THE THISTLE.—The Scottish Order of the Thistle is reputed to be of very remote origin: Foster's 'Peerage' assigns it to A.D. 787, and it is said to have taken its beginning from the vision of a bright cross in the heavens seen by Achaius, King of Scots, and Hungus, King of the Picts, as they were engaged in prayer in the night before their battle with Athelstan, King of England. What element of truth there may be in this story no one can now confidently state. What is historical is that in the year 1540 James the Fifth either established or revived the Order, and that it had again to be restored in 1687 by James the Seventh of Scotland and Second of England, who created eight Knights and assigned to them the royal chapel at Holyrood, which is still the chapel of the Order. Once more the order collapsed through the Revolution of the following year, but on December 31, 1703, it was again and more permanently established by Queen Anne. In 1827 it was decreed that its membership should comprise the Sovereign and sixteen Knights, but other personages of the Royal Family have since been added. Its officials are the Dean, the Secretary, Lyon King of Arms, and the Gentleman Usher of the Green Rod. The decorations consist of the Badge or Jewel, the Star, the Collar, and the Ribbon. The Badge is in the form of a somewhat elongated eight-pointed star, and is charged with a gold enamelled figure of St. Andrew holding before him his own cross: it is worn either pendent to the Collar or attached to the dark green Ribbon of the Order, which passes over the left shoulder and across the breast. The Star, properly so called, is itself formed in part of a St. Andrew's Cross of silver embroidery, between the four limbs of which are four starry rays, the centre being occupied by a thistle (blue flower with green foliage), which is surrounded by a circle with the motto, "Nemo me impune lacessit" (No one provokes me with impunity): this is worn on the left side of the coat or cloak. The Collar is composed of a series of golden thistles alternating with sprigs of rue. Designation, the letters K.T.

The Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick.—This, the leading Order of Ireland as the Thistle is of Scotland, was instituted by George the Third in 1783. The number of Knight Companions was originally fifteen, but was increased in 1833 to twenty-two, in addition to the Sovereign, the Lord Lieutenant (as Grand Master), and some members of the Royal Family. All Lord Lieutenants on retirement retain the insignia, but not the ex-officio knighthood. There was formerly a religious ceremony attached to the investiture, but this was abolished on the disestablishment of the Irish Church, in conformity with which event the offices of Prelate and Registrar have lapsed, whilst the Chancellor, instead of being an Archbishop, is now the Secretary for Ireland of the Ministry of the day. The other officers are the Ulster King of Arms, the Secretary, the Usher of the Black Rod (Ireland), and the Genealogist. The decorations consist of the Badge, Star, Collar, and Ribbon. The Badge and Star have each of them in the centre a St. Patrick's Cross in red surmounted by a green leaf of Shamrock, each lobe of which is charged with an Imperial Crown; around this is a circle with a motto in gold letters, "Quis separabit?" (Who shall separate us?); surrounding this again there is in the Badge, which is of gold, a wreath of Shamrocks confining the whole within an oval outline, whilst in the Star there are eight spreading rays of silver: these two ornaments are worn as under the previous Orders. The Collar is wholly of gold and made up of a series of five roses, two harps, and an Imperial Crown, alternating with eight golden knots, the roses being enamelled alternately white petals within red and red within white; whilst the crown, which occupies the front centre, has attached to it a third and much larger harp forming the connecting-link between the Collar and Badge (the other two harps are at the sides, the roses three behind and two in front, the crown taking in this last position the place of the centre one). The Ribbon is sky-blue. Designation, the letters K.P.

The Most Honourable Order of the Bath.—The name of this, by far the largest of our Orders of Knighthood and the highest in honour of those to which commoners can hope to attain, was evidently taken from an initiatory ceremony of bathing. If it is too much to assert that the Order itself was founded in 1399, and though Sir Bernard Burke may be perfectly correct in the statement that no "Order" existed at that date, it appears historically true that Henry the Fourth did, on his coronation in that year, confer a distinguished knightly honour upon forty-six gentlemen who underwent a series of forms upon the occasion, of which ablution was a principal item; indeed, we are told that so early as 1127 Henry the First made Geoffrey of Anjou and five others "Knights of the Bath" at the marriage of his daughter the Princess Matilda. Thus we may say that the Order appears to have had its germ at least as early as 1399, though it was not till 1725 that it was placed upon a solid foundation; since that date it has received successive enlargements in 1815, 1847, 1861, and 1887. The account given of Henry the Fourth's Knights and of their evident successors is interesting and apposite enough to be here repeated. The earliest chronicler of the subject is Froissart, who tells us of the King giving his Knights "long green coats, the sleeves whereof were cut straight and furred with minever, and with great hoods or chaperons furred in the same manner, and after the fashion used by prelates; and every one of these Knights on his left shoulder had a double cordon, or string of white silk, to which white tassels were pendent." On the evening previous to their investiture they were all assembled, we are not told where, and each of them had his separate chamber and bath, the rites of the latter having to be duly performed that night. This ceremony, however, as was shown by Mr. Anstis in a quarto volume upon the subject published in 1725—the year when the Order took a more definite form—was observed at the creation of Knights much earlier still than the time of Henry the Fourth. Thus the actual original of our Order becomes "lost in the mists of antiquity," and we are glad to be able to supplement Froissart's account by a more definite one of apparently the same "Order" as described on the occasion of the investiture of a number of Knights in 1610, when Prince Henry, son of James the First, was created Prince of Wales. The "Lords and others who were to receive the Honourable Order of the Bath" were bidden to repair to Durham House in the Strand, there to undergo a whole course of ceremonial observances. Burke assures us that Knights of the Bath "were only Knights Bachelors knighted with more elaborate ceremony," and if we accept this view as to the occasion in question they then become an Order within an Order, so that really there appears little force in the negation. To return to our "Lords and others," noting by the way that the Order of the Bath was at that period habitually bestowed on state occasions upon such of the flower of the nobility as had received no other Order of Knighthood—these Knights-designate were conducted in the evening to the bathing-chamber, "where for each of them was provided a several bathing-tub, which was lined both within and without with white linen and covered with red say. After the bath they betook themselves to rest. Early the next morning they were awakened with music, and at their uprising invested in their hermit's habit." So attired and without shoes they were brought into the chapel, where a solemn oath was administered to them to "honour God and maintain true religion, love their Sovereign, serve their country, help maidens, widows, and orphans, and to the utmost of their power cause equity and justice to be observed." After this they were invested in crimson robes, with white gloves, white boots, white crosses, and white hats with white feathers, and they then mounted on horseback, each Knight between two esquires, with footmen attending, and a page in front carrying the sword and spurs. In this array they rode to the Court gate, and there individually (the highest in rank first) entered the hall and knelt before the King, to whom the sword of each was handed, when he passed the belt over the neck of the Knight and so placed the sword under the left arm; two principal nobles then put on the spurs. All being concluded, they returned to Durham House, where a dinner was set before them which they were not to touch, but to leave to their esquires and pages. In the afternoon they returned fasting to Court and passed a long service in the King's chapel. On making their exit they were met by the King's cook, "who stood there with his white apron and sleeves, and a chopping-knife in his hand, and challenged their spurs, which were redeemed with a noble in money, threatening them nevertheless that if they should not be true and loyal to the King, it must be his office to hew them from their heels." The above, with much further detail, gives us an insight into the early usages as well as the significance of the Order; it is culled from a paper preserved by Mr. Anstis which purports to give the proceedings as observed "according to the order given from the Commissioners appointed for the oversight of these ceremonies." We pass to 1725, when George the First, at the suggestion of Sir Robert Walpole, renewed the Order and decreed that it should consist of thirty-seven Knights and the Sovereign. It was in 1815, however, upon the close of the long wars, that it was greatly enlarged and modelled almost into its present arrangement with its three Classes, but only the highest of these comprised as yet a Civil Division, and this limited to one-sixth of the total of the Class. In 1847 it was again enlarged, the Civil Division being extended to the other two Classes and increased in numbers in the first of these. Eventually the numbers were fixed as stated below, but these are exclusive of the Royal Family and of such distinguished foreigners as may be admitted Honorary Members of either Division or Class: even then there is a laxity permitted as to the precise numbers, as supernumerary members can always be admitted by the temporary use of the word "Additional" (and so with the Orders generally). It must also be particularly noted that great numbers of military men are found under the Civil Division, on account of their services having been of a scientific or other non-military character; a few have obtained both Divisions.

The officers are the Dean (the Dean of Westminster), the Bath King of Arms, the Registrar and Secretary, and the Gentleman Usher of the Scarlet Rod. As a rule, though not without exceptions, recipients of this Order must begin with the lowest Class, or Companions, and so through Knights Commanders before they can become Grand Crosses. The Military Division of even the lowest rank is only conferred upon distinction in action against the enemy so as to procure a medal or other badge of distinction, or else a special mention in despatches; it is never granted to any officer of lower grade than that of Major in the Army or Commander in the Navy—indeed at present there appear to be no recipients lower than Lieut.-Colonels in the Army and Captains in the Navy, the Distinguished Service Order sufficing for inferior ranks.

The decorations of the Order consist of the Badge, Star, Collar, and Ribbon. The Badge for the Military Division is a (genuine) Maltese Cross of gold with eight silver enamelled balls upon the points, and within each of the four principal angles a lion; in the central circle are a rose, thistle, and shamrock issuing from a sceptre, with three Albert Crowns interspersed (crowns with four arches); in the border is the motto, "Tria juncta in uno" (Three joined in one), with a laurel-wreath completely surrounding it, whilst in a scroll beneath are the words "Ich dien" (I serve): by the Grand Crosses this is worn pendent from the Collar, by the Knights Commanders from the Ribbon, and by Companions from the button-hole. The Badge of the Civil Division is also of gold, and in the centre is similar to the above but larger (decreasing however with the three Classes), and it is oval and without the surrounding cross and lions. The Star is of silver, and for the Grand Crosses of the Military Division resembles the Badge as to the cross, laurel-wreath, and mottoes, but has simply three Imperial Crowns in the central space, being externally surrounded with a glory of silver flames; for the Civil Grand Crosses there is the same centre, but an eight-rayed star in lieu of flames, cross, and wreath; for the Knights Commanders there is a silver cross-pattée round the same centre, the Military Division alone taking the laurel-wreath and the scroll. The Collar of the Grand Crosses, both Civil and Military, is of gold and weighs thirty ounces Troy; it is composed of nine Albert Crowns alternating with eight combinations of roses, thistles, and shamrocks, the whole series being linked together by seventeen golden knots. The Ribbon is red, and worn over the right shoulder by Grand Crosses (observe that the three preceding and higher Orders wore it over the left), but round the neck by Knights Commanders, who utilise it in place of the Collar for suspension of the Badge; Companions have neither Collar nor Star, and suspend the Badge from the button-hole. On high state occasions the Knights wear a crimson surcoat and red mantle, vest and breeches of white satin, white stockings and shoes, golden spurs, and a high-crowned hat with a plume of white feathers. The designations with the nominal limiting numbers are as under (these numbers being at the present date all exceeded—increasingly so since 1897—with the exception of the 690 Military C.B.'s):—

The Most Exalted Order of the Star of India.—We are now brought down to a very modern date, for the Order next in precedence after the Bath was constituted by her present Majesty in 1861, being subsequently enlarged successively in 1866, 1875, and 1876. Its purpose is to reward services in and for India, and to recognise the loyalty of friendly native rulers and chiefs. It consists of the Sovereign, the Governor-General of India as Grand Master, some 250 Knights and Companions disposed in three classes as below, and such extra and Honorary Members as the Sovereign may from time to time appoint. The officers are the Registrar and the Secretary, and the decorations the Badge, Star, Collar, Ribbon, and Mantle. The Badge is an onyx cameo of Her Majesty's bust set in an oval and surrounded with the motto "Heaven's Light our Guide;" it is surmounted by a five-rayed star wholly in diamonds, which forms the connecting-link with the Collar. The Star proper has in its centre a smaller star like the preceding, with the same encircling motto, also in diamonds, and around the whole a glory of golden flames. The Collar is of gold, and adorned, enamelled in their proper colours, with an Heraldic Crown, five red-and-white roses, six lotuses, and ten pairs of palm branches. The Ribbon is sky-blue with a narrow white stripe towards each edge, and is worn by Grand Commanders over the right shoulder, crossing to the left; by Knights Commanders round the neck, as with the preceding Order; Companions attach the Badge by it to the left breast. The Mantle is of light blue satin lined with white and adorned with blue and silver tassels and a representation of the Star. Designations and limits (these latter all exceeded or extended in 1897):—

The Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George.—Though clearly older than the preceding this Order has been placed after it in dignity, the great importance of India being thereby signified to outweigh that of the other Colonies—the department with which the present Order is concerned. It was originally established, in 1818, to commemorate the placing of the Ionian Islands under the protectorate of Great Britain. It was thus limited at first to natives of these islands and of Malta, and to "such other subjects of His Majesty as may hold high and confidential situations in the Mediterranean." In 1832 its three Classes were fixed at the numbers of fifteen, twenty, and twenty-five respectively; but it was enlarged successively in 1868, 1877, 1879, and 1887, till it has come to be assignable to any person who has rendered valuable services in either Colonial or Foreign Affairs. It now comprises the Sovereign, the Grand Master or Principal Knight Grand Cross, a number of Royal Princes, with possible extra or Honorary Members, and the regular Knights as below. Its officers are the Prelate, Chancellor, Secretary, King of Arms, and Registrar: the Colonial Office is its Chancery. The decorations are the Badge, Star, Collar, Ribbon, Mantle, and Chapeau. The Badge is white enamelled and resembling a Maltese Cross but with seven arms instead of four: on one side it represents the Archangel Michael encountering Satan, and on the other St. George and the Dragon; around each of these designs is the motto "Auspicium melioris ævi" (The token of a better age); above the whole Badge is a crown attaching it to the Collar. The Star of a Knight Grand Cross consists of seven rays of silver spreading in the manner of a Maltese Cross, and with narrow ones of gold between, while in the centre is the figure of St. George with the motto, and the extremities of the four arms of a cross protruding from beneath this central circle. That of Knights Commanders is smaller and of only four rays. The collar is made up of crowned lions (the two in the front having wings), Maltese Crosses, and ciphers of the letters S. M. and S. G., with a crown in the front centre slightly within the circle: all gold except the crosses, which are of white enamel. The Ribbon is of Saxon blue with a scarlet stripe, and is worn by the three classes with the same variations as under the Bath. The Mantle and Chapeau are of blue satin lined with scarlet silk, the latter surmounted with white and black ostrich feathers. The following are the designations (which it will be observed accord with those of the Order of the Bath in the use of the term "Grand Cross," while the two Indian Orders alone substitute "Grand Commanders"):—

1st Class,	Knights Grand Cross	Sir A.B., G.C.M.G.	... 65 members.
2nd ,,	Knights Commanders	Sir A.B., K.C.M.G.	...200 ,,

THE MOST EMINENT ORDER OF THE INDIAN EMPIRE.—The Order so entitled was instituted by her present Majesty so recently as January 1, 1878, and for the purpose of commemorating her proclamation in the previous year as Empress of India. It is awarded for a like purpose with the Order of the Star of India, though inferior to it in the scale of precedence. In 1886 it was enlarged, and again at the Jubilee in 1887. It now consists of the Sovereign, the Governor-General (as Grand Master), some members of the Royal Family, and the usual three classes besides extras, whilst there exists the special proviso that all Councillors of the Indian Empire are life Companions ex officio. Till 1887 it consisted of Companions only, but the two higher classes were added in that year. Its officers are the Secretary (who is the Foreign Secretary of the Indian Government for the time being) and the Registrar. The decorations are the Badge, Star, Collar, Ribbon, and Mantle. The Badge, which is wholly of gold, consists of an open red rose with Her Majesty's effigy in the centre surrounded by the motto "Imperatricis auspiciis" ("Under the auspices of the Empress"—at first it was "Victoria Imperatrix"): above the rose is an Heraldic Crown connecting the Badge with a similar but larger crown in the Collar. The Star, for the First Class, has its centre like that of the Badge, but with the crown immediately surmounting, and is surrounded with alternate gold and silver rays; for the Second Class these rays are all silver. The Collar, worn by the First Class only, is of gold, and is made up of the crown in front with a pair of chains linking together a series of elephants, peacocks, and lotus-flowers. The Ribbon is of imperial blue and is worn with the same variations as under the Bath, &c., Companions attaching the Badge by it to the left breast. The Mantle is of purple satin lined with white silk and fastened with purple silk and gold tassels: on its left a representation of the Star. Designations, with nominal, but exceeded, limits:—

1st Class,	Knights Grand Commanders.....	Sir A.B., G.C.I.E.	... 25 members.
2nd ,,	Knights Commanders	Sir A.B., K.C.I.E.	... 72 ,,
3rd ,,	Companions.....	The letters C.I.E.	... unlimited.

The C.I.E. appointments each year are limited to 20 + vacancies through promotion.

THE ROYAL VICTORIAN ORDER.—This last of our Orders of Knighthood, which dates only from April 21, 1896, is specially designed as a recognition of personal services to Her Majesty, and may thus be regarded as the revival of a project started several years ago, but carried, we believe, no further than its bestowal upon the late Mr. John Brown. It has the distinctive feature of comprising no less than five Classes, of which the 1st is to take precedence after G.C.I.E., the 2nd and 3rd after K.C.I.E., the 4th after C.I.E., and the 5th after D.S.O. It will thus be observed that a C.V.O., though not a Knight but having the style "Commander," is superior to C.B.'s, and even to Knights Bachelors. Any foreign members (Princes or others) are to be Honorary only. It has its appointed Anniversary on June 20, the day of Her Majesty's accession. Its officers are the Chancellor and Secretary, who are respectively the Lord Chamberlain of the Household and the Keeper of the Privy Purse for the time being. The decorations are the Badge, Star, and Ribbon. The Badge, for the 1st Class, is a white enamelled Maltese Cross with a crimson oval in the centre containing the royal and imperial cipher and the name "Victoria," all in gold letters, the name being surrounded by a blue circle surmounted by a crown; for the 2nd and 3rd Classes it is similar but smaller, and for the 4th smaller still; for the 5th it is the size of the 4th, but with the cross in frosted silver instead of white enamel. The Star for the 1st class is silver chipped, with eight points, and having a smaller reproduction of the Badge in its centre; for the 2nd Class it is in the form of a Maltese Cross in silver but with smaller rays, and having the reproduced Badge in frosted silver instead of enamel: it is not worn by the three lower Classes. The Ribbon is of dark blue with a narrow edging of three stripes—red, white, and red again; for the 1st Class it is $3\frac{3}{4}$ ins. broad and worn from over the right shoulder to below the left arm, having the Badge suspended to it; for the 2nd and 3rd classes it is $1\frac{3}{4}$ ins. broad and worn round the neck; for the 4th and 5th it is $1\frac{1}{4}$ ins. broad and attached to the left breast. The numbers of all the Classes are unlimited, and the following are the designations:—

[The Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order.—This Order, though it has ceased to be conferred in this country since the death of William the Fourth, was instituted in 1815 by the then Prince Regent to commemorate the establishment of Hanover as a Kingdom, and was formerly far more British than Hanoverian. It had its complete array of decorations, with the motto "Nec aspera terrent" (Nor do difficulties dismay us). The following are its designations with its only surviving British representatives :—

G.C.H. (Knight Grand Cross of Hanover)—Fd. Marsh. H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge.
H.R.H. the Duke of Cumberland.
K.C.H. (Knight Commander of Hanover—last, Sir Woodbine Parish, who died 1881).
K.H. (Knight of Hanover—corresponding to Companions and not entitled "Sir").

Baron von Pawel-Rammingen, though not strictly English, may be cited as the last of the K.H.'s in this country.]

Knights Bachelors.—In the stricter use of the term these do not constitute an "Order," though the phrase "the Order of Knighthood" is met with as including all Knights whatsoever. We have mentioned under "General Remarks" that the more ancient class of Knights were known simply as Knights, or Equites Aurati; it must be added that 'Bachelors' (Milites Bacchilarii) were at first not Knights at all, but seem to have stood much in the position of our modern "Companions." But by degrees, apparently through the greater lustre of the Knights of the Bath, these other two ranks came to be merged in their present compound title. It is usually held that the word "Bachelor" in this usage is a corruption of "bas chevalier," as implying a lower rank of Knights than those who received the honour under the royal banner, but perhaps in accordance with the statement above it should rather be interpreted as "lower than the Knight himself." Mention has been made of the systematic sale of this and other honours by James the First, who during the second year of his reign created 300 Knights. In the case of this degree he even outdid his achievements in the sale of Baronetcies, till we are told that a satirical placard was affixed to the door of St. Paul's Cathedral offering to teach a new art of memory to enable people to bear in mind the names of the newly-created title-bearers, and the King himself became so humiliated by his own doings that upon one occasion when the new Knight showed embarrassment at his own lack of prestige, James exclaimed, "Hold up your head, man, and spare your blushes; I have more cause to be ashamed than you have." A rather back-handed piece of consolation surely!

A few centuries earlier the Knight, like the Baron, was a part of the feudal system, and the possession of a Knight's fee or of a certain small amount of land not only gave a claim to but allowed no escape from the title. Still though it might be a burden it was an honour usually sought with avidity. But when under the Stuarts the honour was degraded as above, while the ancient requirement to provide troops for the King was still maintained, the Knights-designate were often glad to second their tenants in the effort to obtain exense from the promotion, submitting in its stead, the one to pay large sums of indemnity and the others to submit to special levies of taxation. In the treaty at Newport between Charles the First and his Parliament it was agreed that the King should receive in place of the knightly service a tax of £100,000 a year upon the relieved lands; and by the 12th of Charles the Second an excise on beer and other drinks was substituted and the service wholly abolished—the populace gladly accepting this burden in place of some sixty days per year for which they had hitherto been obliged to go with the troops.

A story of antipathy to knightly honours, though resting upon a rather different ground, may here be introduced from the reign of George the Fourth. A Norfolk M.P. who prided himself upon being a simple commoner, and who had distinguished himself by a somewhat violent denunciation of this monarch's father, was once entrusted by his constituents with an address to the throne. This address was no more agreeable to the King than was the presence of the democratic representative, so His Majesty roundly desired that he would never come before him with such a document again. "If my constituents entrust it to me for that purpose it will be my duty to present it to Your Majesty," replied the imperturbable one. "Very well," said the King, "but remember, if you do, by G—— I'll knight you!"

The designation of a Knight Bachelor is the simple prefix Sir (it is permissible to add "Knight" or "Kt.," but this is not usual). There is no decoration attached, and no limit to the numbers.

The Distinguished Service Order.—In this and the two following Orders we may be said to have Knighthood without Knights, the members being Companions only. It is ordained that the present Order is to rank immediately after the 4th Class of the Royal Victorian, the sequence of Companions thus becoming—C.B., C.S.I., C.M.G., C.I.E., M.V.O. 4th Class, D.S.O., M.V.O. 5th Class. The Order under notice was instituted by her present Majesty in 1886, its purpose being the recognition of special services of commissioned officers in the Army and Navy. The Sovereign is at its head and its numbers are unlimited. Its Badge is a gold cross enamelled white, one side bearing an Heraldic Crown surrounded by a wreath of laurels; on the reverse side the cipher VRI (Victoria Regina Imperatrixque) within a similar wreath: this is worn attached to the left breast by a red ribbon edged blue. Designation, the letters D.S.O.

The Royal Order of Victoria and Albert (for Ladies).—Instituted in 1862, and enlarged in 1864, 1865, and 1880. It consists of Her Majesty and four Classes, of which the First contains Princesses of the Royal Family with some foreign Queens, the Second of Royal Princesses and Duchesses less nearly connected with our Royal Family, and the Third and Fourth of ladies of the British nobility of higher or lower rank. Badge, in the first three Classes a medallion of Her Majesty and the Prince Consort, differing in the width and jewelling of the border as the Classes descend, whilst the fourth substitutes a jewelled cipher. All four are surmounted by some form of a crown, which is attached to a bow of white moire ribbon. Designation, the letters V.A.

The Imperial Order of the Crown of India (for Ladies).—Instituted Jan. 1, 1878, and for a like purpose with the simultaneously created Order of the Indian Empire. It consists of Her Majesty with some Royal Princesses, and the female relatives of Indian Princes or of persons who have held conspicuous offices in connection with India. Badge, the cipher VRI (Victoria Regina Imperatrixque) in jewels within an oval, surmounted by an Heraldic Crown and attached to a bow of light blue watered ribbon edged white. Designation, the letters C.I.

There are certain Decorations which, though in no sense Orders of Knighthood, and conferring no rank or precedence, are still held in sufficient estimation to claim a notice in sequence to the above.

The Victoria Cross (V.C) was instituted in 1856, on the close of the Crimean War, as a recognition of conspicuous acts of bravery in presence of the enemy displayed by either soldiers or sailors. It was designed primarily for the rank and file and non-commissioned officers, but it is held also by all grades up to Field-Marshals and Admirals of the Fleet, whilst by a special provision it was extended to civilians who had borne arms against the Indian mutineers. Conjoined with the decoration is the substantial reward, to non-commissioned officers and men, of a pension of £10 per annum and an additional £5 for each Bar, as immediately to be explained. The Badge consists in a cross pattée of bronze, having in the centre an Imperial Crown, surmounted by a lion and beneath it a scroll with the words "For Valour." Any additional act of bravery is noted by a Bar being affixed to the ribbon from which the cross hangs, it being suspended to the left breast, whilst the ribbon is red for the Army and blue for the Navy. The cross is usually styled "Maltese," but, according to the note on page 2 this must be incorrect, for its four arms are not cleft at the ends as they are in the decorations of the Bath, St. Michael and St. George, and the Royal Victorian. Though instituted in 1856 some of the original recipients are registered as from 1854, the date being that of the act by which the honour was earned.

The VOLUNTEER OFFICERS' DECORATION (V.D.) is an honour for rewarding the meritorious services of officers of the force in question, who must be or have been in commission and have served twenty years, though a provision is made allowing half the time spent in other military service to be counted in making up this term. Dishonourable conduct is to entail the erasure of the name and a publication of the fact in the "Gazette." The Badge is an oak wreath in silver with the cipher VR and an Heraldic Crown in the centre; it is suspended to the left breast by a green ribbon attached to a silver oak bar-brooch.

The ALBERT MEDAL dates from 1866, with extensions in 1867 and 1877, and is a recognition of acts of gallantry performed by civilians, who are placed in two Divisions, the one receiving a Badge inscribed "For Gallantry in Saving Life at Sea;" the other with the closing words varied to "on Land." Each Division has now two Classes, the one receiving a Badge with a golden centre and a bronze garter around it, the other one wholly in bronze. All the Badges are oval, surmounted by an Albert Crown and containing in the central space the cipher VA, to which in the Sea Division an anchor is added. The suspending ribbon in this same Division is of dark blue, with four white stripes in the First Class and two in the Second; in the Land Division it is crimson with the same variations in white stripes. An added Bar, as under the Victoria Cross, records an additional act of gallantry.

The ROYAL RED CROSS (R.R.C.—for Ladies), founded 1883, is a distinction conferred upon ladies of any rank or position, whether subjects or foreigners, who may be brought to Her Majesty's notice for acts of mercy in attending to the sick or wounded in time of war. It has the Queen and several Royal Princesses at its head. Badge, a cross-pattée enamelled crimson with Her Majesty's effigy in the centre on one side, on the reverse the cipher VRI, and on the four arms respectively the words "Faith," "Hope," "Charity," "1883." The ribbon is dark blue edged red, tied in a bow and worn on the left shoulder.

The ORDER OF ST. JOHN OF JERUSALEM.—Though conferring no title or other mark of distinction, this Order must not be here passed without recognition. It took its origin in the century of the Norman Conquest, and by about 1100 it was established in England, making its headquarters the Priory of St. John in Clerkenwell, of which the ancient gateway still remains; the Sisters of the Order were located at Bucklands in Somersetshire. It began as a voluntary confraternity for the relief of pilgrims to Jerusalem, and a similar object has all along been kept before it, taking present expression in offshoots such as the St. John's Ambulance Association and the British Ophthalmic Hospital at Jerusalem. A new British charter was granted it by Her Majesty in 1888, its full title being therein given as "The Grand Priory of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England." For its officers and its various classes we must refer to page 112 of the ALMANACK: it also admits Honorary Associates. Its Badge is a true Maltese Cross with alternately a lion and a unicorn between the branches; it is of gold or silver according to the grade, and is worn suspended from a black watered silk ribbon. Its medal, with a device like that of the Badge upon one side and a sprig of St. John's wort upon the other, is conferred for acts of gallantry involving risk of life. The Order was once known as "The Knights of Malta" (hence the Maltese Cross), it having long settled in that island after migrating from Jerusalem to Acre and thence to Rhodes.

PRECEDENCE.

THE relative positions of the various grades have formed the subject of legal enactments from a very early period, the first apparently having been decreed in the reign of Edward the Third in the year 1339. After this we meet with a statute passed under Henry the Seventh and a more important one in the 31st year of Henry the Eighth, which has since been looked upon as the primary authority on the subject, though it was little more than a conferring of legal force upon the practices then current. Several acts of less account have followed, mostly in reference to questions of special controversy or doubt. Many striking omissions occur in the table, there being no recognition of the high office of Prime Minister nor of the leading military and naval commanders. Precedence as a rule can only be derived through a father, or, in the case of a wife, through her husband; the only exception being that a Peeress in her own right can confer it upon her offspring. Men possessing two claims to precedence, a personal and an official one, will be ranked according to whichever of these is the higher: yet this preference of the higher is not the invariable system, for if the son of a Duke, for instance, is summoned to the House of Lords in a Barony of his father's his rank forthwith sinks to that of a Baron. The children of a living Peer or Baronet rank before those of his predecessor, as they themselves will have the prior claim to succeed. A dignity which is exclusively official—as that of the Spiritual Peers and the Scottish Lords of Session—confers no precedence whatever upon the children, but those of a fully constituted Life Peer now rank as only one degree lower than other Barons' sons. The offspring of different Peers (or others) of the same rank will naturally be arranged in the order of their fathers—i.e., according to the dates of their patents. No foreign title confers any precedence in England, but veritable Ambassadors rank before all except the Royal Family, while "Envoys and Foreign Ministers" have latterly been placed, 'Burke' tells us, between Dukes and Marquesses.

Table of General Precedence.

The Sovereign.
The Prince of Wales.
Sovereign's younger sons.
Sovereign's grandsons.

Younger sons of younger sons of Peers.
Baronets' younger sons.
Knights' younger sons, in order of their fathers.
Naval, Military, and other Esquires by Office.
Gentlemen entitled to bear Coat Armour.
[English Precedence goes no further than this; but see at the close of Irish Precedence for a legitimate prescribed analogy.].

Knights of the Garter are placed nominally after Barons' eldest sons, but practically they take a place far above Barons themselves. For the same reason the total omission of Knights of the Thistle and St. Patrick is not of the slightest consequence. We have omitted all three of these, as also three or four offices which are now non-existent. In University Precedence we have Doctors (either D.D., M.D., LL.D., &c., in equality), Bachelors of the same faculties, then Masters of Arts, and lastly Bachelors of Arts. For Relative Ranks of Army and Navy, see page 233 of the ALMANACK. The order of Legal Precedence is, for the highest officials, given under the general list above; but for the remaining classes we must append the following after "Judges of the High Court:"

Judge Advocate-General.
Attorney-General.
Lord Advocate of Scotland.
Solicitor-General.
Queen's Counsel.
Serjeants.
Recorder of London.
Common Serjeant of London.
Attorney-General of Duchy of Lancaster.

Masters in Chancery.
Masters in Lunacy.
Doctors of Civil Law.
Barristers with patents of precedence.
Other Barristers.
Queen's Remembrancer.
Proctors.
Solicitors.
Notaries.

Similarly for Clerical Precedence we must add after "Irish Bishops:"

Bishop of Sodor and Man.
Scottish Bishops.
Colonial Bishops.
Bishop Suffragan, Retired, Assistant, and Missionary Bishops.
Deans.

Archdeacons.
Rectors of degree D.D.
Other Rectors.
Vicars of degree D.D.
Other Vicars.
Curates.

Precedence among Ladies.

As a first general rule the rank of ladies is that of their husbands if married and of their eldest brothers if single; but there are many special instances. Our Note upon the Marriage of Peeresses and others near the close of the division "The Peerage and its Degrees," comprehends much that is applicable to our subject here. It must be added that the wife of an eldest son takes precedence over all daughters, but these in their turn have priority over the wives of younger sons. A dowager lady again (not necessarily so styled, see p. 44) ranks higher than the wife of the living Peer or Baronet, because, whilst the younger cannot possibly succeed to the title, the elder comes the nearer to the original holder—a rule thus resulting which is the opposite to that observed in the cases of children, wherein those of the living Peer or Baronet take precedence on account of nearness to the future succession. The mere official rank of the husband as a rule confers no dignity whatever upon his wife; but even here there are exceptions in cases where the wives have a species of public duties to perform, as those of a Lady Mayoress and the wife of a Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. The following is the order observed:

The Queen.
The Princess of Wales.
Sovereign's daughters.
Wives of Sovereign's younger sons.
Sovereign's granddaughters.
Wives of Sovereign's grandsons.
Sovereign's sisters.
Wives of Sovereign's brothers.
Sovereign's aunts.
Wives of Sovereign's uncles.
Sovereign's nieces.
Wives of Sovereign's nephews.
Duchesses (in order of Dukes).
Wives of eldest sons of Dukes of the Blood Royal.
Marchionesses.
Wives of eldest sons of Dukes.
Daughters of Dukes.
Countesses.
Wives of younger sons of Dukes of the Blood Royal.
Wives of eldest sons of Marquesses.
Daughters of Marquesses.
Wives of younger sons of Dukes.
Viscountesses.
Wives of eldest sons of Earls.
Daughters of Earls.

Wives of younger sons of Marquesses.
Baronesses.
Wives of eldest sons of Viscounts.
Daughters of Viscounts.
Wives of younger sons of Earls.
Wives of eldest sons of Barons.
Daughters of Barons.
Maids of Honour.
Wives of younger sons of Viscounts.
Wives of younger sons of Barons.
Daughters, and sons' wives, of Life Peers.
Wives of Baronets.
Wives of Knights (in order of rank of husbands).
Wives of Companions.
Wives of eldest sons of younger sons of Peers.
Daughters of younger sons of Peers.
Wives of eldest sons of Baronets.
Daughters of Baronets.
Wives of eldest sons of Knights.
Daughters of Knights.*
Wives of younger sons of Peers' younger sons.
Wives of younger sons of Baronets.
Wives of younger sons of Knights.
Wives of Esquires.
Wives of Gentlemen.

Local Precedence.

There is little of a general character that need here be noted. The person highest in rank in a county is the Lord Lieutenant, after whom comes the High Sheriff. In London the order is—Lord Mayor Past Lord Mayors, Recorder, Aldermen not passed the Chair, Sheriffs, Chamberlain, Town Clerk, Common Serjeant, Comptroller, Remembrancer (no position is yet assigned to the new office of Lieutenants). In other corporate towns we have the Mayor first unless there is a High Steward, then the Recorder,

* Authorities differ as to whether the wives of eldest sons of all Knights take precedence of all daughters, or whether the two are taken by turns with each Order separately. There seems a concurrence as to the wives of all younger sons ranking lower than daughters.

Sheriff, and Aldermen. At Oxford and Cambridge the Sheriff takes precedence of the Vice-Chancellor.

Precedence in Scotland.

The Sovereign.
The Lord High Commissioner to the Gen. Assembly (while that Assembly is sitting).
The Prince of Wales.

Doctors of Laws.
Doctors of Medicine.
Esquires.
Gentlemen.

MODES OF ADDRESSING PERSONS OF TITLE.

 For Conclusions of Letters see p. 45.

Admiral.—The title and name only, any other ascription following the office thus: "Vice-Admiral Lord A.," "Rear-Admiral the Earl of C." (or "the Hon. C. D.") So with other Naval and Military Officers.

Alderman.—If of London, officially addressed "Right Worshipful;" elsewhere "Worshipful."

Ambassador.—"Your Excellency" (but a Duke "Your Grace"); "His Excellency Sir Y. Z., H.B.M.'s Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of R." (but see Minister for any lower rank). Wife, no title.

Archbishop.—"My Lord Archbishop," "Your Grace," "His Grace [or "The Most Reverend"] the Lord Archbishop of C.;" in formal addresses "The Most Reverend Father in God, John, by Divine Providence, Archbishop of Canterbury;" elsewhere, "by Divine Permission." (The Abp. of Armagh is in Ireland styled "His Grace the Lord Primate of All Ireland.") Wife, no title.

ARCHDEACON.—"Venerable Sir," "Sir" (in repeating), "The Venerable A. B.," or "The Venerable the Archdeacon of C."

BARON.—"My Lord," "Your Lordship," "The Right Hon. Lord A." Baroness, "Madam," "Your Ladyship," "The Right Hon. Lady A." The term "My Lady" is relegated to servants, and even "The Right Hon." is usually cut down to "The Lady A." (no Christian name), the word "The" being understood as a substitute for "Rt. Hon." and distinguishing a Baron's Lady or the daughter of a Peer from the wife of a Baronet or Knight. See also at end of "Duke." Son or daughter, "Sir," or "Madam," "The Hon. C. D." Son's wife, "The Hon. Mrs. D." or "The Hon. Mrs. John D." (unless her own rank is higher, in which case attend to Note on "Marriage of Peeresses," at p. 18 (no distinction for eldest son).

BARONET.—"Sir" ("Dear Sir Thomas" is rather too familiar to be used by inferiors), "Sir T. A., Bart." Wife, "Madam," "Your Ladyship," "Lady A." (without any Christian name unless she is a Lady by birth, as daughter of a Duke, Marquess, or Earl, in which case "The Lady Mary A.;" if daughter of a Viscount or Baron, "The Hon. Lady A.;" otherwise "Lady A." without "The"—see preceding paragraph). Son or daughter as commoners.

BISHOP.—"My Lord," "Your Lordship," "The Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of D.;" formally, "The Right Reverend Father in God, John, by Divine Permission Lord Bishop of D." Wife, as a commoner. Bishop Suffragan, "Right Reverend Sir," "The Right Reverend the Bishop Suffragan of D." Retired Bishop, "Right Reverend Sir," "The Right Reverend Bishop A." (the surname). So for Scottish, Colonial, and United States Bishops, using either surname or diocese; and so for Irish Bishops, except that the present Bishop of Limerick (appointed before disestablishment) retains the same distinctions as the English, and the Bishop of Meath takes the style of "Most Reverend." But see art. on Bishops, p. 15, as to the general prefixing of "Lord" by way of courtesy.

CANON.—"Reverend Sir," "Sir" (in repeating), "The Reverend Canon B."

CARDINAL.—"Your Eminence," "His Eminence Cardinal B." (or "H. E. Joseph, Cardinal B.").

CLERGYMEN.—"Reverend Sir," "Sir," "The Rev. E. F." If an "Honourable," "The Rev. the Hon.," better than "Hon. and Rev."

COMPANIONS OF KNIGHTHOOD.—No distinction: "E. F., Esq., C.B." So with a C.V.O.

CONSUL.—"B. C., Esq., H.B.M.'s Consul at D."

COUNTESS.—See Earl.

COURTESY LORDS.—Eldest sons precisely as if the title was that of an actual Peerage. For younger sons see under Duke, &c.

DEAN.—"Very Reverend Sir," "Mr. Dean," "Sir" (in repeating), "The Very Rev. the Dean of B."

DIVORCED LADY.—In her maiden name, but with "Mrs." instead of "Miss" (no retention of any former title whether claimed or not). If divorced on her own petition the presumption is that she will be glad to be quit of the objectionable name; hence practically the rule will be the same.

DOWAGER LADIES.—Directions for the correct use of the term "Dowager" or its substitute will be found under "Peers' Widows" on page 19. The forms of address will then be such as "The Right Hon. Maria, Marchioness of A.," "The Right Hon. the Dowager Lady B." "Her Grace the Dowager Duchess of C.," or with a Baronetess, "The Dowager Lady D." (the article here seems indispensable and does not do duty for "Rt. Hon."), or "Emily, Lady E." A Knight's widow suffers no change of title, for there can be no Dowagers where there is no hereditary succession. There appears to be no settled practice as to whether the word "Dowager" shall precede or follow the essential term of honour. We venture to recommend that it should follow when the name or title is not expressed (as "the Duchess Dowager," "The Lady Dowager"), but precede when that title is given (as "The Dowager Duchess of A.," "The Dowager Countess of [or "Lady"] B.").

DUKE.—"My Lord Duke," "Your Grace," "His Grace [or "The Most Noble"] the Duke of A.;" formally, "My Lord Duke, May it please Your Grace." Duchess, "Madam," "Your Grace," "Her Grace the Duchess of A." Eldest son and his wife addressed by the courtesy title and precisely as if it was a genuine Marquessate or Earldom (for the children of these see under "Courtesy Titles," p. 25). Younger son, "My Lord," "Your Lordship," "The Lord Henry C." Daughter, "Madam," "Your Ladyship," "The Lady Sophia C.;" so younger son's wife, but "The Lady Henry C.," unless herself a Duke's daughter, when "The Lady Sophia" will again be correct. For the status of married daughters of Dukes and other Peers see art. on p. 18. The prefix "Right Honourable" is assigned by courtesy to younger sons and all daughters of Dukes and Marquesses, and to the daughters of Earls (i.e. to those taking the title "Lord" or "Lady"), but it is seldom used in any of these cases; the substitution of "The" is however imperative.

EARL.—"My Lord," "Your Lordship," "The Right Hon. the Earl of A." Countess accordingly, but see Baroness. Eldest son and any daughter as under Duke (with necessary conformation); younger son as Baron's son.

EMPEROR.—"Sire," "Your Imperial Majesty."

ENVOY.—See Ambassador and Minister.

GENERAL.—See Admiral.

GOVERNOR OF A COLONY.—"His Excellency Sir A. B., the Governor of D." (unless a Duke); "His Excellency Governor B." Wife, "Her Excellency" (if she resides in the Colony).

JUDGE OF A COUNTY COURT.—"Sir." "Your Honour" (on the bench), "His Honour Judge A."

JUDGE OF SUPERIOR COURT.—"Sir," "My Lord" (on bench), "The Hon. (Sir) Henry B." If a Peer, address as such.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.—Officially, "Your Worship," "The Worshipful."

KING.—Commence "Sire," otherwise as Queen.

KNIGHT.—As Baronet, substituting for "Bart." the correct initials, and if a Knight Bachelor, omitting any affix, though "Knight" is appended in formal style. Wife also as Baronet's.

LORD ADVOCATE.—"Sir," "The Right Honourable."

LORD OF APPEAL.—As other Barons. So Wife, and now so children also.

LORD CHANCELLOR.—"My Lord," "Your Lordship," "The Right Hon. The Lord High Chancellor."

LORD CHIEF JUSTICE.—Similarly, but "The Lord Chief Justice of England."

LORD HIGH COMMISSIONER (Scotland).—"Your Grace," "His Grace the Lord High Commissioner of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland."

LORD JUSTICE OF APPEAL.—"My Lord," "Sir," "The Right Hon. Lord Justice E." (or "Sir William E.").

LORD LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND.—"His Excellency ["Grace," if a Duke] the Lord Lieutenant," and according to rank. Wife, "Her Excellency" (see "Precedence among Ladies").

LORD MAYOR.—"My Lord," "Your Lordship," "The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of L." Wife, "The Right Hon. the Lady Mayoress," and as Baroness.

* The common form "Czarina" has no warrant in Russian. As to the cz or ts, the latter precisely represents the original, and now that it is coming so largely into use it is certainly far preferable: indeed it seems inexplicable how the form "czar" could ever have come into English acceptance, since cz is not an English combination and it is only in Hungarian that it has the sound of ts. It may here be added in reference to "Fedorovna" that the termination -ena implies "daughter of" just as -vitch implies "son of," the "Fedor" (not "Feodor," which is the German form) here being the regular Russian equivalent to "Friedrich," that name of the father having been preferred to the preceding "Ludwig," the corresponding form to which would have been "Ludovic." As to the use of v or w in transliterating from Russian characters, the v is correct for English use and w only for German.

1866, but resigned 1893: born at Windsor Castle, Aug. 6, 1844; succeeded his uncle H.H. Ernest II. Aug. 22, 1893 (the Prince of Wales having in 1863 renounced his claim to succession); married (at St. Petersburg, Jan. 23, 1874) H.I.H. the Grand Duchess Marie Alexandrovna of Russia, V.A., C.I. (only daughter of H.I.M. the late Alexander II., Emperor of Russia, and born Oct. 17, 1853). Residences—The Edinburgh Palace, Coburg; The Castle, Reinhardsbrunn, Gotha; Friedenstein Palace, Gotha; and Clarence House, St. James's, S.W. Issue:

48 1. H.R.H. Alfred Alexander William Ernest Albert, Hereditary Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, K.G.: born Oct. 15, 1874. Residence—Potsdam.

Note.—The net total is 224 living blood-relations besides 60 brought in by marriage (the apparent 234 has to be first increased by 16 for recent births marked a and b, and then diminished by 26 for 25 deceased relatives and the above sister-in-law, the only connection by marriage alone to whom a numbered paragraph is allotted). It may be added that the 224 comprise 11 married couples who are related to Her Majesty on both sides. The list, though unprecedentedly long, has in no case wandered beyond the actual descendants either of the Queen herself or of her first cousins, nephews, &c.

INDEX TO THE ROYAL FAMILY.

 There is an obvious and unavoidable imperfection in the following Index—which has never heretofore, to the best of our knowledge, been attempted—consisting in the fact that the generality of royal personages, especially in some foreign countries, possess each a long string of names from which it is often impossible to select with certainty the one or two which are conventionally used. For the bulk of the names we have had to rely upon the high authority of the 'Almanach de Gotha' or its German original the 'Gothaischer Hof-Kalender.' When, however, a name is found cited under some variation—say, Prince Adalbert of Prussia is termed "Prince Berengar"—the index may still be of service from the double form of its arrangement, for a reference to "Prussia" would in this instance conduct the searcher to the only possible houses under which the name could stand. The employment of parentheses marks a junior member of a family: thus in this same instance we have to read "Prince Adalbert (of Prussia)" and not "Adalbert Prince of Prussia."

German names are usually anglicised in the index even when given above under their originals only, whilst French names are allowed to retain their native forms. The form "Marie" is regular in French, but both "Marie" and "Maria" are of constant occurrence in German (for men as well as for women). The German "Luise" is precisely represented in round by our "Louisa," whilst "Louise" is the only form employed in French.

MARRIAGE ALLIANCES WITH FOREIGN HOUSES.

 The following list, which was originally prepared for WHITAKER'S ALMANACK but has been deemed more suited for the present work, must be viewed as little more than a contribution to the wide subject which it opens. The above Index has enabled us to make numerous additions to it in the form of references to the preceding table of the Royal Family; the paragraphs in fuller form are thus all but restricted either to alliances which are themselves wholly past (reaching back to Henry VIII.) or to those whose basis of alliance is derived through some member earlier than her present Majesty. It is hoped that the list may thus prove sufficiently comprehensive to be valued by those for whom the subject has an interest.

States or Houses having a star (*) prefixed were sovereign at the dates cited but are so no longer.

ANHALT.—See "Aribert" (57), and "Elizabeth" (86).

See "Louisa Margaret" (60), who is a niece of Frederick, the reigning Duke.

ANSPACH.—George II., then hered. Prince, to Caroline, 3rd daughter of Margrave John Frederick: 2 September, 1705.

Frederica Louisa, 2nd daughter of King Frederick William I. of Prussia, and niece of George II., to Margrave Charles William: 30 May, 1729.

AUSTRIA.—Victor Emanuel I., then Prince of Sardinia, great grandson of Anne of Orleans, granddaughter of Charles I., to Theresa, eldest daughter of Ferdinand, Archduke of Austria, 4th son of the Empress Maria Theresa: 23 April, 1789.

Maria Anna, 2nd daughter of Victor Emanuel I. of Sardinia, lineal descendant of Anne of Orleans, granddaughter of Charles I., to Emperor Ferdinand I., then Archduke: 12 and 27 February, 1831.†

See "Maria Theresa" (112), "Margaret Sophia" (113), "Otho Frus. Joseph" (130), "Joseph" (155), "Maria" (182), "Rudolph" (184), and "Maximilian" (191). For the TUSCAN branch see "Louise Antoinette" (127), and "Caroline Maria Immaculata" (152).

BADEN.—Frederick William, 4th son of Duke Charles William, and eventually Duke of Brunswick, great grandson of George II., to Mary Elizabeth, 5th daughter of Margrave Charles Frederick: 1 November, 1802.

See "Marie" (192), "Leopoldina" (198), and "Alexandrine" (234).

BAVARIA.—Elizabeth, eldest daughter of James I., to Frederick V. of the Palatinate: 14 February, 1613.

Francis V., then hered. Duke of Modena, and lineal descendant of Anne of Orleans, granddaughter of Charles I., to Adelgonde, daughter of King Louis I.: 30 March, 1842.

Maria Theresa, only daughter of Ferdinand, younger brother of the above Francis V., to Louis, eldest son of Luitpold, now Prince Regent of Bavaria: 20 February, 1868.

See "Augusta" (159), "Maximilian Emanuel" (163), "Sophie" (175), and "Alphonse" (176).

*BAYREUTH.—Frederica, eldest daughter of King Frederick William I. of Prussia, and niece of George II., to Frederick, then hered., afterwards reigning, Margrave: 20 November, 1731.

BELGIUM.—Edward, Duke of Kent, 4th son of George III., to Victoria Louisa, 4th daughter of Francis, Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Saalfeld, and sister of Prince Leopold, afterwards Leopold I., King of the Belgians: 29 May, 1818.

Leopold I., King of the Belgians, uncle of Queen Victoria, to Louisa, eldest daughter of Louis Philippe, King of the French, and lineal descendant of Elizabeth Charlotte, great granddaughter of James I.: 9 August, 1832.

See "Louise" (183), and "Joséphine" (189).

*BONAPARTE.—Catherine, only daughter of King Frederick I. of Würtemberg, and grandniece of George III., to Jerome, afterwards King of Westphalia, youngest brother of the Emperor Napoleon I.: 12 and 23 August, 1807.

BRAZIL.—Francis, Prince de Joinville, 3rd son of Louis Philippe, King of the French, and lineal descendant of Elizabeth Charlotte, great granddaughter of James I., to Francisca, 2nd daughter of the Emperor Pedro I.: 1 May, 1843.

See "Leopoldina" (150), and "Isabella" (171).

*BRUNSWICK.†—Frederick II. (the Great) of Prussia, then Crown Prince, nephew of George II., to Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Duke Ferdinand Albert: 12 June, 1733.

Philippine, 3rd daughter of King Frederick William I. of Prussia, and niece of George II., to Duke Charles, then hered. Duke: 2 July, 1733.

August William, Prince of Prussia, 2nd son of King Frederick William I., and nephew of George II., to Louisa Amelia, 2nd daughter of Duke Ferdinand Albert: 6 June (or Jan.) 1742.

Augusta, eldest daughter of Frederick, Prince of Wales, and sister of George III., to Charles William, then hered., afterwards reigning, Duke: 16 January, 1764.

Frederick William II., then Crown Prince of Prussia, grandnephew of George II., to Elizabeth, 4th daughter of Duke Charles: 14 July, 1765.

George IV., then Prince of Wales, to Caroline, 2nd daughter of Charles William, reigning Duke: 8 April, 1795.

BULGARIA.—Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg elected Prince: see 167.

*CLEVES.—Henry VIII. to Anne, daughter of Duke John III.: 6 January, 1640.

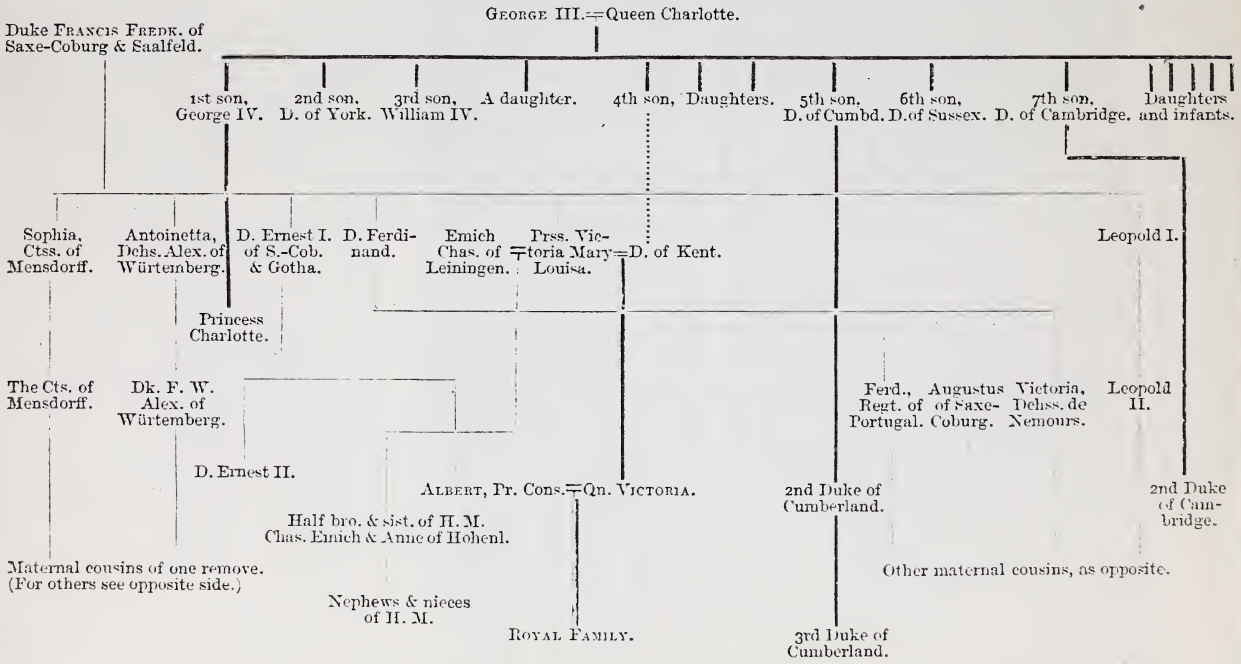
GENEALOGICAL TABLE OF THE HOUSES OF GEORGE III. AND SAXE-COBURG.



OBSERVATIONS ON THE TABLE OPPOSITE.

It will be observed at a glance that the Hanover Line is here exhibited by thick lines, and that of Saxe-Coburg by thin ones. Directing our attention to the former, we observe in the 1st and 3rd places two sons who became well known to us as Sovereigns, and in the second place Frederick Duke of York who died in 1820. In the 4th place comes a daughter, Charlotte Princess Royal, who must be carefully distinguished from the better-known Princess of that name, the only child of George IV. and first consort of King Leopold I., whose death in childbirth (1817) caused such general regret. Next in order comes the Duke of Kent, then two more daughters, the Princesses Augusta and Elizabeth, then the Dukes of Cumberland, Sussex, and Cambridge, and lastly the Princesses Mary, Sophia, and Elizabeth, and the infant Princes Octavius and Alfred. To avoid overcrowding we have had to omit these five names from the table as well as those of the before-mentioned daughters.

Turning to the line of Saxe-Coburg, we note at its head H.S.H. Frederick Anthony, Reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Saalfeld from 1800 till his death in 1806. He was succeeded by his eldest son, Ernest Frederick Anthony, Duke Ernest I. of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, this latter Principality having been acquired by a family compact, while Saalfeld was passed over to Saxe-Meiningen. The Duke died in 1844 and was followed by the elder of his two sons, Ernest Augustus Charles, Duke Ernest II., the younger son being Albert, the late lamented Prince Consort. The second Duke Ernest died in 1893 and has as his present successor his nephew H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh.

Returning to Duke Francis, we note his two eldest daughters, who became respectively the Countess of Mensdorff-Pouilly and Duchess Alexander of Würtemberg; then his 2nd son, Duke Ferdinand, whose own eldest son became Regent of Portugal, while the 2nd married a Princess of the Bourbon-Orleans House and the daughter became Duchess of Nemours. Some of the descendants of these returned by marriage to Saxe-Coburg or passed to Saxony, Hohenzollern, Bavaria, or Austria, which States, with the already noted Belgium, Würtemberg, Portugal, and France, and others that might be added, including Baden, Hesse, Leiningen, Mecklenburg, Hanover, Tuscany, Naples, Greece, Bulgaria, Roumania, Russia, and Denmark, make up considerably the larger portion of Europe for the regions into which our present Royal Family has spread or from which its alliances have been drawn.

Duke Francis's 3rd and 7th children were two Princesses whose names are wholly omitted in the table: the former, Princess Juliana, married the Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, but after twenty-four years the marriage was dissolved in 1820 and the Princess died without issue in 1860; the 7th child, the Princess Marianne, died in childhood. The 8th and youngest was King Leopold I. already mentioned, who, after the death of the Princess Charlotte, married the eldest daughter of King Louis Philippe, by whom he became father of his present Majesty, King Leopold II. We have reserved for the last place Duke Francis's 6th child, the Princess Victoria Mary Louisa, mother of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, but in the first place wife of Prince Emich Charles, who till his death in 1814 was Reigning Prince of Leiningen, and whose two children, Prince Charles Emich his successor and Anne who became Princess of Hohenlohe-Langenburg and Countess Gleichen, were the parents (especially the latter) of the extensive lines of nephews and nieces of Her Majesty numbered 192-234 in our list of the Royal Family.

After the death of Prince Emich Charles the Princess Victoria married the Duke of Kent, and their only issue was our present Sovereign. By their marriage the Houses of Hanover and Saxe-Coburg were again united after the unhappy severing of their former alliance by the death of Princess Charlotte; but the subsequent union of her present Majesty with Prince Albert, son of Duke Ernest I., effected a second amalgamation from which, as remarked on p. 62, the two Houses have seemed to become "practically identified."

PLAN OF THE DIRECTORY.

WHILE aiming at supplying the utmost possible amount of such information as would probably be most esteemed, the necessary limits of a cheap publication have entailed the omission of a few features which perhaps might have been looked for by some; chief among these are particulars as to a person's education, Foreign Orders of Knighthood which he may hold, and the initials D.L. and J.P. Clubs, moreover, are only given in the absence of any other London address, or, in the smaller type, in the absence of any address at all, and then never more than one. The names of wives are omitted when their husbands' titles do not extend to them and they bear no title of their own by birth.

Under Peers' Issue the rule is made to give those of living Peers complete, but to omit the deceased offspring of their predecessors. The word "surviving" is prefixed to the first series from which any are omitted as dead, though the substitution of "Brothers," "Daughters," &c., for "Issue" is usually equivalent. In the Indexes the same person is often repeated under each of his or her Christian names, from want of certain knowledge as to which name is conventionally preferred. The addition sep. implies a separate entry under the surname.

Under Baronets, if there are more than one of the same name, the topographical distinction is added in italics in the heading. In many other places, however, it is appended in the text, as where there is still a surviving widow of an extinct line, or where two names are pronounced alike but differently spelt (as Bailey and Baillie, Elliot and Eliott).

Under Knights, it may be noted that former titles since absorbed in higher ones are only appended (in parentheses) when they serve to indicate the date at which the person was first designated as "Sir." Both under Knights and Companions the military services are given as far as possible in chronological order.

ALPHABETICAL DIRECTORY

PEERS, BARONETS, KNIGHTS, AND PRIVY COUNCILLORS,

TOGETHER WITH

SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF PEERS, DOWAGER LADIES, LORDS OF SESSION, SCOTTISH, IRISH, COLONIAL, MISSIONARY, AND SUFFRAGAN BISHOPS, AND COMPANIONS OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD.

 To the above heading might be added, SUCH MEMBERS OF ANY FOREIGN NOBILITY AS ARE UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE THEIR TITLES AUTHORISED FOR USE IN THE BRITISH DOMINIONS. Of the Maltese Nobles only such are included as are deemed likely to be of interest.

The arrangement followed is as strictly as possible alphabetical, and in the case of several persons of the same surname the rule is as follows: first a surname standing alone (family name); then the higher titles, in the alphabetical arrangement—Baron, Baronet, Bishop, Duke, Earl, Hon. Lady, Knight, Lady, Lord, Marquess, Master, Privy Councillor, Viscount (the widows of each rank coming immediately after that rank itself, as "Baron," "Baron's Widow," the headings "Hon. Lady" and "Lady" being used almost exclusively as references); then follow those having a Christian name in the heading (chiefly Ladies, Honourables, and Companions of Orders), succeeding each other solely by order of those names, the connecting titles, Captain, Hon., Lady, Lord, Reverend, &c., being printed in small letters and wholly ignored in the alphabetising. The list under every simple surname is exhausted before the compounds of that name are commenced, and an arrangement is adopted which brings all the names of the same compound together. Compound names connected by a hyphen are placed under the second or last name, unless some other is the only one in use; but titles (as "Mount Edgcumbe," "Saye and Sele," "Stormonth Darling") and such forms as "Egerton of Tatton" and "Willoughby de Broke") are placed under the first name, whilst those commencing with St., De, &c., stand under the respective prefixes, and M' is created as if spelt Mac and St. as Saint. See the Preliminary List under "Campbell."

CREATIONS. Scot.: Bn. Ogilvy of Airlie, 1491; E. of Airlie and Bn. Ogilvy of Alyth and Lintrathen, 1639.

 The history of this line is involved in two Acts of Attainder which have given rise to confusion among authorities as to the number who are fairly to be classed as Earls. We have followed 'Burke' and 'Foster' in regarding the present Peer as the 8th, but others term him the 10th or 11th. The earlier of the two attainders cancelled the title of the elder son of the 3rd E., the latter that of the elder son and grandson of the 4th: indeed this 4th E. himself, and his younger son whom we accept as the 5th, were considered during their lifetime as also legally excluded, but the subsequent Parliamentary recognition of the 6th E., their immediate descendant, may be regarded as tacitly removing their own disabilities. The former of the two attainders, it may be added, was in consequence of participation in the E. of Mar's rebellion of 1715, the latter for siding with the Pretender at Culloden.

Creation. Bn. Berkeley, Eng. 1421.  The 6th feudal Lord of Berkeley was summoned to Parliament by writ (1st Bn.) in 1295, and his successors each received the same summons till an abeyance occurred between three daughters, followed by the summons in 1421 of the 6th

Bn. by writ, accounted in some Peerages the 1st, thus bringing out the present Buss. as the 15th only. The 14th (otherwise 9th) Bn. was created an Earl, but the succession to that title was not open to females as in the case of the Barony, so that on the death of the 6th E. without a son in 1882, the two Peerages became separated as at present.

CARRINGTON, Earl (Wynn-Carrington). Charles Robert W.-C., 1st Earl (U.K.), P.C. (Gt. Br. 1881), G.C.M.G. (1885), B.A., F.R.S.; late Gov. of N. S. Wales and Lord Chamb. of the Household; formerly an M.P., Capt. of Roy. Horse Gds. and of Hon. Corps Gentn. at Arms, Hon. Col. of Mil. retired; is Joint Hereditary Ld. Gt. Chamberlain (with Lord Ancaster and M. of Cholmondeley); son of 2nd Bn. Carrington; b. May 16, 1843; suc. as 3rd Bn. 1868, cr. Earl 1895; mar. 1878 Hon. Cecilia Margaret Harbord, dau. of 5th Bn. Suffield. Seat, Gwydyr Castle, Llanrwst, Carnarv.; Dawes Hill, High Wycombe, Bucks; town res., 50 Grosvenor St., W.

Creations. Bn. Carrington, Ire. 1796, Gt. Br. 1797; Earl Carrington, U.K. 1895.  The history of the above surname may be thus given: The first Peer bore the patronymic Smith, and was under that name created Bn. Carrington in the Irish Peerage in 1796, and in that of Gt. Britain in the year following. In 1839 his successor adopted by licence the family name Carington, spelt with a single r, and then naturally enough the orthography of the title came to be regarded as the same (in fact, the error was made both ways), until in 1880 the present Peer made a stand for the original rr: it was thus the title that was in that year altered to Carrington and not the patronymic to Carington as the 'Peerages' have been misled into concluding, for though, by the latter being left as it was when the title was altered, it may be said to have been then inferentially confirmed, we are able to assert most positively that the same spelling with one r had been, for the name at least, the decidedly predominating form during the term of the seventies. In 1892, however, the rr was adopted in the family name also by Earl Carrington for himself and his descendants (his brothers continuing the use of the single letter); and finally in 1896 the form in rr was confirmed by licence, with the prefixed addition of Wynn.

Issue of present (1st) Earl (Wynn-Carrington):

Lady Marjorie Cecilia W.-C., b. 1880.
Lady Alexandra Augusta W.-C., b. 1881.

widow of Maj. Hugh Massy (to whose name she had appended "Richardson") and dau. of Maj. W. S. Richardson-Brady. Seats, Stuart Hall, Stewartstown, and Drum Manor, Cookstown, both in Tyrone; club, Carlton.

CREATIONS. Irel.: Ld. Stuart, Bn. of Castlestuart, 1619; Visc. Castlestuart, 1793; E. of Castlestuart, 1800. A Bart., Scot. 1628.  The orthography of the above title appears to have varied in the past, so that we have adopted the form which seems to be the ruling present usage as given consistently by so high an Irish authority as 'Thom's Official Directory,' supported by 'Foster,' and (except as to making the name a compound, "Castle-Stuart") by 'Lodge,' 'Debrett,' and the smaller 'Peerages.' 'Burke,' however, gives "Castle-Stewart," and so, in its list of 'Predecessors,' does 'Debrett' ('Burke' also omits the "of" in the title). In our own ALMANACK we support this as the older form under "Historic Peerage" for dates 1619, 1793, and 1800, but give the modern form in our list of Irish Peers. N.B. The Imperial Barony of the Moray Earldom, which of course is wholly distinct, is given in the Roll of the Peers as "Stuart of Castle Stuart."

CHARTERIS, conventional family name of the Earldom of WEMYSS AND MARCH, but which is strictly Wemyss-Charteris-Douglas.

CHATELHERAULT, DUKE OF. Two Dukes in our Peerage hold the French title of Duc de Châtelhérault—the D. of Abercorn by inheritance from James Hamilton, E. of Arran, who received it in 1548; and the D. of Hamilton, who obtained it by a new creation from Napoleon III. in 1864. (Both their Graces are of the Hamilton line.)

 The orig. Dukedom passed from the 3rd E. of Arran to the 1st and 2nd Dukes of Hamilton, but upon the death of the latter of these without issue the succession devolved upon the 2nd E. of Abercorn. The new creation of 1864 is thus the restoration of a former honour.

NOTE ON THE PREFIX DE.—In all designations of the English Peerage or of English Orders this term is treated as an essential part of the name or title, though these are usually foreign in appearance. In the list that follows, however, there are many names or titles which are foreign altogether, and are only permitted by royal licence to be recognised in this country. In the case of these we have hesitated as to entering the names under the prefix, for this often seems on its very face like entering an English title under the word "Of." But on practical considerations—bearing in mind that this work is likely often to be consulted in a hurry, and especially that there are numbers of titles as to which the average searcher will not know in advance whether they are English or not—it has been thought better to place all such names under the "De," only making this general admission of the want of science in such procedure. Names in Von and Van are treated the same, but not those in the Italian Di. References to the prefix will be given whenever it appears that a name would reasonably be looked for elsewhere. It may be worth adding that our rule as to capitalising follows the lines which would have been theoretically better for the preceding purpose, the De taking a capital only when commencing a surname or title admittedly English.

DILLON, family name of CLONBROCK Barony, also, in one instance, of DILLON Viscountcy, in which in one other instance it is varied to Lee-Dillon, whilst in the family generally it is Dillon-Lee. The three will here be indexed together on account of a confusion as to the actual name of the latter house, which is given by some books as Lee-Dillon. We are able to state authoritatively that though this inversion has in reality been adopted by Lord Dillon's only son, and though the name Lee has been largely discarded in conventional use, yet for some 150 years the regular family name has been Dillon-Lee, assumed originally by Hon. Chas. Dillon, afterds. 12th V., on inheriting the estates of his maternal uncle the 3rd E. of Lichfield (extinct line bearing the patronymic Lee). (All the names are "Honourables.")

Morgan Clifford, and on marriage assumed the name of Clifford before Butler. Seats, Greendale, Clyst St. Mary, Exeter; Knoppogne Castle, Quin, Co. Clare.—See also next art.

Creations. Bn. Dunboyne, Irel. 1274 by writ, 1541 by patent.  William Le Petit, Lord of Dunboyne and Mullingar, was summoned to the Irish Parliament by King John in 1206-7 ('Foster'); and Sir Thos. le Botiler, who on a like summons took his seat in 1324, counts as the 1st, according to 'Burke,' of the series of 24 Barons; but the family give the intermediate date of 1274 for the proper starting-point. This uncertainty is the only pretext for counting from the patent. The family name is Butler for all members with the exception of the present Earl.

NOTE on NAMES COMMENCING WITH FF.—It has been customary with some among the few holders of these names to write them wholly in small letters—a practice against which we venture respectfully though emphatically to enter a protest. It is one of the best-known rules of the English language that every proper name shall commence with a capital letter, and we submit that not even the traditional habit of ancient families has any power to override this law. It would be about as reasonable for some other family to start spelling their names backwards (with the capital at the end) or with the letters upside down! If journalists and the press would only set themselves against it the oddity would soon die out, for it would come to be felt that not only is it the infliction of an eyesore upon the public but it is really a degrading of the families who by thus writing themselves down distort their names into forms which by the law of our language cannot be names at all.

GRAY, family name of the follg. Barony (the Buss. herself taking the name Smith-Gray as there explained).

GRAY, Baroness (Smith-Gray). Eveleen S.-G. (née Pounden), Buss. Gray, 19th in line (Scot.): niece of 14th E. of Moray, and dau. of Lady Jane Pounden (dau. of 10th E.): b. May 3, 1841; suc. to Barony of Gray (de jure) 1895, claim established 1896; mar. 1863 Jas. Maclaren Smith, Esq., of Hazelgreen, Lanc., who with herself assumed, 1897, the addit. name of Gray, their issue to take this latter name only. Seat, Brownswood, Enniscorthy, Co. Wexford; town res., 14 The Boltons, S. Kensington, S.W.

Creation. Bn. Gray, Scot. 1444.  According to "Peerages" other than Burke's, this is the 20th Barony. The contested point is which of the two Sir Andrew Grays was originally summoned; but as the Union Roll places the Barony after that of Saltoun, created 1445, and as 'Debrett' and 'Lodge' accept 1444 as its starting-point, whereas the former of the two Sir Andrews died in 1438, we are compelled in consistency to call this the 19th Barony, though suspecting that 'Foster' may be right in dating it "earlier than 1437." It was a matter of dispute almost at its beginning.

Issue.

JOLLIFFE, family name of Hylton Barony.

 The name is very generally printed as Hylton-Jolliffe, but this may be considered a mistake as no 'Peerage' has any mention of the assumption of Hylton as a surname. The grandfather of the 1st Bn. married into that family and added its arms to his own, whilst the name has been habitually appended to the Christian names of the males; but that appears to be all. The Roll of the Peers, moreover, gives "Hedworth Hylton, Lord Hylton."

Connected with this Peerage there were three Baronies of Keith, of which that of Stonehaven Marischal expired with the Viscounty, but that of Banheath and an Irish Barony survived under female succession until 1867. The Barony of Nairne went by inheritance to the last Buss. Keith, who married the Comte de Flahault. Their eldest daughter, Emily Jane (who was Buss. Nairne in her own right but not Buss. Keith, that title having been devised only to her mother and issue male), married the 4th M. of Lansdowne, thus transmitting the Nairne Barony to his heirs. The name following is that of a younger daughter of Buss. Keith and Nairne by her French husband, and therefore sister of the above late Mchss. of Lansdowne.

Sinclair De Courcy, Esq. Seat, Stoketon, Saltash, Cornwall. See Introd. on the hat-privilege, as also on the premiership of the Barony, which that of Howth precedes but is now merged in an Earldom.

Creation. Irel.: Ld. Kingsale, Bn. Courcy, and Bn. of Ringrone, 1223, confirmed by patent 1397, but preceded by an English Barony by tenure from the Conquest (the family having migrated to Ireland). * Sir John de Courcy, grandfather of the 1st Bn., was created Earl of Ulster 1181, and is celebrated as having, in conjunction with his bro.-in-law Sir Almericus Tristram (who obtd. the Barony of Howth), effected the conquest of Ulster; and again, after having given offence to King John, as having acted as English champion in a single combat with the champion of France (who however fled without striking a blow), thus regaining his sovereign's favour, with the singular hereditary privilege noticed in Introd. The Barony of Kingsale and Ringrone was not created till four years after his death, but the title stands first upon the Roll of Irish Barons.

MAR and KELLIE, Earl of (Erskine). Walter John Francis E., 12th E. of Mar and 14th of Kellie (Scot.), Prem. Visc. of Scotld., and a Bart.; a Repres. Peer for Scotland, Hon. Lt.-Col. of Argyll and Suthd. Vols., formerly Lieut. Scots Gds.: son of 13th E.; b. Aug. 29, 1865; suc. 1888; mar. 1892 Lady Susan Violet Ashley, dau. of 8th E. of Shaftesbury. Seats, Alloa House, Clackmannansh.; Kellie Castle, Fife; club, Guards'.

Creations. Scot.: Bn. Erskine, 1429; Bn. Alloa, 1489; E. of Mar (2nd creation, see follg. remarks), 1565; Bn. Dirleton, 1603; Visc. Fentoun, 1606; E. of Kellie, 1619; a Bart. 1666. * The two Earldoms, "Mar" and "Mar and Kellie," have much intricacy in their history. The origin of the Earldom of Mar is stated to have been "lost in antiquity." In the 15th century the line became involved in dispute, but in 1565 after an investigation the title was confirmed to its claimant, but with conditions so altered that the House of Lords in 1875 pronounced the proceeding a new creation. The succession, however, had continued as before, and in 1834 the Earldom of Kellie was united with it; but on the death of the 25th E. of Mar without issue in 1866 the title of Kellie went to the next male heir, while the orig. Earldom of Mar followed female succession to the present E. of Mar. Finally, on the conclusion of the investigation by the House of Lords it was decided in 1885 that the Mar Earldom of 1565 must also pass to the inheritor on the male side, while the earlier Earldom remained as the distinct Peerage of Mar. Thus the line which for a time had held the double title took now the single one, and vice versâ ("Kellie" had crossed over).

MOWBRAY, SEGRAVE, and STOURTON, Baron (Stourton). Charles Botolph Joseph S., 24th Bn. Mowbray, 25th Segrave, and 21st Stourton (Eng., may perhaps be ranked as Prem. Baron, see below); formerly Lieut. E. Yorks. Mil.: son of 23rd Bn.; b. May 23, 1867; suc. 1893; mar. (same year) Mary, dau. of Thos. A. Constable, Esq. Seat, Allerton Pk., Knaresborough, Yorks.

Creations Eng.: Bn. Mowbray, 1283; Bn. Segrave, same year; Bn. Stourton, 1448. * The Baronies of Mowbray and Segrave were constituted separately in the same year, but became united by the marriage of the 4th Bn. Mowbray with the heiress of the Segrave line, upon whose death the husband became also Bn. Segrave, whilst under his 2nd son the Barony was elevated into the Dukedom of Norfolk. Twice, however, it fell into abeyance between daughters, till ultimately the Dukedom passed from this line to the nearest male heir. This was upon the death of the D. of Norfolk in 1777, and it was a hundred years before the Barony itself was revived by its conference in 1878 upon the 20th Bn. Stourton, who now holds the triple Peerage. It is maintained that the Mowbray Barony ought to rank as the Premier Barony of England, though the Roll of the Peers places that of De Ros before it. This latter Barony, together with those of Hastings, Segrave, and Le Despencer (now merged in the Falmouth Viscounty), was originally created by Sir Simon de Montfort on Dec. 24, 1264 (49 Henry III., the King being then held a prisoner). This creation, being the act of a rebel, was pronounced by the House of Lords to be invalid, and there is no record of any admittedly legal summons to Parliament prior to 1283 (11 Edward I.), when the Barony of Mowbray received its original creation, and the other four, or at any rate three of them, were confirmed by renewal. If that of De Ros did not share in this renewal its maintenance as the Premier Barony is inexplicable, and at any rate the retention of the date 1264 as the year of this or any other creation is an obvious anomaly. But 'Foster' tells us expressly that the De Ros Barony was so confirmed, and in that case the position of the five Baronies presents itself to outsiders as one of equality, in which nicer data would be required to determine the pre-eminence. As to the Barony of Segrave (which, being merged in that of Mowbray, does not appear upon the Roll) the statement in 'Burke' makes it quite clear that it was started in 1264, and referred by the House to "the writ of 11 Edward I.," so that its subsequent assignment by that authority to 1295 must be set down as a confusion with a second Barony of the same house, mentioned by Sir H. Nicolas as existing from that year up till 1330.

Creation. Scot.: Bn. Ruthven, 1651. * The original patent of this Peerage having been destroyed by fire, a question has been raised as to whether it allowed of descent through a female, and 'Debrett' accordingly treats the present Bn. as a claimant only. But 'Burke' and 'Lodge' make no misgiving about it, and 'Foster' makes the opposite comment that "as the title was kept on the Union Roll it is presumed that the honours were to the heirs general of the patentee's body." 'Debrett's own admission that the present Bn., "like his predecessors, has voted without protest at the election of Repres. Peers for Scotld.," would seem sufficient of itself to render the demur needless.

SCOTT, BARONET of Great Barr. Sir EDWARD DOLMAN S., 6th Bart. of Great Barr and 5th of Hartington (both U.K. 1806), M.A., uncle of 5th Bart. of Gt. B. and bro. of 3rd, b. 1826, suc. 1884. Heir pres. to Baronetcy of Gt. Barr, his 1st cousin once-rem. DOUGLAS EDWARD (b. 1863); to Baronetcy of Hartington, by special remainder, Sir ALEXANDER Fuller-Acland-Hood, 4th Bart. (b. 1853). Club, Conserv.

 The above two Baronetcies were created the one in the name of Scott and the other of Bateman, but the latter was made open to succession of male descendants of the 1st Bart.'s daughters. Thus the 3rd Bart. in the Gt. Barr line came at his birth to be inheritor of the Baronetcy of Sir Hugh Bateman, 1st Bart. of Hartington, who was his maternal grandfather. This explains the double name "Bateman-Scott," or "Bateman and Scott."

 There is an indistinct account of an earlier Baronetcy of this line created in 1631, which date is to be found in most of the 'Baronetages,' though they only commence counting the Baronets from 1704. In 'Foster' (1881) the entire line is relegated to his "Chaos," with the statement that an ancestor was "said to have been created a Baronet of Nova Scotia Jan. 2, 1631, by patent not registered, to the heirs male of his body," in which case "the title expired in the person of the 1st Bart." But 'Burke' gives Oct. 12, 1704, as the date of a new creation free from any doubt whatever, and supplies the names and dates of all the six Barts. who have followed the 1st. Note that the three lines of Sinclair Baronets are all of Caithness-shire.

 Some information beyond our ordinary lines may here be acceptable to many in consideration of the special interest which must long attach to the name of Alfred, 1st Bn. Tennyson, facile princeps among the poets of England of the present half-century, and in the pronounced view of numerous writers even something considerably more. But with these we are not prepared to agree, and we are persuaded that Tennyson himself would have been the last to rate his own claims as superior to those of Byron, and it is with the latter that the pre-eminence for the nineteenth century will doubtless remain except in the judgment of a few specialists and of those writers on everything under the sun who, having often but the slenderest acquaintance with their subject, seek to keep up with the spirit of the age by writing bigly and bravely in its advance. From some of these we have learnt that Tennyson is "equal with Dante," "the greatest poet since Shakespeare," and "the foremost lyrist in the world;" while some others, who are reputable enough to have known better, have assured us that Byron was "no poet," and that even his magnificent 'Siege of Corinth' is only a "bad imitation of Scott"! The first place then is not at all likely to be Tennyson's. But what poet is to occupy the second position is a much nicer question, and the respective champions of Tennyson, Shelley, and Wordsworth must continue to discuss it between themselves; while possibly if the literary world would but revert to the reading of Campbell they would find in him a formidable competitor for all three. But we must return to our more prosaic routine.

Ralph Tennyson, Esq., who died in 1735, was a prominent supporter of King William III. His son Michael settled at Preston in Yorkshire and Stainton in Lincolnshire, and married Elizabeth Clayton of Grimsby, a descendant of the 1st E. of Scarsdale, who had previously been created Bn. Deincourt (d'Eyncourt) of Sutton—both titles extinct from 1736 (the Barony of Scarsdale, which happens similarly to be connected with the family of Byron—see "Lovelace"—being a totally distinct Peerage). Their son George Tennyson, Esq., of Bayons Manor and Usselby House, both in Lincolnshire, was grandfather of the Poet, and had, besides daughters, two sons who became respectively the Rev. Geo. Clayton Tennyson, LL.D., and the Rt. Hon. Chas. Tennyson-d'Eyncourt, F.R.S., M.P. The former settled down as Rector of Somersby, a minute village in the Lincolnshire wolds, a little removed from the fen district and not far from Horncastle and Spilsby (not to be confused with Somerby, the name of three villages in either Lincolnshire or Leicestershire). He married Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Stephen Flytche, and had by her the following family:

The deceased George Tennyson, b. 1806, died in infancy.
Frederick T., repeatedly brought to notice as a poet, and stated to be co-heir with Bn. Methuen to the above extinct Earldom of Scarsdale: b. 1807, widower, having two sons and several grandchildren; still living in Jersey.
The late Rev. Charles Tennyson-Turner, Vicar of Grasby, Linc., also well known as a poet: b. 1808, d. 1879.
The late Alfred, 1st Bn. Tennyson, b. at Somersby, Aug. 6, 1809; d. at Haslemere, Oct. 6, 1892. His father died in 1831, but his grandfather survived till 1835, about which time the family left Lincolnshire and were located first at Beech Hill House, High Beech, Epping Forest. Alfred Tennyson in 1850 married, at Shiplake, Oxfordshire, Emily (the late Dowager Lady Tennyson, who died 1896), dau. of Hy. Sellwood, Esq. (of Horncastle, but sprung from a Berkshire family), and niece of Sir John Franklin. A year or two previously he had gone to reside at Chapel House (now Holyrood House), Montpelier Row, Twickenham, where the present Peer was born, and which continued to be one of the residences of his family until 1853, when he removed to his seat on Farringford Hill in the Isle of Wight. It was also in the year of his marriage that he brought out the best esteemed of his longer works and received the appointment to the Laureateship—an appointment made during the Premiership of Lord John Russell two months after the death of Sir Robert Peel and four years after his retirement from office (it was the pension of £200 which Sir Robert had in 1845 conferred, and in connection with which he "read the 'Ulysses'"). The seat at Haslemere was acquired in 1856. (For issue see above.)
